Golden Gloves Tonight: Chicago vs. Germany

EXPECT 40,000 TO SEE BOUTS AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

Contestants Picked from 7,000.

Fair Weather Forecast

C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster, in a special forecast prepared for The Tribune predicted that the weather for the International Golden Gloves contests at Soldiers' field tonight will be fair and slightly cooler. Any showers that might occur are likely to come this morning, thereby lessening the probability of rain in the evening, he said. If the weather is threatening, W-G-N, The Tribune radio station, will broadcast reports periodically to keep the public informed of the possibility of a postponement of the bouts until tomorrow night.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A favorite old American notion of innate superiority will go on trial in the vast stadium of Soldiers' field on the lake front tonight when, 'mid the flash bombs' white glare, the eight national boxing champions of the German republic will move into action against the Golden Gloves team of Chicago. A crowd of 40,000 is expected.

The bouts, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will start at 8 o'clock.

The Germans are the final pick of a field of more than 4,000 boxers of more or less skill who make up the active membership of the boxing clubs organized throughout the country since boxing lost its felonious character under the German law after the war. The Americans are the survivors of an original field of about 3,000 drawn from twenty cities and districts in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa, who began fighting for places on this team nearly six months ago.

Germans Are Confident.

The Germans are tough, confident, fine athletes and dissenters from the ancient tradition that almost any average American can lick many times his weight in continental Europeans. Although boxing is no hereditary knack with them, they have no respect for the idea that a long line of fist fighting forefathers can hop into the ring with their halos and harps to help the Americans in the punching at Soldiers' field.

In the practical, unromantic German view of these things, each American kid who fights a German this evening had to start from scratch, even as they, themselves, when he first drew on a pair of gloves to fight, and the fact that the American ring has produced an overwhelming majority of the amateur and professional champions up to now, has no bearing on the situation.

46,000 Reserved Seats.

The program represents the greatest bargain ever offered in this country in refined but vigorous fist fighting. There are 46,000 reserved seats in the stadium selling from 55 cents to $3.30, and in the event of a further customer demand there will be available about 30,000 more seats, unreserved. The ticket sale was brisk all day yesterday at both the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and the Golden Gloves office. Nevertheless, owing to the great capacity of the plant, there are plenty of fine seats of all classes still to be had and the sale will continue today.

Sale at Field Starts at 6.

The two offices will remain open until 6 this evening at the Public Service office and in the lobby of Tribune Tower, and thereafter the sale will be transferred to 35 ticket booths on the south and west sides of the arena.

The elevation of the receding rows of seats is three times as high as the customary scale and the view of the ring is clear from the bargain chairs in the 55 cent sections, which begins about 60 yards from the ring. This distance is not very far; only about, say, from here to approximately there. The 55 cent customers will enjoy the struggles at a rate of a little more than 1 cent per round, and the character of the trade in these pews to date indicates that the new poor, formerly the rich, have made thrift a fashionable fad. Numbers of those whom the late Tex Rickard affectionately described as great, big promi-

BONUS RADICALS BATTLE POLICE IN WASHINGTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—Communist veterans of the bonus army again stormed police picket lines surrounding the White House today, but were driven off by police reinforcements after an hour of lively street fighting. Nine radicals were arrested before the mêlée was over, while close to a score of veterans suffered minor injuries caused by flying police fists and nightsticks.

Thousands of curious spectators gathered on the street intersections surrounding the White House watched the clash which developed when 200 of the veterans announced their intention of establishing a picket line in front of the executive mansion and followed it up by attempting to elbow their way individually through the police lines.

Series of Street Fights.

Driven off from one line of approach the veterans assailed police lines at another. The result was a series of street fights that began at 15th street and New York avenue and continued intermittently down to 13th and E streets and up Pennsylvania avenue toward the White House. On one occasion two policemen had to climb a large tree to bring down a radical speechmaker.

The siege of the White House by the radical veterans resulted in the locking of the White House gates and the placing of a cordon of police around the grounds. The result was that White House guests and even members of the official White House staff were caused considerable annoyance and embarrassment. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was hurrying to keep a luncheon appointment with President Hoover when a policeman stopped him. It was not until a policeman who knew him came to his aid that the railroad official was able to get through. Many other workers at the White House who had gone out to lunch had trouble getting through the police lines on their return.

Police Lines Established.

The police lines were established shortly after President Hoover returned from a week-end at the Rapidan fishing camp at 9 o'clock. One line of police was placed close to the steel picket fence that immediately surrounds the grounds. Another line was established about 100 yards away on the Pennsylvania avenue and treasury sides of the White House. As an added precaution, extra policemen, in uniform and plain clothes, circulated with the crowd. A flying squadron of motorcycle men, led by Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, rushed from point to point to meet the attack wherever it developed.

Treasury officials backed down temporarily late today on their plan to forcibly evacuate the veterans from federal owned property at midnight tonight. Treasury officials announced, following a conference with police officials, that a twenty-four hour truce had been declared during which the veterans would seek new quarters. It was said that government officials planned to aid in this search. A desire to avoid further rioting was responsible for the twenty-four hour delay order.

Thousands See Battle.

The most spectacular fight of the day took place in the heart of the business section when leaders of the Reds refused to obey police orders to walk in the street instead of congesting the sidewalks. The section was thronged at the time with thousands of government workers off for lunch.

Before onlookers realized what was taking place fists began to fly. One of the radicals, Walter Eicher of Detroit climbed a tree at Thirteenth and E streets during the scuffle and began to make a speech. Two plain clothes men went after him and after considerable scuffling brought him down and deposited him in a patrol wagon.

On one occasion a veteran grabbed an officer's gun from his holster and sped down F street with a dozen policemen at his heels.

Overtaken near 12th street, the veteran relinquished the revolver and was led meekly back to a patrol box, from whence he was taken to the police station.

RUDY VALLEE TO STUDY LAW; AIMS TO BE RADIO CZAR

Boston, Mass., July 25.—[Special.]—With the hope and expectation of becoming the czar of the radio industry, Rudy Vallee today became a student of Suffolk Law school.

Appearing at the office of Dean Gleason L. Archer to fill out the regular application blank necessary for enrollment, radio's original crooner explained that he looked forward to becoming a radio executive, holding a position in that field similar to the one held by Will Hays in the movie industry.

While music is his first love and his golden prospect for many years to come, Rudy aims to exchange stardom for czardom in the radio field and explained today that a legal background was the best means for obtaining this objective.

4 Year Route of 1775 Now Flown in Day

New York., July 25.—[Special.]—Maj. James Doolittle, transcontinental record holder, landed at Newark airport tonight after completing a day's flying of more than 2,600 miles and flashing across the skies of 14 states. The speed champion made the trip to celebrate the 157th anniversary of the first United States postal service established by act of the continental congress at Philadelphia July 26, 1775.

Today's itinerary led the flyer over scores of towns and cities between Maine and North Carolina and west as far as Ohio, which was visited by George Washington, first as a surveyor and explorer, then as a soldier, and finally as a statesman.

Four Years in a Day.

The plane covered 2,610 miles in 15 hours and 40 minutes, a distance which by stage coach and saddle would have taken Gen. Washington four years.

Flying with Doolittle was Miss Anne Madison Washington, a direct descendant of Gen. Washington's brother John. Another passenger was A. F. Maple, representing the Aeronautical chamber of commerce of America, under the auspices of which the flight was made.

During the day they dropped thirty packages of letters, bearing air mail stamps, at various points in their journey of historic interest.

Start Before Dawn.

It was just 4:25 o'clock this morning when the yellow, low winged Lockheed plane lifted from the Boston airport. It was still dark when the plane, its 550 horsepower Wasp engine wide open, roared above Kittery, Me., and turned south for Portsmouth, N. H., and then Providence, R. I., where the flier dropped a bag of letters at 6:30.

Winging southward, Doolittle sped over Trenton, Valley Forge, and Philadelphia to make his first stop in Washington at 9:15 o'clock. South again over Mount Vernon and Wakefield, where Washington was born, he crossed the North Carolina line, and then, swinging westward, passed over old Fort Necessity to Pittsburgh.

After a brief refueling stop Maj. Doolittle turned westward to Pomeroy, O., the point furthest west of Washington's journeys. Turning east again, he sped over Crown Point, Ticonderoga, Albany, and West Point to land in Newark.

KEEPS HIS JOB AS BARTENDER; TELLS COURT SO

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Charles O'Brien, a red headed bartender who was arrested in a raid on a speakeasy in Brooklyn, appeared today before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard. David Marcus, assistant United States attorney, expected him to follow the example set by most of his colleagues on "bargain day"—plead guilty, show a penitent attitude, and pay a fine of from $10 to $25.

O'Brien pleaded guilty but said nothing. Judge Goddard, looking for facts to help him fix a fair fine, asked the defendant if he had a job. O'Brien said that he had and then the court asked him what he was doing.

"Still a bartender," O'Brien said with dismaying frankness.

"You're fined $50," said the court.

O'Brien paid the fine and left the courtroom.

SNOWSTORMS SPREAD MISERY OVER ARGENTINA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, July 25.—Southwestern Argentina is buried under a blanket of three and four feet of snow. One of the heaviest snowfalls in many years has put an end to all activities and caused idleness and hunger.

In Chubut territory thirty per cent of the cattle and sheep are reported to be dead and many towns, including the territory's capital, are isolated. The snows have flooded the Chubut river, destroying roads and preventing communication.

President Justo has received a petition for federal aid to families of laborers who have been forced into idleness. Many of them are living in box cars after having been driven from their homes by the floods.

Baby at Play Stung 50 Times by Bee Swarm

Lois Whitlock, 19 months old, was stung 50 times yesterday by a swarm of bees which attacked her while playing in the orchard near her home in Kendall county, 8 miles west of Joliet. Physicians said she would recover. Two sisters, Ruth, 10, and Doris, 8, and the mother, Mrs. John Whitlock, were stung by the bees when they went to the baby's rescue.

Twenty-one persons were injured when two elevated trains, packed with homeward bound workers, crashed on the Garfield Park line just west of the Racine avenue station at 5:56 p. m. yesterday.

Of the injured sixteen were taken to the Presbyterian hospital after they had been removed from the train by firemen, who used scaling ladders to climb to the elevated structure. Only two were kept at the hospital overnight. They are Warren Gerler, 13 years old, 1117 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park, whose collarbone was fractured, and John O'Byrne, 35 years old, 3835 Flournoy street, who suffered a severe shoulder injury.

Fourteen Cars in Crash.

Involved in the accident were a six car Westchester train and an eight car Garfield Park train, both westbound. Fred Haussmann, 45 years old, of Maywood, was motorman of the Garfield Park train. He was just gathering speed after a stop when the front car of his train drove into the rear of the Westchester train. To the police he declared that he had been unable to apply the brakes quickly enough to stop when he saw the other string of cars, which had halted for a stop signal.

Haussmann, who was slightly injured, was allowed to leave the Des Plaines street police station after questioning.

A panic which developed among the passengers following the collision was halted by trainmen, who assured them that there was no danger of falling from the elevated structure to the ground. A number of windows were broken and the ends of several cars were splintered.

Wreck Ties Up Traffic.

The derailment of five cars caused a suspension of west bound service for several hours. Only the injured were taken from the Westchester train and its passengers had to remain on board for two hours. Another train was then sent to take them off.

Aside from the Gerler boy and O'Byrne, those treated at the Presbyterian hospital were:

ARTHUR F. BRIESE, 32 years old, 1180 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

EUGENE LAMB, 34 years old, 1155 South Mason avenue.

MISS ESTHER WILSON, 29 years old, 1179 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park.

BENJAMIN SUDAK, 43 years old, 4358 Lexington street.

ROBERT SACKS, 23 years old, 746 South Homan avenue.

MRS. CHARLES W. FIELDS, 35 years old, 4718 Van Buren street.

MRS. H. JACKMAN SHORT, 36 years old, Burlington, Ill.

MRS. CHARLES C. WALTON, 39 years old, 954 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park.

MRS. MARTHA P. MORRISON, 49 years old, 742 Independence boulevard.

MISS NELLIE QUIGLEY, 47 years old, 4328 Van Buren street.

MISS LORETTA McGINNIS, 46 years old, 4442 Gladys avenue.

ELDRIDGE J. KINKADE, 49 years old, 1810 South 5th avenue, Maywood.

THOMAS COWLEY, 36 years old, 3514 Harrison street.

JAMES GREANEY, 29 years old, 902 South 14th avenue, Maywood.

Besides Motorman Haussmann and the persons taken to the Presbyterian hospital, four others were given treatment in the office of Dr. A. S. Leven, 1204 Van Buren street. They are Mrs. Eva Curley, 59 years old, 1106 Wenonah avenue, Oak Park; Don Savalnano, 45 years old, 511 South Kilbourn avenue; Harry Dreis, 51 years old, 1235 South 15th avenue, Maywood; and Edgar E. Wolcott, 47 years old, 322 Miller court, Glen Ellyn.

BANKERS LEND MONEY AFTER CERMAK'S PLEA

$1,900,000 Also for City Employes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

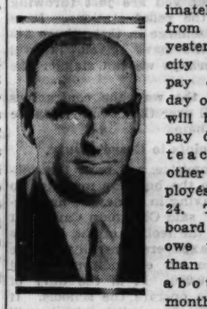
On the eve of his European vacation Mayor Cermak obtained approximately $4,200,000 from the bankers yesterday for a city and school pay day Thursday or Friday. It will be the first pay day for the teachers and other school employés since June 24. The school board will still owe them more than $18,000,000, about four months' compensation. The city employés received two weeks' compensation last Thursday.



ORVILLE TAYLOR. [Moffett-Russell Photo.]

The credit of the city proper appears to be in much better condition than that of the school board, and it was relatively easy to get a $1,900,000 loan for another city pay day. The city pay will be for the first half of May. The school pay will be for the last half of March.

Works Hard for School Pay.

The mayor had to talk for a large part of the two hour session with the bankers in order to get cash for the teachers, however. He appeared tired out when he emerged from the Chicago club after his discussion with Melvin A. Traylor of the First National, Abner J. Stilwell of the Continental Illinois, and representatives of the Central Republic, Harris Trust, and Northern Trust banks.

It was learned that the mayor had been able to get the cash for the school pay roll only after giving a pledge that the school board will reduce its expenditures and tax levies "15,000,000 at least," as recommended by the citizens' committee on public expenditures.

Mayor Cermak's Statement.

The mayor's short formal statement on the result of the conference indicates the narrow margin by which he won. It said:

"I have arranged for $2,245,000 to pay the teachers [and other school employés], relying upon assurances that the school board will reduce its budget as recommended by the citizens' committee.

"If the reduction is not made then the responsibility for failure to secure more funds later must rest entirely upon the school board."

Trustee Taylor Present.

The sole representative of the school board present at the conference was Trustee Orville Taylor. Fred W. Sargent, D. F. Kelly, and Ernest R. Graham represented the citizens' committee.

They are said to have asserted that the school board could easily reduce its expenses and tax levies by a minimum of $15,000,000. Trustee Taylor, on behalf of the board, made as definite a promise as he could that the board will make the saving.

In his argument to the bankers Mayor Cermak was supplemented by Corporation Counsel Sexton, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, and City Controller Szymczak.

Security Is Not Disclosed.

The nature of the securities which will be given the banks for the loan to the schools was not disclosed, but before Thursday or Friday when the cash is to be made available some of the tangles in the situation may be unraveled.

School tax anticipation warrants, in the opinion of the bankers, are unmarketable at present to such an extent as to be undesirable. The new law which permits "teachers' orders"—pay checks for teachers marked "not sufficient funds"—to be used in the payment of taxes, gives those teachers' orders a prior lien on taxes. The state Supreme court is expected to give a recess opinion on this new law in a suit now pending.

The school board tax levy for 1932, which is the legal basis for 1932 tax warrants, will probably be passed by the city council on Thursday.

Expect Call for 1931 Warrants.

It is believed that when the cash is actually handed out by the bankers they will insist that the city turn over tax anticipation warrants for 1931, which are now held in the city's aggregate of funds.

Regardless of the method by which the school money is to be obtained, Mayor Cermak was emphatic in asserting there will be a half month's pay for teachers and other school workers on Thursday or Friday.

Before Thursday the school board will have an opportunity to indicate whether it intends to save "$15,000,000 at least," as the citizens' committee recommended. There is a board meeting on Wednesday, and the three committees of trustees appointed to reduce expenditures can forecast their plans at that time, even if they are not able to recommend specific cuts in expenses.

Recommends Cut of 343 Jobs.

Business Manager Howard P. Savage recommended to one of these committees yesterday the elimination of 343 employés from the force of 2,798 that cleans and cares for the school buildings. The Strayer report recommended the discharge of 502 of these employés.

The abolition of 343 jobs, together with other savings already inaugurated, Business Manager Savage estimated, would mean economies of $1,331,341 on an annual basis.

The committee which heard his recommendation is composed of Trustees Robert F. Carr, Ernst Buehler, William D. McJunkin, Lewis E. Myers, and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan. They as well as Mr. Graham, Howard White and John O. Rees of the citizens' committee, approved of the savings so far as the amount is concerned.

Union Representatives Object.

Labor union representatives objected strenuously to the discharge of 343 employés.

William McFetridge of the janitors' union suggested a way out. He said:

"We had not seen these recommendations of the business manager until 10 o'clock this morning. We want a chance to sit down with him and work out the maximum saving. If we are permitted to do this we will probably not be far from his figure.

"The city did not discharge any employés, although it reduced salaries 21 per cent. We want the opportunity to show how to keep all of the jobs.

"If you throw these employés out on the street you are just throwing them into the relief stations. It is unfair to discharge in these times 343 employés who have given faithful service. Perhaps we can stagger the hours."

"That is the way the contractors are doing all over the country," spoke up Mr. Graham.

Carr Points to Board's Duty.

"The committee will refer the subject back to the business manager to make the saving in money he has recommended," said Chairman Carr. "It is not only the feeling of the bankers but of the taxpayers generally that we must reduce our expenditures by at least $15,000,000. It is the duty of the board to operate the schools. If it hasn't the money the schools will have to be closed.

"If we do not make saving totaling $15,000,000 by Thursday the people of Chicago will be disappointed. The committee approves of the amount of savings recommended, and we will have the business manager work out the plan with the union labor groups."

"We should not stop there," interposed Trustee Myers, president of the school board. "Why not savings in groups not represented by union labor? Why should not the same plan be extended to the educational department?"

English Approves Plan.

The plan adopted met the approval of Trustee John A. English, a union labor man, who was not a member of the committee. He said the union leaders had demonstrated their desire and ability to coöperate with the board in keeping the schools open.

The committee of trustees which is trying to save between $9,000,000 and $11,000,000 on the construction of new school buildings is scheduled to meet this morning.

The state Supreme court, which met in recess session at Springfield, did not hand down any opinions yesterday. Opinions were awaited which would affect the marketability of school tax warrants and tax assessments.

TWO ALLEGED THIEVES SHOT BY CAR OWNER

Two men alleged to have been stripping an automobile of accessories were shot by the car owner last night. The owner, Joseph Cervenka, 2623 South Homan avenue, interrupted the thievery in front of his home. He fired one charge of buckshot at the men. One of them was hit but escaped. Cervenka pursued the other men and brought him down with a second shot. This man was William Zocjtka, 27 years old, 3010 South Turner avenue. He was hit in the right leg. Early this morning Joseph Cerveny, 31 years old, 2407 Clifton Park avenue, applied at the county hospital for treatment of several buckshot wounds in the side and was held by police as the suspected companion of Zocjtka.

MAYOR TO LEAVE CITY TODAY FOR REST IN EUROPE

Party to Sail on Bremen at Midnight Tomorrow.

Mayor Cermak will leave Chicago this afternoon on a European vacation trip which, according to the tentative itinerary made public yesterday, will bring him back to Chicago on Labor day.

The trip is primarily for the purpose of allowing the mayor to recuperate from the near breakdown which forced him to a hospital as soon as the Democratic national convention had closed and which prevented him from visiting his office from that day until yesterday. The mayor's official party on the trip will consist of Dr. Frank Jirka, his personal physician; Mrs. Jirka, who is his daughter, and his granddaughter, Vivian Graham.

Party to Sail on Bremen.

The party will leave at 4 o'clock on the Commodore of the New York Central, and will sail from New York at midnight tomorrow on the Bremen of the North German Lloyd line.

The Bremen docks at Bremerhaven, Germany. From there Mayor Cermak plans to go to Berlin, and thence to Carlsbad, for a six day stay during which he will take the baths. Then he will go to Italy to visit Sanitary Trustee Paul V. Colliani's villa near Naples.

Mr. Colliani, County Commissioner Charles H. Weber, Matthias [Paddy] Bauler, Democratic committeeman of the 43d ward, and acting Police Captain Phil Parodi will also sail on the Bremen, but will not be members of the mayor's own party.

To Visit His Birthplace.

From Italy the mayor's party will go to Prague, capital of Czechoslovakia, and from there they will drive fifty miles to the little mining settlement where Mayor Cermak was born and spent the first two years of his life.

The latter stages of the mayor's vacation are not fully planned, although he hopes to go to Paris and perhaps to London. He will sail for America from Cherbourg, France, aboard either the Bremen or its sister ship, the Europa.

While the trip is planned primarily to give Mayor Cermak a rest, he will take advantage of his visits to various European capitals to promote the 1933 Century of Progress in Chicago. A representative of the World's Fair visited him yesterday in his office and gave him a large file of information concerning the fair.

LAKE FOREST GIRL MISSING; SEARCH BEGUN

North shore police were searching last night for Miss Fannie Turnbull, 19 years old, a Vassar college student, who left her home in King Muir road, Lake Forest, yesterday forenoon after writing a note saying that she felt she was a burden to her family. She is the daughter of Henry K. Turnbull, a real estate operator.

Mr. Turnbull and his wife were in Waukegan when Miss Turnbull disappeared. She departed in her mother's car, but carried no funds. In her note she said was going where she could not be found. Mr. Turnbull notified Police Chief Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest. Mrs. Turnbull was reported prostrated.

Miss Turnbull was graduated last year from Ferry Hall, girls' school in Lake Forest, and shortly afterward entered Vassar.

DRAFT PROGRAM FOR IMPROVING WEST LOOP AREA

A program of improvement and business stimulation for their district was outlined last night by the West Loop Business Men's association at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle.

Among the things for which they will campaign are elimination of panhandling in the streets, the cleaning up of vacant stores, and improvement of traffic facilities. Donald Bruce, secretary, said that the elevated lines would be requested to remove support pillars to the sidewalks and to give better service in the district.

The association has set up a bureau to investigate petty graft and fraudulent advertising and another to disseminate information on real estate.

Deadline for Installment Tax Payments Extended to Aug. 1

County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough yesterday extended the deadline for payment of delinquent 1930 taxes under the installment plan to Aug. 1. The extension was granted as 8,000 taxpayers swarmed into the treasurer's office on what was to have been the final date of payment.

After viewing the crush in his office Treasurer McDonough conferred with County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on a delay of the deadline. Judge Jarecki agreed with the proposal. Taxpayers who pay 25 per cent of their bill by Aug. 1 will receive a reduction of the one per cent a month delinquent penalty to ½ of one per cent and be protected against sale of their property.

Small Taxpayers Coöperate.

"With thousands of small taxpayers coöperating with me in my effort to collect money in the present financial crisis, I thought the least I could do was to extend the time for payment under the installment plan to Aug. 1," Treasurer McDonough said. "The staff of my office has been cut 40 per cent and it would not be fair to deprive taxpayers of the opportunity to pay because my office could not handle such a rush."

Yesterday's payments totaled $685,839, made on 11,112 items of real estate. It was estimated that at least 90 per cent of these payments were under the installment plan. In the two weeks of the operation of the installment plan, taxpayers have paid $2,519,712. Large taxpayers have not been taking advantage of the plan, the treasurer said.

List Evanston Delinquents.

The subjoined list of properties on which, according to the records, less than half of the 1930 taxes have been paid, is taken from volume No. 71 of the county treasurer's office. It covers a portion of Evanston. The names given are those to whom the tax bills are addressed, and these persons in many cases are merely the agents of or the lessors to the persons, who are actually liable for the bills.

The records give merely the item number and the legal description of the property and the address of the person to whom the bill is sent. The address does not purport to be that of the property taxed. The list follows:

Sale of property delinquent on 1930 taxes was formally opened in the county building yesterday. One parcel, a farm in the township of Barrington, was offered for sale. There were no bidders and the property went by forfeiture to the county. The sale was then closed. One property is to be offered daily for a month, after which time sales will begin on full schedule. The plan is being followed to give owners an opportunity to pay their taxes in full or under the installment plan to forestall sales.

Ladder Is Found Buried Near Stateville Wall

A 32 foot ladder was found buried near the wall of Stateville prison yesterday by workmen digging a ditch for the installation of a water pipe. The ladder, made of pipe, was threaded on the end for hooks, prison officials said, and could have been hung from the wall in an attempted jail break. It was found near the greenhouse, in which Richard Loeb, one of the slayers of Bobby Franks, is employed. He will be questioned with 100 other prison yard employés.

NINE HELPERS FOR IDLE TAX BOARD ASSAILED AGAIN

Fairweather Against It; Action Is Deferred.

George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the new board of tax appeals, have nothing to do but sit and draw their salaries until October, when they will receive the first 1931 tax books from County Assessor Jacobs. They don't need nine assistants, including a "public relations counsel and statistician," to help them sit, George O. Fairweather told members of the county board finance committee yesterday.

G. O. FAIRWEATHER

Mr. Fairweather as chairman of the joint commission of real estate valuation, helped draft the bill establishing the board of tax appeals. He appeared before the county commissioners to protest against allowing its members to employ the assistants, at aggregate salaries exceeding $25,000 a year, which Mr. Nixon and Mr. Brummel hopefully informed the county board would be "only the nucleus" of the pay roll that they expect when they actually have some work to do.

Referred to Citizens' Committee.

Mr. Fairweather was introduced to the committee by Commissioner Amelia Sears. As she did so, Deputy County Controller O'Connor whispered to Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, chairman of the committee: "Whealan wants this referred."

"The president wants to refer this to Sewell Avery, Fred Sargent, and D. F. Kelly," echoed Commissioner Kavanagh. He referred to the citizens' committee seeking reduction of expenditures by Chicago taxing bodies.

"This is our own duty," retorted Commissioner Marie Plumb. "We can't pass the buck to any citizens' committee."

Mr. O'Connor then read the recommendation of Mr. Brummel and Mr. Nixon regarding their employés. Each item was greeted with jeers by the commissioners, the outcry reaching its height when the "public relations counsel and statistician" was reached.

Little Work for Them.

Mr. Fairweather then explained that under the act establishing the board of tax appeals most of the detail work in handling tax appeals will be done by the county assessor, who will act as the agent of the board. He commended the report of Thor E. Madsen, county efficiency engineer, who recommended that until they have something to do the tax appeals board get along with a single stenographer to write the members' letters and an executive assistant to mind the office when they are out.

"There is absolutely nothing for the board of tax appeals to do but sit and draw salaries from now until Oct. 1," Mr. Fairweather concluded.

President Whealan appeared in the meeting then. He attacked Mr. Madsen, asserting that he had made his report to the citizens' committee instead of to the board, and added that the board of tax appeals "needs some help."

"I think we ought to defer this for a week," said President Whealan.

"Yes, we ought to defer it for a week," chorused Commissioners Kelly, Weber, Homer Byrd, Walter J. La Buy, Kavanagh, and Frank Kasper. Such action was taken.

FIRE ROUTS 25 PERSONS.

Twenty-five colored persons were driven to the street yesterday when fire caused $2,000 dagame to a two story apartment building at 557 East 36th place. Chief Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan said an investigation would be conducted on the suspion that the fire was of incendiary origin.

LABOR DEPARTMENT PUTS 6,000 WORKERS ON A FIVE DAY WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—More than 6,000 employés of the department of labor will go on a five day week July 30 as a result of the department's decision today to carry out the enforced furlough provision of the new government economy bill by the establishment of a shorter work week.

The department's order, which affects 5,533 workers in Washington and 982 in the field, makes it impossible for employés to accumulate the leave they are forced to take without pay under the retrenchment measure. The 24 days of the required furlough will be used up on week-ends, by not working at all on 48 Saturdays. All government workers get half a day off on Saturday at the present time.

The five day week plan has been rejected as impracticable by nine other executive departments and a number of independent bureaus. Thus far the only federal employés to be put on the shorter week are those in the field service of the navy department, the government printing office, and per diem workers in the District of Columbia.

URGE USE OF U. S. RELIEF FOR JOBS INSTEAD OF DOLE

Plan Is Recommended to Council.

Substitution of jobs on public projects for the dole as the ideal in administration of unemployment relief in Cook county was recommended yesterday by the unemployment committee of the city council and in a resolution introduced before the county board by Commissioner Peter M. Kelly.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois emergency relief commission, told the council committee that the commission is trying to carry out the policy of providing able bodied heads of needy families with paying jobs in place of grocery orders. The committee recommended that half of the $10,000,000 which the state expects to get from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for relief be placed in a special work fund to provide such employment.

Commissioner Kelly's resolution, which was referred to the committee on public welfare, recommended that the county bureau of public welfare, so far as is practicable, be transformed into a work bureau "with the threefold purpose of giving our unemployed citizens work instead of charity, of weeding out able bodied citizens not entitled to public relief, and of accomplishing needed public work with consequent saving to the taxpayers."

In Gary, Mary Grace Wells, Calumet township trustee, proposed yesterday that as a part of the township "made work" program, unemployed men on the relief rolls be given the task of patrolling three miles of beach outside the municipal bathing beaches, where several drownings have occurred.

N. Y. EMPLOYES ACCEPT WALKER PAY SLASH PLAN

Willing to Give Up One Month's Salary.

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—All uncertainty over the response which they would make to Mayor James J. Walker's proposal that they surrender to the city in 1933 a total of one month's salary was removed this afternoon by the action of the various associations of the fire, police and other departments. In each case, unanimously, the various associations voted, through their delegates, to accede to the mayor's request.

JAMES J. WALKER. [Underwood Photo.]

The first to announce its action was the Patrolmen's Benevolent association. President Joseph Moran explained to some 200 delegates what the mayor's proposition implied and what the necessity was for enforcing economy this year and next. After brief discussion a motion passed that the association go on record as unanimously approving the pay cut.

Second Body Follows Suit.

The second association to come through was the sergeants' association of the police department.

Both bodies reported to Commissioner Mulrooney and authorized him to apprise the mayor of their decision.

Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman said after a conference of the heads of the uniformed firemen's associations that the whole fire department will be solidly behind the mayor in his economy campaign and particularly as regards the pay reduction requested. The attitude taken by the heads of the firemen's associations indicated to Commissioner Dorman that the members would be of similar mind. The commissioner said there was no doubt but that the department would accept the cut and "play the game."

Submit Plan for Deductions.

Both the patrolmen and the sergeants of the police department advocated a plan for returning a month's pay to the city—a plan which may be taken up by other groups of employés.

This plan was to make the payment to the city in twenty separate installments over ten months of 1933. The men receive their pay checks on the 1st and 16th of every month. On these days, therefore, one-twentieth of a month's salary would be deducted and returned to the city—or could be deducted by the city in advance.

Heads of other city departments, with the exception of Controller Charles W. Berry, assured the mayor of their coöperation. Berry is at "outs" with the mayor and is expected to oppose the voluntary cut plan and submit other measures for curtailing city expenses. The mayor estimates that the salary cut will save $26,000,000 in last year's budget.

TEN MILLION LOAN FROM U. S. ASKED BY LOS ANGELES COUNTY

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—[Special.]—If there is any legal way to do it, Los Angeles county desires to borrow $10,000,000 from the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation to be expended in flood control works along Compton and Ballona creeks.

The county board of supervisors today unanimously adopted a resolution drawn by Supervisor John Quinn instructing the county counsel to take necessary legal action to request the federal government to assist in the creek projects.

The money would come from the relief bill signed by President Hoover just before the recent adjournment of congress.

DEMON IN ME SLEW DOUMER, ASSASSIN CRIES

Cossack Tells His Story of French Crime.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 25.—Like some twisted thing out of one of Dostoievsky's novels, Paul Gorguloff, assassin of President Paul Doumer of France, today appeared before the assizes of the Seine to answer for his crime.

A brutish, sinister giant of the earth, this one time Russian cossack stood between two guards in the prisoner's dock and unblinkingly eyed the judges. From the depths of his lumbering bulk came a curiously bodiless voice, pitched in a low monotone, that at times gave a haunting force to his own plea of being possessed with a demon. It was difficult to associate that voice with Gorguloff.

From the first Gorguloff made it clear that he was not pleading for his life. Addressing the court, he admitted his guilt, adding:

"I take my life but save my idea. My ideals will save Russia to the world."

Defense Alienists Barred.

At the opening of the trial a plea by Gorguloff's lawyer, M. Geraud, to allow three defense alienists to examine the killer was refused by the presiding magistrate, Eugene Dreyfuss. Most of the remainder of the session was devoted to questioning of Gorguloff by the judges. It was probably the most fantastic dialogue ever heard in a court of justice.

It was followed by an even more fantastic monologue delivered by Gorguloff with the aid of a sheaf of notes.

One of the outstanding points in Gorguloff's testimony was his frequent admiring references to Alexander Kerensky, Russian Socialist premier deposed by the bolsheviks. He had not mentioned Kerensky since his arrest on the day of the crime, May 6, when he crept behind the 75 year old statesman at a book sale conducted by war veterans for war orphans and fired a bullet through his head and another through his back from a distance of only a few inches.

"Pistol Fired by Itself."

After unrolling the tortured story of his life, his adventures with the mysterious "green peasant" bands during the war, his escape from Russia, his four marriages, one of which was bigamous, his career as a physician, his difficulties with the Czech police over complaints of unprofessional conduct by women patients, his founding of the "green" party in Paris and his betrayal by "stool pigeons of the French government and Russian monarchists," Gorguloff came down to the actual drama of his crime.

This was like a story by the Russian novelist. According to Gorguloff's testimony he went to the Hotel Rothschild, carrying two pistols and 27 cartridges in his pocket but had not really made up his mind to kill President Doumer.

"I was pushed on to the crime by a demon which haunted me," he said.

"You wrote in your diary: 'Today I have killed the president of France,' but you mean to say you did not premeditate the crime?" demanded the judge.

Bares Story of His Life.

"I don't know," was the reply. "I saw a white head and the pistol went off by itself."

These intricacies of a Slavic soul made the hardheaded French jurors shake their heads. It was apparent they had serious doubts as to the prisoner's sanity despite the report of the government's alienists.

But when the judge asked Gorguloff why he wanted to kill the venerable and honored president, the mysterious cossack made a very different impression.

"I didn't kill Doumer," he cried. "I killed the president of France. I had seen Doumer in the movies and admired him very much. He was a victim of a political war, just as I am."

"But didn't you know the French president does not direct the policies of the country?" the court asked.

Cossack to Confront Him.

"I always read in the papers that he presided at cabinet meetings and was called the head of the state so I thought he directed the policies," the prisoner replied.

No evidence of Gorguloff's bolshevik connections has yet been brought out, but tomorrow he will be confronted by a cossack who claims to recognize in him a former cheka (Russian secret police) executioner.

Gorguloff's wife, who will be called as a witness, was present at the opening of the trial, but was led out shortly in a hysterical condition.

U. C. INSTRUMENT RECORDS MEXICO EARTH SHOCKS

Earthquake shocks which shook Colima and neighboring towns in Mexico early yesterday were recorded on the seismograph at the University of Chicago. Colima is in the west coast state of the same name.

Two distinct shocks were felt in the region of Colima, and a number of houses which had been weakened by lesser tremors last month collapsed. Hundreds of freightened residents fled to the streets for safety. No deaths occurred, according to dispatches sent out from Mexico City.

The disturbances apparently occurred in the great earth fault underlying the Pacific ocean. First tremors were registered on the local seismograph at 4:18 a. m. They lasted until 6:40 a. m. The instrument indicated that the shocks occurred 2,100 miles southwest of Chicago, which would be close to the location recorded in Mexico.

Girl Poisons Man's Drink, Then Takes Her Own Life

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—The bodies of John Angerano, 35, and Rose Friedman, 28, were found tonight in a furnished room. Police found a note, signed by her, indicating she had given the man poison in a glass of water and then had ended her own life. The note mentioned a baby.

3,500 APPLAUD BILLY SUNDAY AT DRY MEETING

Evangelist Assails Repeal Forces.

The Rev. Dr. William A. [Billy] Sunday, evangelist, roused an audience of 3,500 drys to cheering with an old-fashioned fire and brimstone prohibition speech at the Chicagoland dry assembly at the Des Plaines camp grounds last night.

Dr. Sunday demonstrated that despite his years on the platform he has lost none of his evangelistic energy. He stripped off his coat, pounded a Bible, waved like a windmill, cupped his hands in megaphone style, and reeled rapid fire vituperation at the wets.

Excerpts from Address.

Illustrating a story about a bumble bee which stung a boy, he threw back his head and yelled twice like a wildcat. Excerpts from his address follow:

"The gang of bull necked cut throats is trying to rivet the old breweries, distilleries and saloons around the neck of the American people and saddle the tax load on the bent backs of the hard working men, women and children of our fair land. Shall we repeal a law that these crooks don't like and replace it with a law they do like?

Aims Blow at Press.

"The vile press, more than half of which is owned or subsidized by the booze barons, says the law should be repealed. They are the most lecherous crowd this side of hell and if I were God for fifteen minutes they wouldn't be this side of hell—and that goes for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

U. S. MOVES TO RESURRECT CHACO DISPUTE PARLEY

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25.—(AP)—The United States and other neutral nations today moved to keep Bolivia from quitting negotiations with Paraguay over the Chaco boundary dispute.

Assistant Secretary Francis White of the state department and representatives of Colombia, Cuba, and Mexico drafted a telegram to Bolivia, asking that the negotiations be continued and that the delegation be sent full information on Chaco clashes since June 15.

The neutrals last week succeeded in holding a Paraguayan representative here for the conversations after that delegation had been ordered home.

War Fever Hits Paraguay.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 25.—(AP)—War fever against Bolivia developed throughout Paraguay over the past week-end as political leaders defended the Paraguayan stand in the recently inflamed Chaco disputa.

"Although I have a horror of war," said Minister of Finance Justo P. Benitez, "rather than see Paraguayan soil defiled we will defend ourselves to the end."

GUNMAN SEIZED TRYING TO ROB WOMAN IN LOOP

Ely Thompson, 27 years old, a gunman who came to Chicago three days ago, was overpowered and captured yesterday when he tried to hold up a woman at Adams and Clark streets. His capture was witnessed by scores of pedestrians.

Miss Angeline Baffes, cashier of a Rakilos restaurant at 141 South Wabash avenue, was on her way to a bank with $475, and was accompanied by John Vacalos, 615 South Halsted street, a former chef in the restaurant.

Thompson stepped up to Miss Baffes and tried to seize the package of money. She hung on. Thompson drew his revolver but as he did so Vacalos dived for his legs and brought him to the sidewalk.

As they struggled on the walk for the gun, Albert Maranek, 7205 South Lincoln street, a city fireman, also jumped on Thompson. Policeman Peter Gunkel, on traffic duty at the corner joined the fight and took the gun. Thompson, locked up at the central police station, said he had been staying at 520 South State street since he came to town, and that he was broke.

SEIZED ON SWINDLE CHARGE.

John B. Hanley, 48 years old, accused of swindling a number of rooming house keepers by giving them bad checks, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of Mrs. Ella Stark, 158 West Chestnut street.

SHERIFF DENIES FRIENDSHIP FOR MURDERED AID

Unable to Ascribe Reason for Killing, He Says.

Sheriff William D. Meyering, who has been sought by the state's attorney's office since Saturday for questioning in the machine gun killing of one of his employés, Jack Werner, chief elevator operator in the Criminal court building, returned to Chicago late yesterday after a week-end at Long Beach, Mich. Werner, who had a reformatory record, was shot to death while in an automobile at 81st street and Calumet avenue on Friday night.

Werner has been described by members of the Meyering family as a friend of the sheriff. Within a few minutes of his return yesterday the sheriff denied he was socially acquainted with the man. He asserted he did not know the reasons for Werner's murder. He admitted he knew Werner had a criminal record.

Prosecutors Await Sheriff.

Sheriff Meyering did not go to the Criminal courts building. He went to his office in the county building about 5 p. m. and met newspaper men. At the same time Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ditchburne and Charles E. Lounsbury were waiting in their offices on the west side to ask the sheriff what he knew about Werner.

The sheriff reached them by phone. He said he expected to attend a funeral this morning, and asked that his appointment be set for 1 o'clock this afternoon. This was granted. Werner's funeral is to be held this morning.

In his talk with newspaper men, Sheriff Meyering emphasized that Werner was no social acquaintance of his. The night of the killing Mrs. Meyering was quoted as saying: "We have known Werner for years. He was a fine fellow and I can't imagine him having any enemies."

"The stories printed about my friendship with Werner are an injustice," declared Sheriff Meyering yesterday. "I'm sicker than Cermak, if any one knew it, but I can't take a trip to Europe. I've got to stay here and face the fire.

"Told to Watch His Step."

"I talked to Werner Friday afternoon before he was murdered. I told him that complaints were being made to me about his failure to pay his debts. I told him he'd have to watch his step. I knew him no more than any other political worker or employé in my office."

The sheriff was asked by what authority Werner wore a deputy sheriff's star. Such a badge was found on him when he was killed. The sheriff said that his assistant, Frank Wright, generally took care of star matters. Wright went on his vacation yesterday.

"As a starter, Werner rated a star to preserve order in the building," explained Sheriff Meyering. "It did not give him any power beyond that."

Werner's Criminal Record.

Discussing Werner's criminal record, Sheriff Meyering said he was familiar with the man's past life. [Werner served a term in Pontiac reformatory for manslaughter.]

"I thought he had reformed," said the sheriff. "I gave him a job where he'd have as little temptation as possible. I know nothing about his activities, and I haven't the least idea as to why he was killed. It has been reported that Werner was killed because he attempted to muscle in on the slot machine racket. I don't know anything about that. There are no slot machines in county roadhouses to my knowledge, and I inspect the roadhouses frequently."

Police believe that Werner's murder may have had a background of attempted racketeering in which the deputy star might have been used by Werner as a bludgeon. Detectives learned, they said, that the elevator starter had accepted money for protection from a south side saloonkeeper, and that he sometimes peddled alcohol.

Meanwhile, the state's attorney's office is considering questioning Charles ["Buster"] Brown and Louie Alterie, hoodlums. The name of "Buster" Brown was in a memorandum book found on Werner. It is considered likely by investigators, however, the reference was to "Buster" Brown, an elevator operator in the courthouse, not the hoodlum. Charles Brown and Alterie are to appear in court today in a kidnaping case, and will be questioned then.

PHANTOM RIFLEMAN FRIGHTENS TENANTS FROM OLD RESIDENCE

Hornell, N. Y., [Special.]—Hornell's "phantom rifleman" is at large again, bent on keeping unoccupied an old, isolated house on top of a hill near here.

Undaunted by the fact that at least five other tenants have fled in terror from the house after receiving bullet borne warnings from the invisible sniper, the Rev. Herman Lee Henderson moved into the place a short time ago for a vacation. While exploring the grounds he found a note, weighted down by a rifle bullet of large caliber, upon a well. The note, carrying a threat of death, warned the clergyman to stay away from the well.

As Mr. Henderson pondered the message a bullet whined and tore his hat from head. The report of the gun was faint, according to the clergyman, leading to the belief that the "phantom" was maintaining vigil from a considerable distance. State troopers are satisfied that the mystery man is an expert marksman.

The rifleman is apparently determined to keep the house on the hill unoccupied for some strange reason highly important to himself. He has never been seen, according to state police.

Regardless of his experience, Mr. Henderson intends to remain in the house, he said.

"I am going to stay here until I find out the secret," he declared. "I have done no wrong and have no enemies. Right will triumph."

IOWAN NAMED HEAD OF G.O.P. SPEAKERS HERE

Congressman C. William Ramseyer of Bloomfield, Ia., was appointed midwest director of the speakers' bureau for the Republican campaign yesterday by Everett Sanders, chairman of the national committee. The bureau will be established about Aug. 1, Mr. Sanders said.

Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut will be the director of the speakers' bureau in the east. Mr. Ramseyer said he expected that the speaking campaign would begin in earnest about Sept. 15.

Vice President Curtis is expected at the Palmer house headquarters tomorrow afternoon to spend several days conferring with Mr. Sanders and other leaders.

Roosevelt, head of the National Economy league, regarding coordination of the efforts of the two organizations to relieve the tax burden on the American taxpayers. 'Alcohol King' of Estonia Killed; Supplied Finland

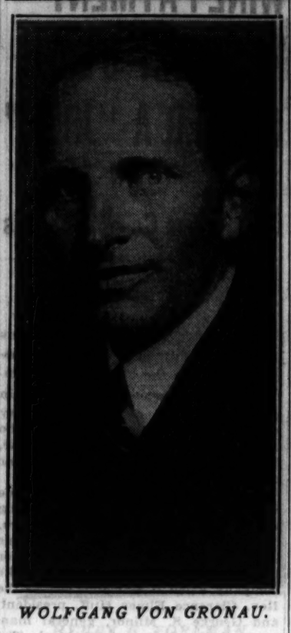
TALLIN, Estonia, July 25.—Estonia's leading bootlegger, Edward Kronstrom, was killed last night when his automobile overturned. He was called the alcohol king because he supplied Estonian potato alcohol to Finland during the fourteen years of prohibition in the latter country.

REACHES AMERICA



WOLFGANG VON GRONAU.

GERMAN FLYERS REACH LABRADOR ON WATER JUMP

Montreal Next Stop; Then Chicago.

BY JOHN BROWNE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 25.—The airplane of Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, who is making a flight from Europe to Chicago over the arctic route, brought his flying boat down at Cartwright, Labrador, at 5:45 p. m. [Chicago daylight saving time] today. Von Gronau took off from Ivigtut, Greenland, at 9:25 a. m. [C. D. T.] for the 600 mile water jump to Labrador, covering the distance in eight hours and 20 minutes.

The flyer, who is making his third trip across the Atlantic by the northern route, left List on the island of Syit, off the German coast, last Friday with a crew of three. He expects to reach Montreal tomorrow.

TRIP AROUND WORLD?

Reports in New York yesterday said the German flyers would continue on from Chicago on a trip around the world.

A German day reception committee was organized at Lincoln Turner hall here last night to welcome Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his companions when they reach Chicago. Dr. Irene Behnke was named chairman of the women's division. Capt. George H. Weideling heads the whole committee. Others on the welcoming list will be Dr. George Schaller, Julius Klein, and Frank Waldherr.

Capt. von Gronau is the most methodical and least sensational of trans-Atlantic flyers. He started each of his three crossings by avoiding publicity, because, he said, "formally announced plans might miscarry." His wife did not know that America was the objective of his trip in 1930.

He is the son of the aged Gen. Hans H. K. von Gronau, who, with Gen. von Kluck's army, almost reached Paris in 1914. The flyer was born Feb. 25, 1893. First a naval officer, he became a naval flyer during the war, later turning to commercial aviation. He and Frau Elsner von Gronau and their three children live at Warnemuende near the Baltic sea. The aviator was formerly chief of the aviation school at Warnemuende [Mecklenburg].

Ghert von Roth, his co-pilot, is a teacher in aeronautical school at List, Island of Syit. Von Gronau's co-pilot on his two previous trips to America was Edward Zimmer, a student of the school.

Franz Hack, mechanic, and Fritz Albrecht, radio operator, have been his companions on all three trips. Hack on the 1931 flight to Chicago overhauled the plane's motors with what few tools he had at Godthaab, Greenland.

Flying Times 47 Hours.

He used the same plane on his first Atlantic crossing to New York. His flying time was 47 hours. He covered 4,000 miles. Later Von Gronau and his companions came to Chicago for the air show at the Curtis-Reynolds airport.

Von Gronau secured a new seaplane in 1931, naming it the Groenland-Wal. Above the cabin were two motors mounted tandem fashion with four bladed propellers fore and aft. He began his flight to Chicago Aug. 8. The flyer reached Chicago after a leisurely trip on Sept. 1. When he returned to Germany he predicted a 48 hour mail service by plane from Germany to Chicago.

DR. WALTER DILL SCOTT AND WIFE HURT IN CRASH

Five Autos in Tangle on Country Road.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university and his wife were injured, the latter severely, in an automobile accident in McHenry county Sunday. This was learned yesterday when Dr. Scott made a report to the Evanston accident prevention bureau.

Mrs. Scott was taken to the Evanston hospital, suffering from a throat injury, a broken nose, and lacerations about the head and face. She was removed yesterday to her home at 1729 Chicago avenue, Evanston, after being unable to talk for 24 hours because of the throat injury. She has recovered her speech. Dr. Scott suffered minor cuts and bruises.

WALTER DILL SCOTT.

The accident occurred one mile south of Fox River Grove and involved five automobiles. Dr. and Mrs. Scott were returning home from the Lawsonia Country club at Green Lake, Wis. Dr. Scott said that his car was struck by another auto, which then crashed into a third one. Two other autos piled into the tangle. Others hurt in the crash were Mrs. Ethel Youngston, 1828 Larchmont avenue, and her daughters, Eugenia and Marietta. They were taken to the Ravenswood hospital.

Six on Sidewalk Hurt.

Six youths playing cards in front of a grocery at 1458 West 15th street were injured yesterday when an automobile ran over the curb and into their midst. Edward Bak, 21 years old, 2444 South Trumbull avenue, a cripple, was the driver. He told police he became confused in avoiding another car and stepped on the accelerator instead of the brakes. He had driven a car only twice before, he said.

Those hurt are Fred Scholl, 19, of 1432 15th street; Joseph Labuda, 19, of 1531 14th place; John Nigacz, 12, of 1823 Laflin street; Nick Oleserchik, 18, of 1450 15th street; John Gall, 13, of 1638 18th street, and Tony Nawara, 17, of 1413 15th street. Scholl's right leg was crushed and later amputated at the county hospital. The others suffered possible skull fractures. All were pushed through the store window.

Baby Dies of Injuries.

Joy Diana Moore, 2 years old, 4417 Ravenswood avenue, died last night in the Ravenswood hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when she was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Kelly, 8101 North Keating avenue, Niles Center. The accident occurred at Ravenswood and Montrose avenues when, police said, Joy's mother went into a candy shop, leaving the child on the sidewalk. The child toddled into the street.

Joseph Lisula, alias Zack, 22 years old, 4735 South Elizabeth street, was fatally injured yesterday when a stolen car which he was driving crashed into another automobile at 44th street and Marshfield avenue. He did not appear to be injured at first, but became ill at the Stockyards station and died en route to the hospital.

These deaths increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 619.

Finds Rattlesnake on Rug Under Dining Room Table

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 25.—[Special.]—A rattlesnake coiled on a rug under her dining room table was found by Mrs. P. Zimmerly of Winthrop, Ia., after she had hunted in the basement for two days for leaking fruit jars which she thought was causing a hissing noise that had disturbed her. The snake was four feet long with ten rattles. It was killed by Mr. Zimmerly.

Girl Hurt in Motorcycle Accident Dies of Injuries

Miss Anna Oberman, 21 years old, 5957 Aberdeen street, died last night in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries received last Thursday when she was thrown from a motorcycle at 79th street and Cicero avenue. She was riding on the rear seat of the vehicle when its front tire blew out. Maurice Goodrich, 2533 West 39th place, the operator, suffered slight injuries.

WHEATON LOVE SUIT LOSER MUST POST NEW BOND

Mrs. Gregory's Home Deal Assailed.

Mrs. Grace Gregory, the Wheaton reform leader who lifted a $5,000 mortgage from the family roof several years ago by accusing Mrs. Jessie Erickson, Elmhurst divorcée, of having an affair with her husband, Albert Gregory, a motorman, ran into trouble yesterday before Circuit Judge Frank W. Shepherd in Wheaton.

On May 11 a jury before Judge Shepherd ordered Mrs. Gregory to give Mrs. Erickson back the $5,000, with interest at 3 per cent since 1925. Mrs. Gregory took an appeal, and it was the bond which she posted for the appeal which caused her trouble yesterday.

Bond Signed by Mayor.

William H. Caldwell, mayor of Wheaton and an ally of Mrs. Gregory in past dry crusades, signed the bond. He swore that he was the owner of the Gregory homestead from which the mortgage was lifted, and of another piece of property formerly owned by Mrs. Gregory.

Last week Glenn T. Johnson, attorney for Mrs. Erickson, established that Mrs. Gregory did not deed the property to Caldwell until the day after he swore to the bond, and then under an agreement that he will return it to her when the appeal is ended.

Appeal Bond Canceled.

Judge Shepherd canceled the appeal bond yesterday, and gave Mrs. Gregory five days to post a new one.

Caldwell pleaded that he did not realize what a serious offense he committed in swearing falsely to the bond. Judge Shepherd stated that he would accept the explanation and would take no action against Caldwell.

RIOT AT FUNERAL OF CUBAN PLOT VICTIMS; JAIL 60

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, July 25.—The military funeral accorded the nine victims of yesterday's bombings and shootings was attended by a series of riots today. Persons opposed to the government of President Machado attempted to create disturbances during the procession to the cemetery, and police and troops were forced to make several charges to disperse a crowd of 2,000. Shots were fired at the police squad which led the cortége but no casualties were reported.

Army detectives and the regular police force continued to search conspiracy centers today and to seize leaders of the opposition group who are accused of being responsible for the recent series of outrages. About sixty persons were arrested.

One death resulted late last night in shooting between police and opposition ists. Antonio Alvarez, charged with being one of the group which assassinated Calvo, Cuban military leader, was killed.

ROOSEVELT'S SON DENIES FORECAST OF QUICK REPEAL

'Special Session' Report Worries Leaders.

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Something of a hullabaloo was created in presidential political circles today by a dispatch from Worcester, Mass., quoting James Roosevelt, son of the New York governor, as saying that his father, if elected president, would call a special session of congress to amend the Volstead act and inferentially to give us beer.

Democratic national headquarters quickly took notice of the dispatch and soon there was forthcoming a denial of the quoted remarks. This denial was issued in the name of young Roosevelt but was given out by the Democratic headquarters. Whether young Roosevelt was in New York or at his Boston home, reporters were unable to ascertain. It was said in Boston no denial had been issued there and young Roosevelt could not be reached.

Text of Son's Denial.

The denial issued in young Roosevelt's name read:

"I made no reference yesterday at the Worcester Democratic club clambake to the calling of a special session by my father in the event of his election, nor did I in any way quote him concerning this or any other matter. Now or at any future time I do not presume to speak for him in any way unless I specifically so state by direct authority. I made no reference to an extra session."

In the face of the New York denial the Boston Herald News bureau, which sent out the quoted remarks, persisted in its belief in the accuracy of the account of the young man's speech. The "regular Worcester correspondent" insists young Roosevelt said:

"There will be much suffering next winter. The Democratic president will call a special session of congress, if necessary, after March 4 to modify the Volstead act to provide employment for many citizens."

Denial Credited to Governor.

The presumption in local political circles was that Gov. Roosevelt had become disturbed by the remarks attributed to his son and had suggested, if he did not direct, the denial as issued at Democratic headquarters.

Some of the party leaders were openly worried until the denial was published in the afternoon papers. These leaders felt that in the event of a party victory a special session of congress might be warranted for economic or tariff legislation but not for the sole purpose of amending the Volstead act. The leaders did not appear anxious to bring this issue into the campaign.

FARMER IN HOLE AS FARM BOARD UPSETS MARKET

Wrecks Crop Prices and Allied Business.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., July 25.—[Special.]—American farmers, the farmer owned cooperatives, and private business in the grain exchanges and central markets were pictured today as co-victims of the operations of the federal farm board in an effort to establish a governmental dictatorship in food. The wheat men had their opening day before the Shannon congressional committee which is delving into government as a competitor of the taxpaying business man and farmer.

The experiment in price fixing on farm crops was declared a "more colossal and tragic failure" than England's kindred experiment in rubber, Japan's in silk, Cuba's in sugar, and Brazil's in coffee.

Among the results pointed to were the squandering of 500 million dollars of tax money by the board, farm prices that have slumped to a record bottom low, loss of foreign markets, an accumulation of the surplus which the farm board was theoretically supposed to diminish, lower prices but higher taxes for the farmer, while business men are being squeezed to the wall and depression is still sticking around the corner.

Farmers Relieved—of Everything.

As to farm relief, it appeared from the evidence that the farmer has been relieved of nearly everything but his shirt.

Frank A. Theis, former president of the Kansas City board of trade, as spokesman for grain exchanges in ten cities, made the first presentation. He put in voluminous data as a chronological and historical background for the twenty-one charges on which the grain trade arraigns the farm board as a "tragic government adventure" in agriculture and in private business.

M. W. Borders, opening the hearing, said the farm board "has had a withering effect on everything it has touched, primarily because the law on which it is founded is not economically sound."

How a "favored group" went in on a shoestring of about $47,790 in actual cash and through unlimited access to millions of dollars of tax money at low interest rates, and often without collateral, developed into an agency that is striving to absorb and monopolize the great marketing plant built up by private business since the civil war was described by Mr. Theis.

National Grain Not a Coöp.

"The Farmers' National Grain corporation," he said, "is not a coöperative. It was formed under the farm board as a ten million dollar Delaware corporation. Its members paid in $47,790 in cash on stock subscriptions of $480,000—about 10 per cent of the stock subscriptions—and now $76,000 has been paid in. All the regionals associated with the National Grain have a total membership of only 250,000, or about 10 per cent of the grain producers. But this corporation with its $76,000 in paid up cash, had loans from the government at one time of 38 million dollars and now has loans in excess of 16 millions—all on a capital of $76,000.

"In Kansas City it paid $2,300,000 for the Hall-Baker establishment, including its elevators, stocks of grain and other property, and paid $255,000 for good will. It was the wedge it bought to get into the Kansas City market, just as in Chicago it took the Updike Grain company.

Drives Out Private Business.

"It has acquired 60 million bushels of elevator capacity at the terminals and is controlled and financed as an agency of the government to tear down and take over and monopolize what private business and farmer owned coöperatives have built up at vast expenditures. This gigantic governmental agency in business is handling a tremendous volume of business, greater than any private house, all on a capital of $76,000, because it has unlimited access to government tax monty at low rates."

Evidence to show that the actual farmer himself does not get the government money so cheap was introduced by Mr. Theis. Every time it goes through an agency it picks up 2 per cent. The millions of taxpayers' money, he said, is loaned to the Farmers National at 1½ to 2 per cent; when the coöperatives get it the rate is 3½ to 4 per cent, and when the farmer gets it the rate is 6 per cent or more. What becomes of these great amounts of interest has not yet been revealed.

"This ten million corporation, with its paid in cash of only $76,000," said Mr. Theis, "has had a commission for every bushel bought for the Grain Stabilization corporation—some 329 million bushels. It receives interest on government money; it collects a commission for sales of grain abroad for the stabilization concern; it collects penalties from affiliated coöperatives who dare to sell through some other agency to get a higher price. We ask is it not an effort at government monopoly? To our way of thinking it is nothing but government in private business, destroying, through use of tax moneys, business men and producers from whom the taxes are collected."

The farm board has operated in a contrary direction from which President Hoover at the outset said it must travel, so the evidence put in by Mr. Theis set up. For one thing, it is charged with enlarging the surplus, instead of diminishing it, and of killing off the foreign outlet for the American grain surplus. The efforts of the farm board to dump the grain abroad have resulted in retaliatory tariffs in 36 countries.

Gives Comparative Figures.

Mr. Theis gave comparative figures. In 1928 the tariff on wheat in France was 37 cents, today it is 85 cents. In Germany it jumped from 32 cents to $1.63, in Italy from 39 cents to $1.03 and in Austria from nothing to 55 cents a bushel. On flour in the same period France jumped its tariff from $2.50 a barrel to $5.58, Germany from $2.43 to $9.23, Italy from $1.98 to $5 and Austria from a negligible amount to $4.22.

"The accumulation of the surplus and the dumping effort have had terrific effect in reducing prices to the American farmer."

Getting further into business, the government in September, the witness pointed out, will go into competition with coffee merchants by starting to dispose of the 1,050,000 bags of coffee the farm board got from Brazil as a swap for 25,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat, which is said to have netted the farm board a dime a bushel for wheat which had cost it an average of 82 cents a bushel.

Farm States Lose Taxes.

As further evidence that the wheat experiment is a governmental food monopoly enterprise instead of a farmer owned venture, Mr. Theis cited the recent cases in Kansas. Here the counties began levying taxes against stabilization grain stored in elevators, and some counties sought to attach some of the wheat.

The farm board protested it was government property. In a test case Federal Judge Richard P. Hopkins issued a temporary injunction restraining the Kansas counties from attaching the wheat, sustaining the contention it is government property and not subject to taxation.

Some of the practices of the farm board and its subsidiaries which are piling up grief for producers and commission men were narrated by James N. Russell, 32 years a grain merchant here, who says the farm board "has about destroyed my own business, which I spent years in building up."

Among the examples he cited was the Equity Union Grain company, allied with the farm board.

Given Price Preference.

"After the stabilization board," said Mr. Russell, "ordered all buying on the terminal markets to cease at the pegged price of $1.15, which was in May, 1930, the Equity association was permitted by the stabilization board to accept wheat from its local members at the pegged price of $1.15 and redeliver to the stabilization board at $1.15.

"At that time the open market price, after the pegged price ceased, was from 90 cents to $1 during May.

The Equity Union handled a million bushels on this basis for its stockholder elevator accounts—in other words, the Russell Grain company—for its shippers were able to receive only the open market price of 90 cents to $1 during May while the Equity was able to sell its consignment to the stabilization board at $1.15.

"The Equity company during this time obtained as stockholders many elevator companies in Kansas and Nebraska, advising them if they would take stock they would receive the $1.15 pegged price. Some coöperatives accepted membership subscriptions to the Equity as low as $10. Terms in most cases were only 20 per cent cash. And I am advised a large percentage of these notes are past due and coöperatives are finding it difficult to collect.

Notes Receivable $75,837.

"The Equity association statement as of April 30, 1932, shows as assets in their company notes receivable, stock subscriptions, $75,837. I am advised that these notes have been put up as security and a loan obtained from the Farmers National Grain company at Chicago of $56,735. The interest charged to Equity is only 3¼ per cent."

"The grain commission merchants have always been willing to work with coöperatives on a fair basis, but in the evidence I present the competition was not fair because my competitor was given financial facilities by the government which were not available to me. I had not only cheap money to contend with but a material cash bonus in the way of prices considerably over the market."

On Way to Detroit

Norman Selby, better known in the prize ring as Kid McCoy, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Detroit, where he will go to work for the Ford Motor company. Selby was recently released on parole from San Quentin prison after serving eight years for the murder of Theresa Mors in Hollywood. Selby arrived by plane, accompanied by his pet canary, "Mike," which the former fighter carried in a cage. He stated that work on the road gangs had kept him in perfect physicial condition during his prison term. He reached Detroit later in the day.

WINE PAYMENT IN GRAIN DEAL CALLED A "JOKE"

U. S. Farm Co-op Officials Relieved.

The mystery of the three barrels of wine that figured in the stock transaction between the Updike Grain company and the Farmers' National Grain corporation was dispelled yesterday and a half dozen federal officials, who hadn't known just what steps to take, breathed deeply and mopped their brows with a feeling of relief.

The transaction of a year ago came to light in the records of a meeting of the Board of Trade's directors, which disclosed that J. F. Florentine Jr. received three barrels of wine for his one share of stock in the Updike company when it was sold out to the Rev. Clarence Elmer Huff, president, and George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National. The stock of the company was purchased at $200 a share, therefore $200 was the valuation put on the three barrels of wine turned over to Mr. Florentine for his one share of stock.

Federal officials were wondering whether there was any violation of the Volstead act in the deal, whether the wine was legally manufactured and the excise paid, and whether the manufacturer had a permit.

Arthur E. Hamilton, assistant dry administrator, said he hadn't determined what action to take and was interested in finding out whether the wine was tendered in consideration of money. William Kennedy, assistant supervisor of permits, said no permit could be issued for the manufacture or transfer of bootleg wine. Gregory T. Van Meter, collector of internal revenue, was advised by his legal staff that he had nothing to do with collecting taxes on illegal wine. Assistant United States Attorney Walter E. Wiles said the prohibition enforcers had sole jurisdiction over taxes and penalties.

The whole problem was complicated by the fact that the Farmers' National is a subsidiary of the federal farm board, one of President Hoover's projects.

But F. J. Thatcher, a large stockholder in the Updike company, explained that the wine testimony before the Board of Trade directors was "just a joke."

"I sold my stock along with Mr. Florentine's one share and then owed him $200," said Mr. Thatcher. "When I told him I was getting in some grape juice he asked me to get him some for the $200. That's why I told the directors that Mr. Florentine didn't exactly get $200 but three barrels of wine."

VON PAPEN ENDS MILITARY RULE IN BERLIN TODAY

Supreme Court Gives Him Free Hand in Prussia.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 25. — Chancellor Franz von Papen's government tonight decided to put an end to martial law in Berlin and the province of Brandenburg tomorrow. Military rule was established on July 20 in order that Von Papen, as federal dictator of Prussia, might have a free hand.

FRANZ VON PAPEN.

The decision to end martial law followed the refusal of the Federal Supreme court at Leipzig to restrain the chancellor from intervening in the internal administration of Prussia. President Paul von Hindenburg will be asked by the cabinet to rescind the martial law decree tomorrow morning.

The reichstag committee on the protection of people's rights early today requested the reich's government to end martial law, cancel the emergency decrees prohibiting open air political gatherings, and to ban the wearing of uniforms by political organizations. Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of the interior, snubbed the committee and said the cabinet was not answerable to the reichstag's representatives.

Based on Prussia's Plea.

The action of the Leipzig Supreme court permitting the chancellor's intervention in the affairs of Prussia, was based on the application of the deposed government of Prussia.. The court held that if an injunction restraining Von Papen from intervening in the state were granted it would involve a division of power between the chancellor, acting as dictator, and the cabinet he ousted.

"This would only make conditions worse," Dr. Bumke, the court's president said.

The court promised an early decision on the fundamental aspects of the constitutional issues raised by Prussia and her co-petitioner states, Baden and Baveria. It is certain that the decision will not be announced until after next Sunday's reichstag elections.

Franz Bracht, Prussian minister for home affairs and Von Papen's ally, has announced that he will recommend the cancellation of the order forbidding state officials from becoming members of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party.

Reds Attack Nazis.

BERLIN, July 25.—(AP)—Sudden communist attacks on Adolf Hitler's Nazis were reported tonight in different parts of Berlin suburbs. Police dispersed most of the demonstrators in northern, eastern and southeastern suburbs with their clubs, but in one case they fired and one man was wounded in the chest.

There were new rumors tonight of a possible attempt by the National Socialists to seize power if they did not get it through the ballots of the people at next Sunday's reichstag elections.

Kaiser Under Fire.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, July 25.—Leaders of the radical and communist parties in the Dutch lower house of parliament today urged the government to take steps against the political activities of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. They asked what measures the government would take in the event that the former kaiser attempted to return to Germany from his exile at Doorn. They also asked what the government's intentions are concerning the former emperor's habit of signing his correspondence, "Imperator Rex." In recent weeks the names of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and his brother have been linked with a political movement said to involve the restoration of the monarchy in Germany.

LOSES LEG UNDER TRAIN.

Richard Green, 22 years old, 628 West 49th street, lost his left leg yesterday when he attempted to swing aboard a freight train on the Chicago Junction railway at 26th street and Western avenue, and fell beneath the wheels. He was taken to the county hospital.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

BUSTER KEATON.

NATALIE TALMADGE KEATON.

BUSTER KEATON'S WIFE FILES SUIT FOR A DIVORCE

Mother Gets Two Sons; Wed 11 Years.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—Buster Keaton, the smileless comedian of the films, was sued for divorce today by Natalie Talmadge Keaton.

"She doesn't want me any more," Keaton remarked recently with a disconsolate air. "She has decided that I'm incompetent and unreliable—that I'm just a washout."

Mrs. Keaton charged "extreme mental cruelty." She is the sister of Norma and Constance Talmadge, noted actress sisters.

The suit climaxes a series of recent marital disputes. The two were married more than eleven years ago. Until the last few months Hollywood never heard of trouble between them.

Children to Mother.

Mrs. Keaton's attorney said a property settlement had been reached and the custody of the two children, Joseph, 10, and Robert, 8, would be given the mother.

Mrs. Keaton charged the comedian lately had been absent from home at "all hours" and had declined to explain.

She said she suffered "great humiliation and mortification" as a result of an airplane flight by the actor and their two sons toward Ensenada, Lower California, against her wishes.

Enlisting the aid of police, she had Keaton detained when the plane landed at San Diego. With the return of Keaton and the boys she went home to mother for several days.

Quarrel Over Yacht.

Another break came about ten days ago when they quarreled over a yachting trip. Mrs. Keaton left again.

The yacht was a 98 foot craft, the Canim, for which the comedian was reported to have paid $100,000 a month ago.

Last February Keaton's face was scratched and eyes blackened by Kathleen Kay, an actress. The dispute occurred on a studio lot and the cause was announced as an attempt by the actress to collect $25,000 from Keaton.

Keaton, who entered the movies years ago with Roscoe [Fatty] Arbuckle, has continued as a star nearly as long as any comedy player in Hollywood. He is 36 years old. An expressionless face has been his chief stock in the funny man trade.

Charged with Damaging Clothes in Cleaning Plant

Joseph Schlehofer, 2950 West Jackson boulevard, was arrested yesterday and charged with causing damage of $1,500 to clothing in the plant of the Globe Cleaners and Dyers, 3313 Ogden avenue. Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office said that Schlehofer put a phosphorus compound in the pocket of a suit which he sent to Max Wilensky's tailor shop, 4242 Archer avenue, for cleaning. Wilensky sent the suit to the Globe plant, where the compound ignited. Schlehofer refused to confess any connection with rival cleaners. He will be charged with malicious mischief, Roch said.

FILIPINO FARMERS LEAVE FLORIDA ON ORDERS OF WHITES

Pahokee, Fla., July 25.—(AP)—The last of a colony of 58 Filipino farmers, who were ordered by white neighbors to evacuate their leased holdings in the rich bean producing area, started their trek in search of new homes tonight.

Most of the group, who came here two years ago, left Saturday. Eleven remained, of whom six had been granted permission temporarily to stay because they had started raising a summer bean crop.

White farmers estimated variously to number between 200 and 250, visited the Filipino colony Friday night and ordered the members to evacuate by tonight. Reason for the action was understood by Chief of Police F. R. Harrison to be a report that some 3,000 additional Filipinos were en route here from the Imperial valley of California.

JOBLESS RIOT IN NEWFOUNDLAND; DEMAND MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, July 25.—This city was thrown into an uproar tonight by an unemployment demonstration. Stones hurtled through the air and shattered bank and store windows while the police made futile attempts to disperse the mob. Several policemen were injured by flying missiles.

For several days 1,000 unemployed men have been awaiting a loan of $100,000 which is being made to the city council by the banks to relieve distress. The mob first marched to the home of Acting Premier H. A. Winters to demand immediate relief. He was not at home, however. In an ugly mood, the rioters then began to attack the big stores. Government buildings were surrounded by police.

Early in April similar riots were directed against Sir Richard Squires, then premier. He was roughly handled by the mob, the leaders of which threatened to toss him in the harbor. Sir Richard was defeated in the elections on June 11 and was succeeded by F. C. Alderdice.

Naval Lieutenant Kills Self on Ship with Poison

San Diego, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—Edgar W. Hampson, a lieutenant, junior grade, attached to the submarine tender U. S. S. Holland, ended his life aboard ship late last night by swallowing poison, naval authorities reported. Hampson recently had been arrested for overstaying leave. He was born in Chicago in 1899 and was appointed to the naval academy from St. Louis.

WETS ROLL UP 160,000 MARGIN IN TEXAS VOTE

"Ma" Ferguson in Runoff with Gov. Sterling.

Dallas, Tex., July 25.—[Special.]—The lead of the wets in Saturday's primary election on a proposal to have the eighteenth amendment submitted to the people again continued to grow today.

With 239 out of 254 counties reported the totals stood: For submission, 261,389, against, 101,497.

Only a few more than a majority of the voters in the primary marked the proposition ballots, and the dry forces took the attitude that many who refrained were of their faith concerning liquor's return. Senator Morris Sheppard, co-author of the 18th amendment, declined to comment on the significance of the vote.

Mrs. Ferguson Leads.

The race for the nomination for governor, in this state equivalent to election, showed Mrs. Miriam [Ma] Ferguson with a comfortable lead over Gov. R. S. Sterling. Her total to date was 300,805. Sterling's was 223,813, and the third candidate, Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, 137,208, and others, 29,953.

Gov. Sterling contended that in the runoff primary, which must be held, history will repeat itself and he will be given a majority over Mrs. Ferguson. Two years ago he was second to the woman candidate in the first primary and then defeated her in the second.

Losers' Action Doubtful.

Hunter and M. H. Wolfe, fourth finisher in the race, have been invited by the governor to join his fight. Hunter has, however, pledged himself to take no sides and Wolfe refused to talk about his stand at this time.

Practically the entire burden of Mrs. Ferguson's campaign was carried by her husband, James E. Ferguson, who was once governor and was removed by impeachment.

"My wife will certainly win in the runoff primary," said Ferguson.

"Jim is the best old prognosticator I know," commented the wife.

VOTE FOR INDIANA CHANGE

Indianapolis, Ind., July 25.—[Special.]—The Indiana house of representatives today voted fifty-eight to thirty-eight to amend the Indiana bone dry law.

This law, which was enacted in 1925 at the height of the Ku Klux Klan and Anti-Saloon league sway over Indiana politics, was designed to make Indiana the most arid state in the Union.

The changes offered today were proposed by Jacob Weiss, Indianapolis Democrat, and they were championed by W. E. Stanton, Lake county Democrat. The changes would result in restrictions no more stringent than those of the federal prohibition laws and also would permit prescription of medicinal liquor taxed at 50 cents a pint and dispensed by pharmacists licensed at $25 annually for wholesalers and $5 for retailers. Penalties are reduced to hundred dollar fines and six months' imprisonment.

Mr. Stanton, in closing the debate for the bill, cited the action of both Republican and Democrat state conventions in June in declaring for modification.

When the vote was taken the Democrats from urban and more populous districts voted for liberalization while the Republicans, mostly from the rural regions, voted against it. The liberals tried to modify the bill to give it a chance in the senate, which has a Republican dry majority. The house refused to modify the law in a test in 1931.

Embassy Denies Mellon Plans to Resign as Envoy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—The American embassy issued a categorical denial today of British rumors that Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, intends to resign as American ambassador to Great Britain after his arrival in the United States. He sailed with his son, Paul, last week on a two months' vacation.

DIES IN HOSPITAL

HENRY G. FOREMAN.
[Moffett Photo.]

HENRY FOREMAN, FORMER COUNTY BOARD HEAD, DIES

Prominent in Realty Business.

Henry G. Foreman, realty man, banker and one time president of the county board, died yesterday morning in St. Luke's hospital at the age of 75. Mr. Foreman had been ill with a complication of ailments for about two weeks and went to the hospital for a minor operation.

Mr. Foreman was born in Chicago, at Madison and Wells streets, in 1857, the son of Gerhard Foreman, pioneer Chicago banker. When he grew up he entered his father's banking business but withdrew many years ago to devote his time to real estate. He was one of the organizers of the Chicago Real Estate board and of the Chicago Stock exchange.

Named Park Board Head.

Mr. Foreman was appointed to the south park board in 1902 and was president of the south park commissioners from 1903 to 1913. He was a leader in the development of the system of small parks in the city, fourteen being established by the south park system while he was president.

He was also elected president of the county board in 1902, and many civic improvements, including the forest preserve movement, were begun under his administration.

In 1922 Mr. Foreman and E. A. Cummings organized the real estate concern of Cummings & Foreman, of which Mr. Foreman was president.

His Rule for Keeping Young.

Friends in the political, social, and business worlds attended a celebration on the occasion of his 70th birthday, when he answered the question of "how to be young at 70" by saying: "Be interested in your work and keep at it industriously."

Mr. Foreman is survived by his widow, Lottie; three sisters, Mrs. Mathilda Rosenberg, Mrs. Lydia Steele, and Mrs. Birdie Schwab, and one brother, Oscar G. Foreman, former chairman of the board of the Foreman State-National bank. He lived at 3100 Sheridan road.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. today in the Rosehill cemetery chapel.

WARSAW, Poland, July 25.—The Polish-Russian nonaggression treaty was signed at Moscow today. The Polish parliament will ratify the pact at the fall session, it has been learned. Following ratification Poland proposes to sign arbitration and commercial treaties with the soviets.

LITHS AND POLES SIGN TRUCE; OPEN BORDER TRAFFIC

Reach Temporary Treaty in Vilna Dispute.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 25.—The Lithuanian government, which for twelve years has maintained an unofficial state of war with Poland over the possession of Vilna, is finally permitting traffic to be opened through the "administration line," the present Lithuanian-Polish frontier. Ordered by the league of nations to open their borders, Lithuania and Poland signed an agreement.

While it is still impossible to send letters or telegrams or even to telephone from Lithuania to Poland, and there is no railroad or autobus communication between the two countries, there is a movement in Lithuania to adjust these matters.

Boy Scouts Cross Border.

The Poles have been making friendly overtures for some time. Three years ago the Lithuanians permitted a troop of Boy Scouts to cross the frontier. They met the Polish frontier guards and explained they wished to visit Vilna, Lithuania's ancient capital. The Poles received them courteously and the Scouts returned home praising their reception.

The border was then again closed until this summer when suddenly both countries found themselves entertaining not only Boy Scouts, but also political leaders who took advantage of the Lithuanian-Polish truce to visit relatives and friends they had not seen in years.

Lithuania's changed attitude toward Poland began with the Memel conflict. Kaunas discovered that it would not be possible to assimilate the German population of the Memel district. Furthermore, Germany's protests were supported, it was indicated, by both the league of nations and the world court. The Memel question suddenly became as important for Lithuania as the Danzig question is for Poland.

Both Nations in Same Boat.

Both countries assert they need a seaport but both are cut off from the sea by former German territory. The German population of both Memel and Danzig say they are willing to handle Lithuanian and Polish trade and transit goods but they object strenuously to attempts to make them integral parts of Lithuania and Poland.

In Kaunas both the German and soviet representations are energetically opposing all moves to reconcile Lithuania and Poland. Germany is offering Lithuania a special contingent for her agricultural products. Russia is also increasing her transit traffic via Memel and utilizing the Lithuanian railroads to send her products to Germany.

Both countries threaten Lithuania with an economic boycott if she comes to an understanding with Poland.

UNION OFFICIALS PREPARE FOR WAR AGAINST GANGS

Tell Plans as Slain Berrell Is Buried.

Union officials were rallying yesterday to a call for a council of war to repel invaders after the funeral of Patrick Berrell, chief of the affiliated Chicago teamsters' unions, who was slain last Thursday at Shawano, Wis. The killing was held by the union officials to have been a result of the unions' opposition to gangsters seeking to "muscle in" on the control of the labor organizations.

Chicago Federation of Labor officials said Berrell paid the price of resistance to the inroads of the Barker-White-Humphries gang, which already had a stranglehold on some of the branches of the truck drivers' unions. The death of George (Red) Barker, chief of the muscle men, preceded that of Berrell by a month—both falling under machine gun fire.

Funeral Services Held.

Funeral services for the dead labor chieftain were held at St. Paul of the Cross Catholic church in Park Ridge. More than 5,000 labor union men were present, including officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, of which Berrell was vice president. They followed his body to the grave in All Saints cemetery.

The international officials and the local leaders said a meeting was to be held to discuss the warfare of gangs against reputable unions. Plans are to be made for the protection of organized labor against organized criminals.

May Hold Secret Meeting.

No regular meeting was held yesterday, however. The unionists separated into groups after the funeral and it was announced that the meeting would be held later, perhaps secretly. Due to the fact that the Barker element already is in control of some the outlaw unions of the various branches of teamsters' and chauffeurs' organizations it was said the attendance probably would be by invitation.

No trace was obtained by the police of James ["Fur"] Sammons, machine gunner for the Barker gang, who was released from prision four days before Berrell was slain and who is suspected of the crime. Sammons, long an aid of Barker, was released on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of McHenry county, whose present term on the bench expires in June, 1933.

GERMANY JOINS FRANCO-BRITISH 'ENTENTE' PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 25.—Implications that the Franco-British confidence agreement formulated recently at Lausanne amounts to a union against payment of war debts due the United States have been explained away sufficiently for Germany also to become a signatory.

Her acceptance arrived today at the foreign office. A proviso, however, that Germany will not be involved in any debts bloc was attached, limiting the pact to problems affecting solely the "European régime."

It was also announced today that Rumania has agreed to adhere to the pact.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSARS.

The farce of a hearing before an administrative board of political appointees having been gone through, the rights of the Chicago Board of Trade and its members are now to be tested in the only place they ever should have been tested: in open court.

To any one schooled in the traditional theory of American government, the forms which have been gone through thus far in the Board of Trade case almost pass credibility. The government has an agency known as the farm board which uses the taxpayers' money to gamble in grain. The Board of Trade has permitted the farm board to enjoy the privileges of the exchange, but at length comes to the conclusion that the agencies through which the farm board has been operating have not complied with the rules of the exchange or of the grain marketing act and thereupon withdraws those privileges.

The law vests in the secretary of agriculture the right to license markets in which future contracts can be bought and sold. He may also withdraw a license after a hearing before a commission consisting of himself, the attorney general and the secretary of commerce, all of them political appointees, all of them directly responsive to the wishes of the President who appoints them. Such an administrative board might be impartial, might respect individual rights, might even have a proper knowledge of what private rights are. But such a board of commissars might, with much greater probability, be expected to act as political expediency and the lust for power dictate. To subject the private affairs of American citizens to the whims, the ambitions and caprices of such a trial board is a perversion of justice, a denial of constitutional liberty so gross as to appear fantastic.

The absurdity is heightened when the action of the administrative board is observed in connection with the complaint against the Board of Trade. The farm board wants its agencies to enjoy the privileges of the exchange and its clearing house. The remedy, if one is required, would plainly be to require the board to extend those privileges. Instead, the new tyranny dictates that the Board of Trade itself must be destroyed and the livelihood of its members, not to mention the farmers, cut off.

Tyranny is the abuse of power at the expense of the citizen by his government. It is no less tyranny when the tyrant is not a king but an administrative official appointed by a President. Fortunately, our constitutional defenses against oppression have not wholly broken down. The commissars do not yet have the final word. That is still the province of the courts.

CAPITALISTIC BRITAIN AND FRIEND RUSSIA.

Canada in the imperial conference at Ottawa demanded the exclusion of Russian goods from Great Britain, but Premier Bennett was told by Neville Chamberlain, the British chancellor of the exchequer, that it could not be done. Great Britain is tied to Russia not only by treaty but more importantly by millions of credit advanced to finance Russian trade.

The British order of society is one which the Russians say is an obstruction to the complete success of communism. Whenever an excuse is needed to explain the use of capitalistic arrangements in the collectivist country the Reds find it in their foreign relations. Their ideal is impossible until it is all one kind of a world, until their revolution has gone everywhere. Consequently the British government is just another thing to be destroyed.

Treaties imply friendship between nations, but no treaty with Russia does. The Russians admit that they cannot get along without the capitalistic world and they say they cannot get along with it. Even if they had the resources they have not the ability to use them and be self-contained. They cannot withdraw unto themselves and produce the new order of society. If they could and would the rest of the world would probably soon reconcile itself to the fact. They need what they would destroy and their economic religion justifies bad faith.

An agreement with Russia is understood to read that it holds good only so long as the Russians are unable to do anything else. An irreconcilable hostility is contained in every treaty. To the extent of its ability the Russian government is the enemy of every other one. It would put the commissars in London at the first opportunity.

The British hold that trade comes first. Their government agrees with their exporters. They finance the enemy to seek a profit in transactions with him. British credit sustains the revolutionary system which seeks every opportunity to penetrate into Great Britain and extend the dictatorship of the proletariat and expropriate the wealth from which it gained strength to move.

Some one will lose in this game. The two sides sit at bread, but there's a knife under the table. The British may be confident that their destructive ward cannot get his hands on the weapon. He is still confident that he can. Events will confound some one.

THE ARMY OF ECONOMY.

The vast task of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures [let us take refuge in the abbreviation, the Norpe] has begun auspiciously. Fourteen state chairmen started organization. There must be forty-eight at work as soon as possible. Organized war upon the organized spending forces of the nation, states and cities is essential to the restoration of prosperity and to the salvation of the United States from the disaster worked in other countries through the destruction of the people's wealth. The crisis we already have reached in our own affairs is as grave as any war we have had in our history, and, quite as much as war, it requires the united will of our people to meet it.

Arthur Sears Henning lists expenditures of the federal government which are wasteful or unnecessary in a total of one billion one hundred and fourteen million eight hundred and twenty-one thousand dollars. This marks the possibilities of federal retrenchment. State and local governments spend more than the federal. They, too, must retrench. But not a dollar will be saved without the aggressive pressure of the overburdened citizen. Spending has had all the organization. Economy must have its organized fighting force or it will be defeated as completely as it was in the late session of congress.

POLITICS AND THE UNDERWORLD.

Indignation at the murder of the sheriff's employé, Werner, will not obscure the question raised in the minds of most law abiding citizens—namely: how was it that a man of Werner's past criminal record and present associations found employment by the sheriff? It is said that Werner had reformed, but certainly circumstances disclosed by his sensational end indicate that his association with underworld characters was not broken off. With thousands of deserving men out of work, it would seem that the sheriff might have found better material. Werner's connection with the office of one of the two chief peace officers of the county has too much the appearance of that coöperation between politics and professional criminality which is constantly defeating justice and seriously threatening the security of life and property throughout the country. No one whose friends are in the world of vice and crime should be given political jobs, however small, or should hold them after their associations are known to be questionable.

The favor shown in court and jail to notorious characters has been a scandal. It has been in some measure suppressed in its more insolent display, but that is only driving it underground. It is still at work throughout our politics.

AN IMMUNITY NOT INTENDED.

A lawyer, arrested for driving in Lincoln park at 51 miles an hour, was released because he alleged that he was on his way to try a case before a suburban justice of the peace and cited a statute enacted in 1833 which grants immunity from arrest to judges, lawyers, clerks, and other officers of a court while going to or coming from a court.

The interpretation of this statute, which saved the speeder, perverts its intent. The object of the law was not to grant a special privilege to break the law, but to prevent efforts to obstruct legal proceedings by trumped up excuses for arrest. That it should now be held to authorize a lawyer or other officer of the court to do as he pleases on the way to or from a court is reducing the law to the absurd. If it is to be so construed, it had better be repealed as soon as possible.

SHIPS OR SHORE STATIONS.

Confronting the imperative need for federal retrenchment, the navy must choose between ships and shore stations. This congress has refused adequate retrenchment. The next congress will not. And the national defense establishment, as we know from past experience, will be among the first to be cut.

The navy is not altogether to be blamed for unnecessary stations. Local self-interest is responsible. But even with the elimination of some obsolete navy yards the navy will still have the problem of adjusted expenditures, the choice between ships and stations. There is not enough money for both. If the navy permits money to be unnecessarily expended upon useless stations it must accept the inevitable consequence—reduction of ships.

Editorial of the Day

ON A SIDE ROAD.

[The Antioch, Ill., News.]

People out on the side roads have a little more time to think. They have no long stream of traffic to watch. One does not know there is anything wrong with the world when he takes a side road instead of the main highway on a Sunday afternoon. You can sort of lallygag along with no hurried and harried youth a-honking in impatience at you or looking as though he would like to commit murder on a doddering old fool who had lived long enough to know that there was ample time left in which to die hurriedly at any time he chose.

In the time of mental, moral, and economic warfare the side road is the calming influence. It is the perfect sedative. There are woody patches which have escaped the vandal hands of the city folk, and the deep, inviting coolness is restful. You have time to look at the fields of growing corn. You have time for much contemplation of nature. If you have time to talk with the man out in front who is sitting in the shade on Sunday you can learn that the hay is about a normal crop, that alfalfa is doing well and gives promise of a good second cutting, that corn is better than for several years past, and that we have had enough rain so we don't have to worry about a drought.

The white hens and strutting roosters in the yard, the horses with chins resting on a fence, under the grateful shade of a spreading tree, the cattle out in the pasture working their way gradually toward the gate through which they come nightly to the barn for milking, the grunting pigs rooting a little among the clover of the new yard into which they have been turned are all unaware that congress is struggling with the unsolvable problem of economics. They do not know that men and women just held a political convention.

Out there on and along the side road people live normally and honestly. Nature is as it was twenty years ago. Men may be down in the mouth, but Omnipotence is going right along in the same old way. He keeps on furnishing air, water, and earth.

Try the side road for a Sunday drive "far from the madding crowd" and at the close of the day it will furnish you on almost any summer evening with a marvelous pageant of the sky.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"LEAVE US HITCH HIKERS ALONE," says Lorin of Muscoda quite severely. "I write a bit, I play a bit, I make a few pictures, and at odd intervals I strike for the open road. Hitch hiking is a truly delightful avocation. Even though I am always amply supplied with money I still bum rides. So I repeat, leave us hitch hikers alone." But, Lorin of Muscoda, with your ample supply of money, why bum rides? Autoists are not always millionaires. Frequently they buy their cars and pay right through the nose for their gasoline. You do not bum rides from the railroads, Lorin of Muscoda. You ask the conductor on any train (even though these days you might be the only passenger) and see what a dirty look you will get. You say that when the mood comes on you take to the open road. Apparently, Lorin, you do not take to the open road; you take to somebody else's car. The trouble with you and your ample supply of money, Lorin, is that you do not hitch hike as you say you do. You just hitch. With that ample supply of money of yours, Lorin, you should buy a car and pay for gas and oil. Do this, Lorin, and then tell us how many hitch hikers you carry a day.

AQUARIUM.

Some deft and cunning man has built
Sea grottoes in a case of glass
Where fish of silver mail and golden gilt
Loiter with moveless fins or steer and pass.

Air bubbles sinuous rise like fairy boat
Along the placid surface of the pool,
There perhaps a sprawling turtle lies afloat,
A wary eye at minnows flashing school.

And starry, round eyed fishes bump their noses
In curious inquisitiveness against glass walls,
Or vacant stare adopting listless poses,
Suspended where prismatic sunlight falls.

The sea green water steals this rainbow hue,
With rays divine to light a glass closed well,
Finds that like wings of tropic birds that flew
With lazy harmony through some tropic dell.

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

"SEN. BORAH," says an exchange, "may find himself in the minority in his stand for the cancellation of war debts." And, gosh, how he dreads it!

"MIGHT NOT SOMETHING BE DONE," asks Minerva Nertz of us, "to stop hostesses of weekend parties from meeting you with a wide smile and chortling, 'Welcome, dearies, and remember this is Liberty Hall'"? Minerva, there isn't a thing can be done about it. Under the constitution and the laws of the various states hostesses have a perfect right to say: "This is Sliberty Hall." It's the same thing, for they mean Liberty Hall, although they usually pronounce it Sliberty Hall. We're like you, Minerva, in not caring for this greeting, for we notice that within ten minutes after the hostess tells us it is Sliberty Hall she invariably gives us a dirty look if we drop cigaret ashes on the rug in the front room.

"'A FAREWELL TO ARMS' will be filmed as a love story rather than a war spectacle."—Hollywood announcement. Oh, of course, Hollywood always thinks that "arms" connotes a hugging match.

ANYHOW, IT'S A GRAND IDEA.

Sir: I believe I am the most unfortunate man alive. I am one of those people whose ideas have more hindsight than foresight. At the time the night parking ban was about to be enforced on automobiles I had developed a classy robot with gramophone attachment to be left in one's car. It was of rubber, and could be blown up at the nearest gas station before the car owner parked for the night. As soon as the cop opened the door of the parked car it would complete an electrical connection, set the gramophone record going in the robot's chest, and as soon as the cop would say, "What the hell are you doing here, parked like this?" the robot would answer, "I am waiting for my wife. She is upstairs powdering her nose." There were several alibi conversations like this, repeating at different places on the record, which would baffle any policeman, for each robot would say something different. But did I gain the wealth such an idea would bring to the inventor? Not so! The anti-parking ban was never enforced, so I am left with a whole warehouse full of these robots.

I have been thinking I could rent them out at so much a night to lonesome people who wanted some one to listen intelligently to their conversation, and not give back more sass than the limits of the gramophone record permit. With the political campaign not far off, perhaps I could sell them to congressmen who otherwise would have to possess the gift of bilocation to fully cover their constituents' territory. When one of my robots is fully filled with wind he really makes a very good congressman. STARSHAFT.

THE CANNIBAL.

The cannibal, I've heard it mentioned,
Though not domestically intentioned,
Lives free of rent and kindred evil
In scenes domestic and primeval.

The cannibal don't look askance
At creditors he owes for pants;
In fact, he views with utmost loathing
The nuisance known to us as clothing.

The cannibal is in position
To get the cheapest of nutrition;
Without a sou or much of labor
He dines quite well upon his neighbor.

So let me tell you this, old pal:
I wish I was a cannibal.

RUFUS TERRAL.

"SIX BANJO PLAYING BURGLARS Held by Police."—Headline. And if the constabulary can dig up evidence that the demons also played the saxophone they'll probably go to the electric chair.

SKIN TUBERCULOSIS.

IN spite of the decrease in all forms of consumption there are many who are interested in lupus, or skin tuberculosis. It still prevails to a moderate extent in regions where the cows and hogs are apt to be tuberculous and where consumption is much neglected. It can be cured, and usually is. We rarely see the chronic, persisting ulcers of the face and neck of the kind so frequently encountered a quarter of a century ago.

Experience has taught us some things about the treatment of this disease. X-rays are rarely used now in treating it. An extensive trial showed that the X-ray treatment of lupus was useless with few exceptions and, to make matters worse, it is dangerous. The use of radium in the treatment of lupus is open to the same objections. Just the opposite conclusion is true of ultraviolet treatment. Ultraviolet light treatments given by a mercury vapor lamp at a proper distance and with a proper length of exposure are of great service. The light is a powerful agency for good when properly used and that means, of course, that improperly used it is capable of doing harm.

There is no question but that the skin is a chemical factory where products are made that are essential to health and well being. The notion that the skin is nothing but a wrapping membrane, protecting against heat and cold, moisture and dryness, is far short of the whole truth. Like the liver, the skin manufactures necessary chemicals. It takes sunlight and, in some mysterious way, fabricates it into vitamins or, maybe, it uses sunlight in its manufacture of these essentials. However you state it, the skin contributes to health and general well being. Exposure to machine made rays of ultraviolet is of direct service in curing lupus and of indirect service in that it builds up resistance.

Tuberculin is of service in the treatment of lupus. In many cases it is advisable to remove the tubercular nodes in the disease. Sometimes they are scraped away by an operative procedure. Sometimes the surgeon removes the nodules, using for the purpose a mixture of carbolic acid and caustic potash diluted and in the form of a paste. The details are of no direct interest to any one except the physician in the case, and he knows where to get the formulas. The patient's interest lies in knowing that cure is possible and that the scarring that follows is not deforming.

A person with lupus is in no great increased danger of consumption of the lungs. In fact, his skin disorder may help to protect his lungs. On the other hand, a person with an active lupus is capable of infecting others. The precautions necessary for the protection of those in contact with cases of consumption are advisable, in a general way, for those in contact with a case of lupus.

EMOTIONS OVERDONE.

A. McM. writes: What does "emotionally worn out" mean? Is it akin to nervous exhaustion?

REPLY.

The term explains itself. It is akin to nervous exhaustion. The remedy is the cultivation of indifference. If one will accept life as it comes, do the day's work as well as possible, and be indifferent to everybody and everything, recovery from "emotionally worn out" will result. Nor will it be long delayed.

CAUSES ARE LEGION.

J. B. D. writes: My skin has developed a rash which is very irritating. Some one told me it was due to change of climate and others say it is from eating fruit.

REPLY.

There are many irritating rashes, due to many causes. Foods are responsible for most of those of the nettlerash family and they are the cause of some of the others.

If the rash belongs to the nettlerash family much the best policy is to find the cause and avoid it. The rash then fades out of the picture and needs no treatment. Finding the cause is not easy. It is probably some albuminous substance, but practically every food except sugar, pure butter, and pure oils contains enough protein for purposes of sensitization. Seasonal foods may furnish the clew to the cause.

NOT GALLSTONES.

A. writes: My experience with gallstones may help some one. I fasted four days, drinking water freely meanwhile. Then I took one pint of olive oil mixed with orange juice. Soon I passed four gallstones, the size of marbles, and hundreds of smaller ones. I have had no symptoms of gallstones since.

REPLY.

The stones you passed were not gallstones. They were olive oil stones, or soaps formed by a combination of alkaline intestinal juices and oil. That a person taking large quantities of olive oil makes a plentiful supply of oil stones has been known for a long time. It is an old quack trick.

ULCERS IN MOUTH.

H. F. M. writes: 1. I am deficient in white blood corpuscles. What shall I do to increase the number?

2. I have had considerable trouble with white ulcers in my mouth ever since childhood. My mother had this trouble and my children also have it. I am 50 years old. What causes this condition and what must I do to prevent its recurrence and what shall I do to correct it after it has developed?

REPLY.

1. If you are free from symptoms other than those given, my guess is that you have as many white blood corpuscles as you need and you should do nothing.

2. I judge you and your family are subject to aphthous ulcers, also called stomach ulcers. Application of some caustic to each ulcer stops the pain and the ulcer promptly heals. To prevent others from coming the diet, the eating habits, and the bowel habits—one or all—need to be changed materially. No other treatment is called for.

BOTH ARE CITIZENS.

Chicago, July 20.—[Friend of the People.]—A woman and her child of three arrived in this country in 1907. Shortly after her arrival she married an American citizen. What is their status regarding citizenship?

Both the woman and child are citizens of the United States.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
Dist. Director U. S. Dept. of Labor.

LIABLE FOR PREMIUM.

Batavia, Ill., July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—While inquiring about a claim for property damage at an insurance agency, I was approached in regard to taking out a policy with their company. I wasn't much interested, but told them I would think it over. The agent said he would write up a policy and mail it to me and when I was ready to pay for it I could do so. He asked for the numbers of the car. I told him I didn't remember them, so he asked to see the registration card. I let them see it and they took the numbers down. Later I received a policy and still later a bill for $8. As I did not sign the policy or ask for it [1] am I liable for it? 2. What are the postal laws in regard to sending articles through the mails to prospective customers when not ordered by the customer? Is it worth fighting or should I pay it? F. P.

1. Yes. Our Appellate court held in Bowman vs. Clark that a person who receives an insurance policy and retains it an unreasonable length of time is liable for the premium.

2. There is no prohibition which would be applicable to your facts.

TO LOCATE WILL.

Chicago, July 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My aunt passed away twelve years ago and we know that she left quite an estate. However, we never bothered about her will. Before she died we were told by her that she had arranged for us to share in her will. 1. Where can I find out if she left a will? 2. Her home was in Galesburg, but all her business was transacted in Chicago. 3. Her death was due to losing her mind on account of war work. Would that make a difference in her will if it was made before this shock? 4. Her husband is still alive. Can he hold this will up until his death? 5. According to law, does the husband have to be dead before his wife's will can be read? 6. Can I see the will records at the city hall? 7. Her husband has since married. Will that have any effect? H. PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES.

Chicago, July 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On account of financial reverses I may be unable to pay personal property taxes. In that case will enough property be taken to cover claim or will they garnishee my wages? C. F.

Either course could be taken. The probability of such proceedings depends in part on the amount of your tax.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 26, 1916.

BERLIN.—"Important developments are impending on the southeast front; the fez will soon be seen on the Danube." To this cryptic utterance of the chief of the intelligence department at a luncheon to the American correspondents at German headquarters on July 23 the Associated Press is now able to add the key. Turkey has placed a force of Ottoman troops at the disposition of the central powers for service in Europe. These troops are now in transit through the Balkans. The leading detachments are already approaching Galicia, where they will coöperate with the Austro-Germans against Turkey's arch enemy, Russia. Turkey's timely contribution to the military forces of the central powers is granted in return for German and Austrian assistance in the Dardanelles and Mesopotamia.

LONDON.—The battle of the Somme front, which began July 23 at midnight and has continued since with brief lulls, is still being waged by British and German troops with the utmost stubbornness. The whole Somme front from north of Pozieres south to Chaulnes is being swept by shell fire preparatory to infantry actions. Fierce hand to hand combats and bomb fighting are being staged in the north, Pozieres still remaining a veritable inferno. German reinforcements, brought up hurriedly from Verdun, attempted, by an attack from the northeast, to relieve their comrades now doing battle with the Australians for the control of the eastern part of the village, but the effort failed in the face of violent artillery fire from the British guns. The British, while making slow progress, have been able to hold all the ground won in spite of fierce German counterattacks.

LONDON.—While the Russian armies on the extreme northern and southern fronts are recovering from their desperate fighting of the last few days and preparing for fresh onslaughts against the Teuton lines, Gen. Brusiloff again has taken up the fight along the northern Galician frontier. Today Berlin admits the loss of Gen. von Linsingen's first line of defense on two fronts in this region—south of Stonowka and south of Berestechk. At the latter point the opposing forces are now seesawing back and forth across the border line with each day marking fresh successes for the Russian arms.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Great Britain today made partial and informal response to the American inquiry about the blacklisting of American firms which went into effect last week. The response, on which the administration declines to comment, was in the form of an oral statement from Ambassador Spring-Rice in the office of Acting Secretary of State Polk. The statement, which was repeated only in effect, not verbatim, for the public, is markedly conciliatory.

CHICAGO.—Women's clubs, parent-teachers' associations, and many civic organizations interested in the children were reported yesterday as getting ready to launch a campaign for the retention of Cy De Vry, head animal keeper at the Lincoln park zoo. While these forces were preparing to urge the park board to shave down their expenses a bit here and there in the total annual expenditures of about $700,000 for the maintenance of the park in order to scrape together the $2,000 needed to keep De Vry here, dozens of messages reached the animal man at the park begging him to stay. Meantime Col. William N. Selig, who has offered De Vry a permanent position at a salary of $7,800 a year, is on his way to Chicago to sign the contract. "I don't know yet just what I will do when Col. Selig arrives," said Mr. De Vry.

THE FAITH OF COLLEGE YOUTH.

Chicago, July 19.—I desire to express my appreciation of the excellent editorial which appeared in yesterday's TRIBUNE headed "Academic Freedom."

The only criticism that I would offer is that the editorial was too mild and ultra-conservative. As one who has suffered much in the present depression, I realize that it is not impossible for a person to feel that there are serious defects in our industrial and financial order.

However, I am of that vast majority of American citizens who are of the opinion that the system under which this country has grown and developed to its present stature is not indefensible. Criticisms by teachers who see the evils of our system should be of a constructive nature.

Instead they create further discontent and in effect teach doctrines utterly destructive of everything all true Americans feel to be fundamental to the welfare of our country.

It has been my privilege, as head of a national college fraternity, to visit groups of men on various representative campuses. As a result I am one of those who have the utmost faith in young college people of our time. I believe they are sound at heart and serious in their desire to meet courageously and intelligently the problems of citizenship; to think them through to a sound and logical conclusion, and to assume the burdens which will soon fall upon their shoulders. All of the students to whom I refer have solemnly pledged themselves to the upholding of American ideals and established American institutions.

However, I have been disturbed by the insidious doctrines which are referred to in your article and to which these young students have been subjected. If teachers are permitted to present dangerous, subversive doctrines, to ridicule our institutions and everything that we hold dear without offering anything that is constructive, the results cannot but be tragic.

I cannot but feel that the trustees and governing officials of our institutions are remiss in their duty in not seeing the challenge which has been thrown to them and in not meeting it courageously and effectively. Evidently to many of these teachers "Academic Freedom" is the right to hold up to ridicule God, man, and our American ideals.

It is time for plain speaking. Although possessing defects common to all human institutions, we still believe ours is the best system that has yet been devised by the mind of man.

May your editorial have a strong influence in helping to correct these unfortunate conditions in our higher institutions of learning to which we look for inspiration and help.

TAX THE PEOPLE.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 16.—

Tax his head, tax his hide,
Let the government officials ride.
Tax his cow, tax her calf,
Tax his horse and tax his ass.
Tax his houses, tax his lands,
Tax the blisters on his hands.
Tax his Ford and tax his gas,
Tax the road that he must pass.
Tax the pay roll, tax the sale,
Tax his hard-earned paper kale.
Tax his pipe and tax his smoke—
Teach him government is no joke.
Tax the water, tax the air,
Tax the sunlight if you care.
Tax the living, tax the dead,
Tax the unborn ere they're fed.
Tax his coffin, tax their shrouds,
Tax their souls beyond the clouds.
Tax them all and tax them well,
Tax them to the gates of hell.

N. B.—I don't know the author of the above, but he has evidently discovered "the handwriting on the wall." He has seen the lightning's lurid flash and felt the thunder's thrilling peal. I am one of the unfortunate land-poor folks. I've recently offered to sell some of my houses and lots at one-tenth of what they are listed on the tax books, but find no purchaser—no market at all. I am paying over one-half of my limited income in the way of unlawful, unjust and oppressive taxation! "What will the harvest be?" Almighty God and our federal, state, county, and city governments, have mercy upon us! H. MONTAGUE.

TELLING US.

Chicago, July 12.—"Theodore [Dreiser] will vote the communist ticket. Mr. Borah isn't going to vote at all. Mr. Smoot will have to vote for himself. Al Smith will vote for Roosevelt. Mr. Hoover must vote against the eighteenth amendment," and THE TRIBUNE will vote for Hoover, "What an election!"

The above extract from an editorial in THE TRIBUNE of July seems to a 76 year old admirer of your paper to be incomplete without the seven words I have inserted before the last sentence. If I have sized you up wrong, please set me right.

Politics aside, THE TRIBUNE has played an important rôle in my life. At 7 years of age, during civil war days down in old Kentucky, my father [a strong Lincoln man in hostile territory] would give me a 10 cent shinplaster with which to buy a TRIBUNE from the daily stagecoach on its way from Lexington to Richmond. It has been my favorite newspaper ever since. Adjoining farms had Negro slaves working in the fields, and during the noon dinner hour dad would take me over to read the war news to them. He made enemies by this, of course, and he might have been shot except for the fact of my mother belonging to and in sympathy with the rebels.

Later in life, at 56 years of age, THE TRIBUNE again played a part I shall always remember. In the summer of 1912 I was a visitor in Chicago, living at the time in Texas. For no particular reason I was looking at the want ad section when a 3 line ad seemed to attract me to a proposition which I followed up and it was the turning point of my life—success financially and otherwise—and I am still on the job at 76 with no thought of retiring.

O. H. STIVERS.

THE BULLFROG LEADS A MERRY LIFE.

Chicago, July 18.—Being a regular subscriber to your paper and noting the editorials from time to time, particularly as to government economy, I feel that I should call your attention to a grave oversight on the part of your source of information.

If you will refer to circular letter No. 106, issued by the commissioner of industrial alcohol, dated Feb. 12, 1932, you will find that physicians, etc., after that date, are to procure at their own expense a record book, form 1402, in which to enter records of dispensed liquor prescriptions.

The stubs of the prescription books, as printed by the department, contain both an original and duplicate stub, which must be returned before another full book is issued—thus insuring a complete record as to dispersion.

Now, inasmuch as this form 1402 constitutes a government record, to print it in government shops would deprive the "peepul" of access to the "Love Life of the Bullfrog," "Ways of Preparing the Rabbit," the erudite pamphlets of the Kingfish of Louisiana, and other notables of congress, etc., etc., ad nauseam [franked through the U. S. mails]. Don't you think it a timely effort and worthy of commendation, in any subsequent articles, as to the great saving that has been instituted in the effort of government economy? Surely they are on the right track.

Yours for bigger and better frog and rabbit pamphlets. M. D.

THE MISSING STATESMAN.

Menomonie, Wis., July 18.—I like W. W. Baldwin's suggestion for a setup of the Australian socialist government with Gov. Roosevelt as the President and the group of radicals for his cabinet. THE GERMAN MELTING POT.

Chicago, July 22.—What seems to be the matter with the pure Nordic Germans? Some months ago Twardowski was appointed military attaché to the German embassy at Moscow. Now we know that the chief of police in Berlin is Grzesinski; also that my namesake, Ziglarski, is on the German Golden Glove team.

Why to swell the German ego by borrowing good men from the Alpine Poles?

BRITAIN REVEALS TARIFF DISPUTE EXISTS WITH U. S.

Row Is Based on Coal, Empire Parley Told.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25.—Disclosure of a retaliatory tariff dispute between Great Britain and the United States, of which none seemed to have heard of before, was made by J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, at a meeting of heads of delegations to the imperial conference here today.

J. H. THOMAS.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

In the course of a discussion concerning the possibility of increasing coal exports from Britain to Canada, Mr. Thomas said that under an arrangement which he had made, exports of Welsh anthracite had been increased from 300,000 to 700,000 tons last year. All of this trade was taken from the United States, and the United States slapped a tariff on certain kinds of English coal. This Britain regarded as retaliatory and had protested under an old agreement which she thought protected her from such action. The United States refused to accept this viewpoint and the matter is not yet ended.

(A dispatch from Washington last night said: "Officials of the state department say they know of no dispute with Great Britain over English coal. If there is one, they added, it would be a matter of correspondence which cannot be reached tonight. Neither the tariff commission nor the customs bureau had heard of such a dispute.")

Canada's Plans Still Secret.

The meeting of the chairmen of the delegations failed to clear up the mystery of the detailed proposals which Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada is said to have in his pocket. Rumors became more definite today that it contains a list of 8,000 import commodities on which Canada could give preferences to Britain without seriously injuring her own trade. No such document has been circulated, however, to the other delegations and all are still in the dark as to what Canada's plans are.

The irritation of the British over Canada's dilatory tactics was voiced at today's meeting by Stanley Baldwin, leader of London's delegation. After the Canadian premier had announced that he understood that all present accepted the principle that Great Britain would grant preference to the dominions on natural products, Mr. Baldwin said that the British had thought and hoped that a set of resolutions could be agreed upon which might be sent forth to the world.

"It is now clear that it would not be wise to do so," he said. "Perhaps it would be better to wait until a later date when the delegates have got deeper into each others' minds."

Bennett in Partial Victory.

The Canadian premier won a partial victory in his fight against Russia today at a session of the committee on the promotion of trade within the commonwealth. He secured the appointment of a subcommittee to investigate and report on the effect of unfair trade practices within the empire.

At the same time he drew from Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, an emphatic refusal to agree to an embargo on Russian exports.

"Russia has injured our wheat, poultry, and flax business by dumping," Bennett complained. "Russia has destroyed the British Columbia canned salmon business and the Canadian lumber trade. A great and powerful nation like Britain ought to do something to promote trade within the empire."

Chamberlain Resists Proposal.

Chamberlain was sympathetic but firm in his resistance to Bennett's proposals.

"I must admit that Russia's eruption into our market has upset our plans," he said. "We quite agree that we cannot allow our policy to be jeopardized by any irresponsible people. We also agree that an exhaustive investigation should be undertaken.

"We must not endeavor, however, to stop Russia's export trade. In the first place we might be able to do it. Russia owes us a great deal of money, but she owes a great deal more to Germany. If Russia were put in a position whereby she could not meet her obligations to Germany and others, the reactions might be more serious than we anticipate."

IRISH FIRE HEAVY DUTIES AT BRITAIN IN ECONOMIC WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 25.—The Free State tonight levied its first installment of heavy, almost prohibitive, tariffs on British exports as a counter attack in the economic war between the two countries over the nonpayment of land annuities due Great Britain. Britain previously had enacted a tariff of 20 per cent on certain commodities imported from Ireland.

British coal is among the commodities which will be subjected to high duties. Official warnings were given coal dealers that attempts to pass the charge on to the consumer would be punished.

The list of articles on which duties will become effective tomorrow, as provided in the special act passed by the dail last week, includes iron and steel products, 20 per cent; cheese making machinery, 100 per cent; electrical appliances, 20 per cent, and pigs and meat, 100 per cent. The import of cheese was totally prohibited.

Hugo Flynn, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of finance, left today for London "on an important mission." Speculation was aroused as to whether it indicated a new move toward settlement of the Irish-British dispute.

COUNCILMEN ASK I. C. TO DEPRESS S. SHORE TRACKS

The track elevation committee of the city council, of which Ald. Henry Sonneschein [22d] is chairman, approved an ordinance yesterday requiring the Illinois Central railroad to depress the tracks on its South Chicago suburban line.

The line extends from 69th street in 71st street, Exchange avenue and Commercial avenue, to 93d street. The ordinance, resulting from 20 years' agitation by citizens of the South Shore and South Chicago districts, is considered largely a gesture on the part of the council, since the Illinois commerce commission holds the actual power to order the railroad to make the improvement.

Officials of the railroad have offered to elevate the tracks, to which property owners along the streets in question have objected. This would cost only about half of the $9,000,000 estimated cost of depressing the tracks. The railroad has refused to bear the additional cost, holding that it should be defrayed by a bond issue or special assessments.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has pending before the commerce commission a complaint seeking to force the railroad to depress the tracks. The commission will hear arguments tomorrow on the railroad's motion to suppress the complaint.

Slugged in a Daylight Holdup on Loop 'L' Steps

CALLS 'BUYING BRITISH' BLOW TO BRITISH TRADE

Scrutator Compares U. S. and England.

BY SCRUTATOR.

The British imperial conference, now being held in Canada to promote trade among the various commonwealths of the British empire, has inspired some uneasy comment as to its possible effect on the world trade of the United States.

Canada and England have been the best customers of this country and any agreement to divert their purchases would affect our commerce.

On the other hand, the United States also is one of the best customers of Canada and also is a large buyer of English goods and services. So, if the British commonwealths really should get together on an effective "buy British" program, they must expect that Americans will buy less of their goods and possibly retaliate with a "buy American" campaign. Such a contest probably would affect the British more seriously than our own commerce.

Less Vital to Americans.

Before growing fearful over the future of our international trade, it might be well to consider a few facts. World commerce is important to every nation, but it probably is less vital to the United States than to other nations because we are more nearly self-sustaining. In fact, our foreign commerce for some years has represented approximately only 10 per cent of our total trade. Thus, 90 per cent of our commerce has been conducted within our own borders.

Despite the world-wide depression of the last two or three years, our sales of commodities abroad have maintained a fair steady ratio to our domestic trade. This has been maintained in spite of the dislocation of foreign exchange rates, resulting from several nations suspending the gold standard, and hampering tariff measures adopted by many countries.

Although the recession in American exports since 1929 has been substantial, the national foreign trade council points out that the decline has been no greater in proportion than the reduction in the amount of our domestic production, taken as a whole, during the same period. The reduction in our exports from 1929 up to the beginning of 1932, calculated in volume and allowing for lower prices, was about 35 per cent. In the same period the manufacturing, mining and agricultural production of the United States declined from 47 billion, 738 million dollars to about 26 billion dollars, or about 46 per cent. However, allowing for lower prices, the actual decrease in volume of production was slightly less than 36 per cent.

Like Pre-Depression Times.

"It is evident, therefore, that our exports bear the same proportion to our total manufactures today as they did before the depression and so are founded on as firm a basis as the general level of our domestic business," the council says.

The narrowing of the spread between exports and imports is to be expected in view of the outstanding position of the United States as a creditor nation and the leading export country. However, the commerce department finds that imports on a quantity basis for the first quarter of this year were practically at the same level as a year before, which is said to indicate "continued American purchasing power on a lower price basis."

In connection with the British empire conferences, it is interesting to observe the growing importance of American commerce with non-British countries. The national foreign trade council points out that the Pacific area has suffered less from the world dislocation of foreign commerce than any other part of the world. Our exports to China and Japan last year were actually 6 per cent greater in volume than in 1930, whereas the average reduction of the volume of our world trade as a whole was 20 per cent.

The greatest declines in the values of our exports were suffered by our two leading markets, the United Kingdom and Canada. Purchases by the United Kingdom in the first quarter of 1932 were 33⅓ per cent less than in the same quarter in 1931. Exports to Canada were the smallest in years, being 42 per cent below those for the first quarter of 1931.

BRAZIL SUSPENDS CIVIL WAR; HAILS DEAD AIRMAN

Santos-Dumont Honored by Both Sides.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 25.—(AP)—Brazil's civil warfare was suspended today by both armies in homage to Alberto Santos-Dumont, the South American "father of aviation," who died in Sao Paulo.

Gen. Goes Monteiro, chief of the federal forces, ordered his planes to cease their bombing activities and drop a proclamation in Sao Paulo hailing the Brazilian air pioneer, but lamenting that he adhered to "the regional separatist Paulista politicians."

State Funeral Planned.

The Brazilian government has planned a state funeral similar to those received by presidents of the republic. When political peace is restored in the country the body will be brought here from Sao Paulo for burial. President Getulio Vargas tonight decreed three days of national mourning for the aviator. There were reports here today that terms of peace with the rebels had been reached.

Santos-Dumont was a veterran flyer of balloons, dirigibles, and airplanes, most of whose exploits took place in France up to 1909, when he quit flying. He returned to Brazil over a year ago to try to regain his health.

Santos-Dumont went to Paris in 1891 and bought an automobile when he found balloons beyond his slender purse. For six years, with the automobile his "laboratory," he made an intensive study of internal combustion engines.

In 1898 he had constructed a dirigible and made his first flight. With that flight his international reputation began.

Circled Eiffel Tower.

In October, 1901, he won the Dutde la Meurthe prize of 100,000 francs for the first circuit flight from St. Cloud around the Eiffel tower and return. He covered the distance in 30 minutes.

Two years later he built the first airport at Neuilly, just outside Paris. He kept a fleet of his dirigibles there and made frequent flights over the housetops of Paris.

It was two years after the Wright brothers made their first powered flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., that Santos-Dumont turned to heavier than air craft. In September, 1906, he took his box kite type plane off the ground at Bagatelle, France, and flew 250 feet at the rate of 18 miles an hour, four feet off the ground. Two months later he rose 20 feet and flew 700 feet at 42 miles an hour.

The monoplane was his principal contribution to aeronautics, however.

Washington, D. C., July 25.—(AP)—The will of Mrs. Katharine Medill McCormick, who died in France on July 4, was filed for probate today in the District of Columbia Supreme court by her son, Col. Robert R. McCormick of Chicago. The estate was valued at $100,000.

The will explained that the contents of her home here on Massachusetts avenue belonged to her deceased son, Joseph Medill McCormick, and now are the property of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms.

Mrs. Simms was bequeathed a wardrobe, furs, laces, and wearing apparel. Jewelry was given to her granddaughters, Katharine and Ruth McCormick. The son, Robert, will receive his father's portrait and some silverware. Three employés also were remembered.

N. Y. PUBLISHERS, PRINTERS WILL ARBITRATE PAY

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—An agreement to arbitrate the wages of printers employed in the newspaper composing rooms was made tonight after a six hour conference between committees representing the Publishers' association of New York and Typographical union No. 6.

Arbitration by a board of five members, two on each side and the fifth chosen jointly, will be restricted to two proposals—the demand of the publishers for a 20 per cent wage decrease and the request of the union for a wage increase of $7 a week.

The publishers rejected the union proposal for the six hour day and the five day week, but agreed to permit any publisher to operate on the basis of six hours a day six days a week at the rate to be provided in the new contract.

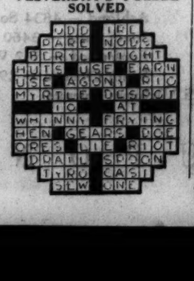
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



ESTATE OF SLAIN POLICEMAN GOES TO HIS FIANCEE

Will Written 4 Days Before Death.

Policeman Frank J. Cunningham, who was shot three times and fatally wounded when his squad interrupted a holdup in a soft drink parlor at 2025 South Laflin street on July 4, left his entire estate of $15,000 to his fiancée, Miss Frances B. Fisher, 4857 Wolfram street. This was revealed yesterday when his will was filed with Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

Policeman Cunningham, who was 41 years old, died at the St. Anthony hospital on July 9. Three of the bandits with whom he had exchanged shots escaped after the holdup, but the fourth, Harry King, 3130 Maypole avenue, was held to the grand jury on a charge of murder. Cunningham's will, which was written on pink note paper and was less than three lines long, was made only four days before he died.

Other Wills Filed.

This will and four others were filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court and approved by Assistant Judge Caplan. A list of the others showing the name of the deceased person, the date of death, the amount of the estate, the executor, and the principal beneficiaries follows:

Katherine Ballard, July 2, $31,000; Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, sons share.

Seven letters of administration were issued yesterday. Similar information concerning each, with the substitution of the administrator for the executor, follows:

Jugo-Slav Autos Gasless; Blame Money Restrictions

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, July 25.—(AP)—Automobile traffic was seriously crippled throughout Jugo-Slavia today by a motor fuel famine. The scarcity was ascribed chiefly to foreign exchange restrictions which make it difficult to import or pay for Rumanian or other foreign oil products.

STATE CLOSES ITS EVIDENCE IN TRIAL OF BAINS

Final evidence was introduced in the Bain trial by the prosecution yesterday to show that John Bain and his associates used an employés' fund of $192,000 to purchase Bain bank stocks, now worthless. Bain, former head of a closed chain of twelve banks; his sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, are charged with conspiracy in the trial without a jury before Judge John M. O'Connor.

Charles B. Maloney, former clerk in the West Englewood Trust and Savings, bank, testified that employés of more than one year service in Bain banks were required to place between 2 and 5 per cent of their salaries in a fund to which was to be added 5 per cent of the bank's earnings. Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber said the purpose of the fund was to buy Bain bank stocks which the public wished to sell. Defense Attorney Francis X Busch objected to this evidence, stating it was not definitely shown that Bain and his fellow bank officials had thus converted the fund. He was overruled.

Mr. Busch will start the bankers' defense tomorrow. The state took five weeks to present its evidence. If motions for an immediate verdict of not guilty are not granted, Busch estimates he will require three weeks for his side of the case.

Begin Closing Pleas in Waukegan Bank Trial

Assistant State's Attorney George S. McGaughey of Lake county began closing arguments yesterday in the trial at Waukegan of William H. Miller, Chicago banker, who was formerly an official of the Waukegan State bank, now closed. Miller is one of five charged with conspiracy to keep this bank open long after it became insolvent, and he is being tried alone. Closing arguments may take until tomorrow night, it was said, after which the case will go to the jury.

Scully Complains of Dogs; Five Owners Are Accused

Former Alderman John E. Scully of 647 Junior terrace appeared yesterday before Judge Frank M. Padden to protest that neighborhood dogs were being encouraged by their owners to run on his lawn. Five dog owners were arraigned on the charge that their dogs were unlicensed, unmuzzled, and unleashed. Judge Padden continued the case until July 28 for investigation.

DENIES PLEA OF SCHIRESON TO REGAIN LICENSE

Circuit Judge Joseph Fitch, it was learned yesterday, gave an oral opinion last Friday denying the petition for a writ of certiorari sought by Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon. Schireson asked that the court overrule the revocation of his license to practice medicine in Illinois by the state department of education and registration.

No final order has yet been entered however, and Schireson's counsel, Joseph Z. Willner, and attorneys for the state will appear before the judge within the next two weeks to determine the contents of the final order. Attorney Willner yesterday asserted that he would appeal the judge's ruling to the State Supreme court.

The petition was filed before the judge on June 18 and the court reserved ruling until he examined the record of the proceedings before the medical committee. The committee consisted of Dr. M. L. Harris, former president of the American Medical association, and four other physicians.

The revocation of Dr. Schireson's license resulted from charges following an operation which resulted in the amputation of both legs of Miss Sayde Holland, 4910 Winthrop avenue.

Hay Fever Victims Can Now Stay Home

Expensive Trips Unnecessary Due to Doctor's Discovery

Indianapolis—Thousands who formerly found it necessary to take expensive trips to escape from their Hay Fever will spend this summer at home in peace and comfort. This is borne out by the records of an institution which has for years been in touch with Hay Fever victims all over America.

Many who had Hay Fever twenty to thirty years have had no touch of the disease for several seasons. Their present comfort is due to the discovery of the basic cause of Hay Fever and Asthma by the celebrated Dr. W. J. Fugate, who developed a treatment which has brought relief to thousands. These are beneficiaries of his discovery in every part of the country.

An important booklet on Dr. Fugate's discovery of the true cause of Hay Fever and Asthma will be sent free by L. P. Hinkley, Mgr., Dept. 8715, 126 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Every Hay Fever sufferer should write for this free booklet.

SIX CONFESS 50 HOME ROBBERIES, ALL IN DAYLIGHT

Fifty daylight burglaries in Rogers Park and Evanston homes were solved yesterday with the confession of a gang of six men under arrest in the Rogers Park police station. They are James Lovejoy, 19 years old, 5639 Wentworth avenue; Jack Green, 17, of 935 Dakin street; Paul White, 5131 Winthrop avenue; Stephen Ligarotis, 17, of 1415 North La Salle street; Lee Smith, 28, of 659 Buckingham place, and Jack Lamhorn, 23, 4065 Sheridan road.

They implicated the others when questioned by police and confessed the burglaries. Smith, gang members said, was the fence who purchased the loot. The confessed burglars told police that all of the burglaries were daylight jobs. One of the gang members rang the doorbell of a house marked for burglarizing and, if no one answered, entered and admitted his accomplices, the prisoners said.

Curse o' Crows Perils Critic of Donn Byrne

But Literary Editor Likes to Receive Letters.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

WHEN I wrote, last week, exactly what I thought about the reputation enjoyed during his life and posthumously by Donn Byrne, I realized that I had let myself in for something, but for just how much I didn't exactly foresee. A letter the next morning warned me. Wrote Terry O'Donnell: "I don't think you know what you let yourself in for when you wrote of Messer Donn Byrne as you did today. Don't you know there are 2,000,000 Irish and near-Irish, not to mention the shanty-Irish, hereabouts, and it will be the curse 'o the crows for you before you see the light of another day? Well, here is one Celt who gives you his sympathy and admiration."

And in the same mail Don Quinn thus spoke his mind to me as an upstart:

"Few people, lest they be complete simpletons, expect either integrity in politics or modesty in book reviewing. Even so, it is considered intelligent, I believe, to dissimulate occasionally in order not to alienate entirely the dear public.

"For instance, your pontifical finality in disposing of so many books and authors is annoying and irritating, to me at least. I suspect you of delusions of grandeur. Can this be the result of a trip to Europe and a half-dozen literary tea klatches?

"I append for your use a few phrases, which, if judiciously applied, will make your columns much pleasanter reading, I think.

"In my opinion . . ."

"I may possibly be wrong, but . . ."

"To me, at least . . ."

"While I may not be the last word . . ."

"I think . . . ," etc., ad infinitum.

And from John M. Flynn:

"Please permit me to congratulate you upon your recent sage and timely observations on Donn Byrne. His vogue in America—he had none whatever in Ireland—was probably due to two facts.

"Byrne wrote the kind of stories most Americans, most people who speak English natively, like best. He was a complete sentimentalist although not a very mawkish one.

"America is the last haunt of the stage Irishman. He probably will endure here for quite a while. I don't mean the stage Irishman in his first incarnation—the red headed, green whiskered, whirooing broth of a boy who wasn't badly unlike an ape. The Irish didn't like him, small blame to them. I have in mind the second and still prevalent type of stage Irishman, the kind the Irish like, especially the Irish in America. In his lowest form he was to be found in the productions of Chauncey Olcott and Fiske O'Hara. He sang in a pleasing tenor, wore lovely plush breeches and, strange as it may seem, very frequently was the possessor of a title that he couldn't have had in any other way except through the friendliness either of himself or his forbears for the hated Sassanach.

"This latter day stage Irishman was not entirely a creature of the boards. A genteel playboy, he has romped across the pages of innumerable magazines. Donn Byrne was his greatest portrayer—a fact which says more for the stage Irishman than for Mr. Byrne. If Donn's books tell anything about him he was a snob, a worshiper of blue blood for no reason than that it was recorded as blue in Burke and Debrett. Many Americans who like the Irish but see no good reason for liking them are glad to get some justification for their liking even in fiction. This is especially true of the American of Irish descent, usually a person a bit ashamed of his immediate Irish forbears. Donn Byrne gives such people a picture of what they would have liked their grandfather to have been—a romantic English gentleman with an Irish name beginning with Fitz or De. This sort of thing, I imagine, had a lot to do with making Donn Byrne the least genuinely Irish of modern Irish writers, America's preferred writer of Irish fiction."

And thus the battle rages. There's nothing more fun than a good barrage of criticism for and against. As for me, I'd rather have even the curse o' the crows [whatever it is] from somebody who had read the column and got steamed up enough to do a thorough job of cursing than the silence that may mean that nobody on earth is reading the lines that I sit writing on a steamy afternoon about a book that I have sat up until two of a steamy night and early morn reading.

The New England sea captain who said, "All I want from you is silence and damned little of that," wasn't quoting the literary editor. I LIKE letters!

Tour of Shops Sure Cure for Hot Day Blues

Rhea Seeger Tells of Hunt for New Styles.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A few of our masculine contemporaries have been known to spend some little time wondering why and how we manage to dash about the town each day with the same unflagging enthusiasm. Thus complimented by even a few minutes of their attention, we glibly answer that a good shop hound always shops enthusiastically, always expects to find something new, and, praise be to all the clever designers, is seldom if ever disappointed!

You can absolutely forget heat waves and the much discussed humidity when you start a shopping trip to discover what "they will be wearing" this fall. You will forget to eat, and the time, and any other quests when some obliging buyer shows you the first new hats that are significant signs of what will cling to the best half-covered heads of those who know this fall.

There are some new evening gowns that will thrill you despite the fact that you have seen so many; long slinky white chiffon affairs that are as classically draped and as simple as the graceful figures on a Greek vase. One model has a short but intriguing train and the deep cowl neckline is accented with a jade green and white pair of chiffon roses. That completes the description of such a gown that has to be worn to be properly appreciated. Another lovely white chiffon evening gown that is new uses a vivid red and white dotted chiffon three-cornered scarf as an only accent. The skirt is ankle length and very wide and full.

If you are looking for a white silk suit that is distinctly different from the usual summer creations you'll find a two piece model that will certainly "suit" any particular shopper. A sleeveless one piece frock is ingeniously contrasted with a filmy bow of black lace and a belt also covered with the same black lace. The jacket is short and fagoted together.

Since there will be lots of afternoon garden parties or other similar occasions when you will need a new frock to stun the gossiping audience into silence, you will notice, with a few gasps yourself, the utterly feminine gowns of lace trimmed and embroidered fine French organdy. These long picturesque frocks are exquisitely fashioned with lavish insets of lace and motifs of hand embroidery. They fit smoothly and tightly as far as the knees, then swirl fanlike from the knees to the ankle. The tiniest buttons imaginable are used for the side closing device. The color is most unusual and the sheer cool organdie is so much like stiffened chiffon that it would fool an expert. The color is a soft creamy beige that looks exactly like the pale amber of tea before you use either sugar, lemon, or cream.

Some new sheer printed linen dresses to wear during the last few weeks of torrid temperatures are particularly cool and crisp looking. Light brown patterns, deep blue, and dull reds contrast most beguilingly against large sections of white. These frocks have brief sleeves, deep V necklines, and simple flaring skirts. They are marked low enough to justify a shrewd late in the season purchase and becoming enough to revive any dull and well worn summer wardrobe!

Acquiring Tan Without Burn Becomes an Art

Society Turns Back to the Practice of Ancients.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

To tan or not to tan. That is the hot weather question. And most of society, having already answered it in the affirmative, is well along to a healthy mahogany glow.

"Just as long as it's a healthy mahogany and not a wild lobster interpretation," one of our young barristers who "goes in" for the sun, commented the other morning. "There should be a law against all of the men, and women, too, for that matter, who insist upon the 'undressed' fad in public when all they have to boast of is a couple of streaks of beet root on otherwise snowy backs."

With the barrister I'm inclined to agree. Suntan is all right, good looking, and harmless, too, at least in moderate doses. Any doctor will subscribe to this. Sunburn, on the other hand, is never becoming and, if acquired to any excessive degree, harmful. If the vermillion stages are necessary or preliminary to a tan, certainly there are ways and means of passing them away from the cagle eye of civilization.

The smart young set is on the whole [exceptions have been noted] respectful of this point. And when its members take the sun they do it in a fashionable way. Knollwood and the Saddle and Cycle are probably the most popular rendezvous for acquiring a nice rich brown. Each club has its own pool, and the Saddle and Cycle a generous stretch of Lake Michigan beach besides. Then there's the Onwentsia natatorium and several private pools, including those of the John W. O'Learys and Roy Keehns in Lake Forest and that of the Calvin Fentresses in Hubbard Woods.

At Knollwood the general agreement is that Veronese Beatty has "the best tan." She's reached the rich mahogany stage. Others, however, run Miss Beatty a close second. Among them Mrs. Donald F. Bowey, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. William Freer, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Morris Townley, and Sophia Harrington. Mrs. Malcolm Ross Byron [Alice O'Leary] takes the sun at Knollwood when she isn't swimming in her family's pool.

As a matter of fact, this business of getting tanned is a curious cycle. We all know that the ancients worshiped the sun—that's why we have Sunday. It wasn't until the year 1573 that the day assumed the characteristics of our present Sabbath.

Any history book tells of the ancient worship of the sun, of the great temples that were erected to the sun god, also of the large galleries that were built into them for sun bathing. Long before the birth of Christ Herodotus was recommending sun baths for restoring muscular tone, and the theories of Hippocrates credited the sun with mental and physical healing powers. The "best people" indulged. It was a rite for the so-called upper classes.

Then, to bring the story down through the ages, persons about the time that this republic was founded began to stay out of the sun as much as possible. Suntan to them was a sign of menial labor. Only the man who worked in the field was of necessity tanned and weather-beaten. The wealthy and leisure classes advertised their positions by white skins free from any tan. Even the farmer's wife used the sunbonnet as a means of preserving her fair complexion.

This in contrast to Madame Fashion's present decree, which brings the story back to its beginning. Today a browned skin may frequently be interpreted as a sign of leisure, a peachblow complexion a sign of the worker.

Fortunately, however, doctors say, the suntan fad has been tempered the last couple of years by some good common sense. The heliophobes or at least many of them [those whose skins will only redden and never tan] have given up the chase.

Good morning!

The precocious and sensitive acting of a little girl is the most impressive thing about this production.

Young as Betty Jane Graham is, hers is the rôle of leading lady, and her portrayal shines out vividly against the richly competent work of each adult player, each of whom possesses an enviable record. Little Dickie Moore is there, too, to embellish matters with his cunning face and ways—and you love him; but Betty Jane's the one you'll remember.

"No Greater Love" is a sad and sentimental ballad of the Manhattan tenements. It sings re: the mutual devotion of a middle aged Hebrew delicatessen store owner and the little lame Irish girl whose self-appointed foster father he becomes.

The coldly efficient "charities" succeed in separating the two for a time—but God's in his heaven—and so on.

Minus the acting with which it is blessed I fear the film would appear trite and saccharine. Lines aren't very potent. Situations lack the subtle something that twists the heartstrings and turns on the tears. But fine playing, abetted by able direction, saves the day and so "No Greater Love" becomes worth while.

[Vaudeville at the State-Lake, too, you know.]

See you tomorrow!

Stop 'n' Think, Says Doris to Restless Wives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Like hundreds of other married women, "Mona" does not know what she wants. One day she wants to be the pampered little domestic pet. The next she wants to prove she's just as good a man in the earning sense as her husband. One day she gets a great kick out of turning out and serving her husband a smart, wholesome menu. The next day she's all up in the air about the "menial" aspect of her domestic job.

One day she wouldn't have her husband anything but what he represents in nice husbandly devotion. The next day she's willing to dispense with the devotion for a fling at one of those "interesting" jobs she hears tell about.

And, in countless numbers of cases, this is exactly what's wrong with marriage. The woman doesn't know what she wants. She wants to eat of her marriage cake—but not be asked to digest it! She wants to be a petted dependent. And she wants the rights and privileges of an unmarried, successful, independent woman. In fact, she feels she's eligible to the same rights and privileges as her provider husband: Evenings off; Saturdays and Sundays and holidays to play golf, fish, motor; get away from the job, in any event.

In justice, she may be entitled to her days off, to her five day week. But woman's world hasn't yet ironed out a program that will indulge her in this respect. The married woman's inescapable job is to cook and serve meals, look after the youngsters, and keep the house in order Saturdays, Sundays and holidays included. And all the modern feminist propaganda doesn't seem to change the inescapable routine one iota.

So, if women honestly want to know what's wrong with marriage—theirs particularly—they might look into this befuddled state of mind that stamps so many of them.

Why not cast the dice for one course or the other and stick to the choice? A housekeeper, home maker, or a career carver, which do you want to be? Choose—then go ahead and be it!

Virginia Chapman Making Plans for Her Debut in Holiday Season

Dinner Dance to Be Held at Casino; Studies at University of Chicago Will Go on.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT is pleasant to be able to report about one young lady who is going ahead with plans for her debut, for in these days of change and upsets and upheavals of all sorts it is nice, isn't it, to realize that it is possible for some one to make a plan in advance and carry it out?

Pretty young Virginia Chapman, the John A. Chapmans' youngest daughter, who is having such a good time in Lake Forest this summer, is to make her debut at a dinner dance at the Casino during the Christmas holidays—the date is not absolutely definite yet—but life will not be all frivolity for her next year, for she is to continue her studies at the University of Chicago and that means plenty of hard work mixed in with her good times.

It would be quite sad if Virginia couldn't have her party (as long as she wants it), for both her older sisters, Margaret and Eleanor, had similar ones, Margaret's last year on Dec. 29 and Eleanor's the year before on Dec. 27. Eleanor still is abroad, having gone over last winter, and Margaret is in Bar Harbor visiting Mrs. Robert H. McCormick and the Misses Eleanor and Patty McCormick, and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and Virginia are leaving Saturday for a month at that fashionable Maine resort.

T. Philip Swifts Leave for Wyoming Ranch Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift left on Sunday with their two small sons to spend two weeks on a ranch in Wyoming. The Swifts' little daughter departed yesterday with her grandmother, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, to spend the rest of the summer at a cottage Mrs. Hoyt has taken at the Wianno club at Wianno, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings (Emilie Hoyt) and their two children will go east the latter part of this week to join Mrs. Hoyt at Wianno.

Mrs. James B. Forgan Sr. returned to Chicago last night from a visit at Saranac lake with her granddaughter, Mrs. Thomas Kemp (Mary Ott) and her new great-grandchild. She is not to linger long in town, however, and will be off today for her summer estate at Harbor Point.

Mrs. John Eliot Warner of Winnetka and her children, Barbara and Silas Warner, who have gone east for a fortnight or three weeks, spent last week-end at the Red Lion inn at Stockbridge, Mass., in the Berkshires. Mrs. John W. Valentine, who is spending the summer with Mr. Valentine's parents, the Joseph L. Valentines, at Ashland, Mass., was also a week-end visitor at Stockbridge. Mrs. Edward K. Welles is back in Lake Forest after a visit with the George Alfred Cluetts at Williamstown, not far from Stockbridge.

Hubbard Carpenter has left for Oswego, N. Y., to join James B. Keogh of the New York Yacht club on Mr. Keogh's yacht Largo for a three weeks' cruise in the northern channel. Wilbur and Charles F. Parker of Cleveland make up the foursome aboard.

North Shore Children to See "Magic Whistle" Today.

North shore mothers are planning to take their children this afternoon to see "The Magic Whistle," to be given by the young Jack and Jill players in the outdoor theater on Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw's Lake Forest estate. If it rains—and of course all the youngsters are hoping it won't—the performance will be held in the auditorium of the Country Day school. The show will be repeated tomorrow and proceeds of both days will benefit Druce Lake camp. Mrs. Marion T. Martin and Mrs. Kenneth Templeton are chairmen of the show committee.

Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, Mrs. James T. Mitchell, Mrs. Thomas G. Wells, Mrs. John S. Brocksmith, Mrs. T. Albert Potter, Mrs. Lawrence O. Wilson, and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon are among the mothers who are giving luncheon parties for their children and their young guests before the performance.

Mrs. Clyde M. Carr is opening her residence in Lake Forest this morning at 11 o'clock for the second of four lecture recitals by Lee Pattison. The first was given last week and the next will be on Aug. 16.

Marriage License Issued for Caroline E. Schofield.

A wedding license was issued yesterday at Waukegan for Caroline Eleanor Schofield and R. Hilliard Oborne of California, the marriage to take place at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon at the Highland Park residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schofield. Miss Schofield will be given in marriage by her father. She will have no wedding attendants and neither will Mr. Oborne. They will reside in Pasadena.

Richard M. Walrath of Scott street has left to join Mrs. Walrath at Geneva, N. Y., where she is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. William Ernest Walker.

Dr. and Mrs. William Finney have as their guests at Lake Geneva Mrs. Finney's sister, Miss Nellie Wheeler of Boyce, Va., and two of Miss Wheeler's neighbors in Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gilpin, who have some of their yearling colts at Arlington this season. They make almost daily excursions to Arlington to the races.

Mrs. Albert F. Madlener will open her residence at Lake Geneva on Tuesday, Aug. 2, from 10 to 5:30 o'clock for a sale for the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins.

Former Winnetkan Gives Garden Party in London.

From London we hear about a garden party at the residence of Mrs. Clarence Gasque, formerly of Winnetka [our correspondent writes tha no summer is complete without a garden party at the Gasque place, the Elms] for the benefit of the St. Pancras Housing Improvement society. That sounds as if a great deal of ingenuity had been shown in inducing the guests to part with their money for a good cause.

There was a cricket match with authors against actresses, J. B. Priestley captaining the authors' eleven, which included John Drinkwater, Clifford Bax, A. J. Cronin, Evelyn Waugh, Ralph Strauss, and Louis Golding. They wore costumes in the athletic apparel of another century with massive beards and top hats. Opposing them were Miss Gladys Cooper's eleven, including Elizabeth Pollock, Cathleen Nesbitt, Joyce Barbar, Maris Ney, and Flora Robson.

Our correspondent adds that every one enjoyed the game immensely, although no one knew what the score was, least of all the players. Princess Alice, countess of Athlone, opened the party. The refreshments were strawberries and cream and iced coffee which now has a strong hold on Britishers, although they are not yet, and probably never will be, converted to having their tea iced, so our correspondent opines.

The letter also tells of a beautiful dinner party given recently by Mrs. Claude Leigh [Myrtle Johnson of Chicago] at her new residence on Brook street in Mayfair. The marquess of Carisbrooke added to the enjoyment of the party by singing, accompanied by Miss Ivy St. Heller. The 30 guests were seated at three round tables in the mirrored dining room, the general color scheme of which is soft green under foot and soft cream draperies with indirect and diffused lighting added to the glow of two tall floor candelabra.

Henry Porter Isham Wins Lake Geneva Golf Event.

Henry Porter Isham was the winner of the annual invitation golf tournament at the Lake Geneva Country club last Friday and Saturday, playing the 72 holes in 295, and Henry C. Bartholomay was second with a score of 303.

Miss Helen Clow will give a luncheon and bridge party today at her residence on Moffett road in Lake Forest for the board of the Sunbeam league of Chicago. Mrs. Charles Sloan is president of the league; Miss Virginia Erlandson, first vice president; Mrs. Carl H. Van Sinden, second vice president; Mrs. Carroll W. Johnson, third vice president; Mrs. John R. Dewson, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry R. Morrow, corresponding secretary; Miss Martha Murphy, treasurer, and Mrs. Edmund R. Landis, chairman of arrangements.

These officers with Miss Clow, Mrs. James J. McKenna, Mrs. Harry E. Belford, Mrs. John J. Chalmers, Mrs. Lennox Haldeman, Mrs. George H. Trout, and Mrs. Otto L. Mast compose the board.

250,000 Expected at Shrine Meeting in San Francisco Today

San Francisco, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—Tens of thousands of fezzed Shriners today took possession of San Francisco in honor of the convention and "national demonstration of optimism" here of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Although the convention proper will not start until tomorrow, impromptu parades, demonstrations, and stunts blocked traffic and the police didn't care.

Street car schedules were demoralized as Shriners of Nile temple, Seattle, put on a mock funeral for "John Depression—born 1928, died 1932 in San Francisco."

Shrine officials estimated more than 250,000 visitors will have been registered when the first of the four big parades of the "national demonstration" gets under way at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The sessions of the imperial council, governing body of the Shriners, will start at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. Imperial Potentate Thomas J. Houston of Medinah temple, Chicago, will respond to several addresses of welcome.

White Sox Fans Urged to Hurry Letter Writing

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

How are those letters coming along, White Sox fans? If you haven't written yours you have today and tomorrow to do so, but remember I must have them by Thursday morning at the latest, so that I can read them and select the winners to the White Sox-Yankee party on Aug. 4.

Are you following the activities of the south side team? If so, you know how hard those boys have been playing. They may lose more games than we like to see, but one has to admit that they display a fighting spirit and their opponents do not pile up their victories easily. The two games with the Cleveland Indians on Sunday were good evidence of this. In the first Fothergill, the left fielder, made a thrilling home run. And there were two base hits by Hayes, and Funk, and Lu Blue.

In the second game Fothergill scored again, as did Hayes, and Kress, and Grube. These men are fighters, and the team which can hit as they do should provide plenty of excitement at the game we're planning to see. And won't it be fun to sit in box seats! We'll see every play without stretching our necks or standing.

All in all, it should be a marvelous party, and if you want to be one of the hundred boys and girls to attend it you'll have to write a very convincing letter. Those I've glanced over so far were certainly written by fans, and Sox fans at that. Of course, we're all baseball enthusiasts, and that's what makes writing a good letter so simple. And the prospect of seeing two major league teams play should inspire you even more.

In writing, do not forget to mention your age. Have your name and address written clearly, do not ask for an invitation for any one except yourself, and address the letter to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Doria asks Gold to dine with her. They are joined by Pierce and Dorrance. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat and threatens to disclose his identity unless Gold does as he bids. Pierce, who overhears Gip's threats, unknown to Gold, arranges to get him third class passage on condition he doesn't bother Gold. Dorrance offers Gold a position as his secretary on the Havana trip, which she gladly accepts. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

A SHOULDER TO WEEP ON.

"You mustn't want oblivion," said Pierce in a voice that, for some reason he could not exactly gauge, surprised Dorrance. "There is a world before you yet."

"The sort of world you have described to me before?" Gold asked.

He began to remember regretfully every mocking word he had spoken to her. So she remembered, too, and still recoiled, refusing his world?

"Perhaps not," he said, still very quietly, "we make our own worlds to a great extent. So . . . perhaps not."

A few passengers besides themselves had drifted in and the band struck up. "Shall we?" said Barney, a hand on Gold's wrist.

But he knew with all the old exultation of younger days exactly the values to himself of what he was doing: he had the desired girl—yes, no use in lying to himself—in his arms for the first time. He felt for the first few minutes of that harmonious unison that they interpreted each other's dancing so flawlessly because they interpreted each other's hearts: but his saner knowledge told him that it was her mood that molded him and would have molded her into the arms of any partner—a mood which cried to her: "Is all lost now? Let me make the best of every moment."

Dorrance's good humored casual glance never missed much. He knew exactly when Pierce's arm tightened round the girl and he knew that he was giving her the sort of gentle and yet violent shake which, in that proximity, was not all admonition; it would have love in it.

A temporary love of the dancing moment, of course.

But Dorrance could not hear nor guess the words Barney Pierce uttered, as he held Gold in that gentle violent embrace:

"'Oblivion' be damned. You don't want oblivion. If you do you lack sheer biological guts."

Then, another shake. "And you don't lack biological guts."

"Of course, Mrs. Hathaway has asked for this," Dorrance mused, watching them, "but all the same, I'll warn the girl if I can: this isn't the tactics."

He did not expect them yet, if at all, to rejoin him at the table and, sending for coffee, he contented himself with looking on. Women had now drifted into the room with whom he could have danced—women he had already been able to say "good morning" on deck, but he did not wish thus to enlarge their party. He wished to segregate Barney Pierce as far as possible. So he sat looking at the girl in Pierce's arms and thinking, "Lord, she is stunning tonight! Well, little Mrs. Hathaway has asked for it."

As he thus ranged matters in his own mind he heard Doria's "Hello!" She swept past him in her silver gown and wrap. Behind her came the young man of the velvet dinner coat and flowing tie.

They went to a table close to the band, from which Doria signed, and smiled to the leader.

She meant to have that tango played as soon as might be, for it was not only Gip who had an uneasy sensation of the doom of their evening. Their evening, so defiantly planned, might at any minute ignominiously end. How, she did not foresee. But Elverton's eyes, hardening as she would not have supposed they could harden, had frightened her.

She saw Gold dancing with Barney. Well, why not? It was quite natural that this should happen. Cause: her own desertion; effect: what she saw before her now. She put a caressing hand on Gip's sleeve.

"My traveling companion—see? I like the girl to have a nice time."

"How sweet you are!"

"I like other women, even servants; I suppose she's a kind of servant. I always was fair to my own sex. There! The waltz has stopped. The band leader is going to give us our tango."

"Hardly any one stands up for a real tango."

"They can't. But you and I can."

Indeed, no other couple danced at all when Doria and Gip took the floor. But it was mostly amazement and admiration that held them all back. Lilt of slow challenging music, sway of supple bodies, stamp of rhythmic feet, beauty, and allure: smiling mouths, eyes flashing at each other: Gip and Doria, regaining bravado and high spirits, impressed every spectator as no less than a first class exhibition pair. Intermittent applause, gasps of appreciation followed them round the floor. Dorrance himself was looking on with a new and lively admiration for Doria so that he did not see Barney Pierce take Gold away. What he did see, though, was that the captain had entered with the purser, that he was standing impassively by, and that Elverton had joined them.

"Do you want to see this?" Barney had asked Gold as perfunctorily as if he had no clew to Gip's identity.

As perfunctorily she answered: "No. Unless Mrs. Hathaway might think I ought to. I mustn't be rude."

"It doesn't matter what she thinks!" His voice was low and deep. He had signed to a steward, who was already beside them with her coat. Pierce held it, and when she had slipped in her long white arms he wrapped it about her quickly. "Brave! bravo! bravo!" called the people watching the dance, and a storm of handclapping followed Pierce and Gold into the gangway, where they gained the exit to the promenade deck.

Soon other couples would be walking there between dances, but there were none yet.

He kept his hand at her elbow as if in ordinary precaution against the movement of the ship.

She did not know why, would not acknowledge it, but the firm hand gave her a sense of more than physical security. It seemed to lull fears.

All she could think of definitely was Gip. Uncontrollable yet dependent, daring yet weak, selfish yet appealing, when, in the whole course of their young lives together, had he not presented to her an exhausting, insoluble problem?

"I am so glad to have danced with you," the man beside her was saying. "I wanted to last night, but you disappeared with Dorrance."

She had the idea that he was speaking just for the sake of giving her time to recover from a mental confusion at which he guessed; his voice was so leisurely, level, inexpressive, as if not expecting an answering remark. Ah! but he must not guess at her concentration of anxieties and fears; he must not guess at Gip! She had garnered, even while on the ship, apart from the strict passport and ticket formalities in London, some of the immigration severities. Penniless people could not flit here and there about a world sharply inquiring into the state of their pockets. What then of Gip's "rich passenger" who had paid his third class fare? Would this fabled personage really be able to see him through? Would Gip continue to placate or offend, as was his way, his benefactor? Could one count on any wisdom at all in him? So, from the devastation of her mind, she answered Barney Pierce at random:

"I have enjoyed it."

His firm hand on her arm tightening, and: "Miss Franklyn, you're rather worried. Won't you tell me?"

Fiercely he wanted her confidence, but she had no inkling of the storm in him or the force that kept his voice and words so leisurely and quiet:

"I——worried?" she echoed.

She was afraid of the break in her voice. "I mustn't cry," she thought, and lifted her head high. The wind swept back her gold hair.

"You weren't happy, at dinner," he said.

"Of course, I was happy——" her voice betrayed her again—"at dinner."

"Is it Mrs. Hathaway who troubles you? Because she deserted us?"

She shook her head. With every nerve in her body quivering, she could have fallen on any shoulder—even Barney's—and wept, and wept. Sometimes in past days she had so wept, though only if alone, and she longed for the supreme relief.

But here—now? No. She would not weep.

Rowland Brown Walks Out on Another Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 25.—[Special.]—Rowland Brown, film writer and director who shares only with Charlie Bickford in the he-man way in which he asserts, emphasizes, and carries his movie opinions, had left one ardent admirer in the wake of his latest walkout. The admirer is Richard Dix.

Brown is known here by the number of cases in which, after being assigned by some studio to direct a picture, he has retired at the start, in the middle, or at the end of his picture because his production was being changed in the course of its making.

The last time Brown reached for his hat was last week on the "Liberty Road," a story about a southern chain gang in which Dix was featured. The film was practically completed, but Radio-RKO studio heads decided to insert a few added scenes.

"Well, you will have to get some other director to make them," Brown said.

"That man Brown is a great fellow," Dix said. "I admire his nerve. When he told me he was going to leave because he simply couldn't shoot those scenes the way they wanted I knew he meant exactly what he said."

Brown has never compromised with what he regarded as the artistic or logical integrity of a story he wrote or agreed to direct. His walkouts have been three in the last year, but, like Joe Von Sternberg, he turns out a good picture when he does finish them and the studios can't afford not to use him.

Brown was all set to take a trip on a tramp steamer—he's the kind of fellow who likes his vacations rough—but M-G-M decided it wanted him too badly, so the steamer sailed without Brown.

John Cromwell, another good director, is completing the scenes in "Liberty Road" which Brown wouldn't do, and the studio expects great things of the production. Brown will get all the screen credit as its director.

Brown's retirement from "Liberty Road" is his second walkout at Radio RKO studio within the year, his first withdrawal being after he was scheduled to direct John Barrymore and Helen Twelvetrees in "State's Attorney," which was directed by George Archainbaud instead.

Charlie Chaplin Jr. is left handed about everything he does. So is Charlie Sr.

The two Chaplin boys, Charlie and Tommy, have played with all the typewriters in the offices at the Fox studio, where they are being tested for their coming film debuts. "O, well, more than half the typewriters still work," a girl in one of the offices said optimistically.

The first public preview of the Dolores Del Rio-Joel McCrea version of "Bird of Paradise" threw the spell of the South seas over a professional audience of several hundred last night. Photography that was gaspingly beautiful and a most effective use of music marked the film which, in the opinion of this one movie follower, presents Del Rio in the best light as an actress she has yet enjoyed. And if McCrea isn't already a feminine idol he will be. The climax, marked by a wild gust of music in a throbbing, tragic chord, impressed the audience.

Love of Your Children Must Be Deserved

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Do you expect the good things of life to fall like ripe plums into your lap? Or do you expect to have to work for them?

Do you expect the love and companionship and respect and friendliness and confidence of your children to come flowing toward you without doing anything to start it? And do you expect to keep it without effort as they grow older and the relation between you becomes more like that of one grown person with another than of parent and child? People vary a great deal in their opinions on these subjects.

A man who has carved out an unusual career for himself and who has a young son made this statement to me, a few years ago:

"I believe that the things we get in this world are not adventitious. It is my contention that we have to work hard for everything we get. And I think we cannot expect the love and respect and companionship of our children to just come to us. We must expect to work hard to earn and to keep their affection and respect."

Now, you may or may not agree with that, but—

Did you ever sit down and think how much really directed thought we spend on our business, our clothes, our household or on building a house, and then compare that with the amount of thought and study we give to our children and our part in their lives?

On the whole most of us, I think, take our children's obeisance to us too much for granted. We are too inclined to expect, as our due, affection and respect and friendliness simply because we are their parents and not because we are the kind of grownups who deserve these things.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Billy returned from a visit in the city, and when asked how he liked Aunt Emma, answered conservatively, "Well, I don't know, 'tause she sits down and plays cards wif herself all the time." E. G.

Renew Plea as Gifts to Free Ice Fund Fall

Babies' Milk Spoils Despite Mercury Drop.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

As the temperature attempted an upward climb yesterday following the two-day respite from the torrid weather, contributions to THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund took a tumble. Only $42.50 was added to the fund which, through the distribution of ice, guards the health of hundreds of tenement families.

It would appear that the ice fund must depend chiefly upon 90 to 100 degree temperatures to bring gifts to its coffers. Ice is needed just as urgently when summer weather is fairly comfortable. Milk spoils when the thermometer stands at a sultry 85 degrees or even much less. Vegetables wilt and meat spoils and the health of whole families is jeopardized.

The extreme hot weather will be back soon enough but in the meantime, readers, please don't forget to send your gifts to the free ice fund. The total to date is less than $1,300. Last year $7,000 was spent providing free ice for the neediest families known to the welfare agencies. The task ahead is one that will require the support of every friend of the fund in the past, and many more.

The day's contributions were headed by a $25 gift from the Jean Ellen Goodman Benefit club. The other gifts are acknowledged, as follows:

TRIBUNE FREE ICE FUND.

$5—Mrs. R. G. Emmert.
$3—Raymond Periman.
$2.50—Mrs. Leon Witkowsky.
$2—"O," Mrs. A. Hoefeld.
$1—One who is interested, Mrs. Ida Anderson, A Friend.

Total	$ 42.50
Previously acknowledged	1,254.74
Grand total	$1,297.24

While mothers in the stuffy tenements are wishing for the regular visit of the ice man, other mothers with their children are making plans for a vacation at Camp Algonquin next week. The camp, operated by the United Charities, is maintained in part by the contributions of TRIBUNE readers. Next Tuesday and again on the following Thursday a special coach of the Chicago and North Western train will transport free of charge these vacationers to Cary, Ill., where camp trucks will carry them to the Fox river camp.

All summer vacations are provided free for mothers wearied by the task of feeding and housing a brood of children without any money. Their children, sometimes eight and ten to a family, have the opportunity to build up their bodies because there is plenty of good nourishing food.

The gifts to the Camp Algonquin fund yesterday are as follows:

CAMP ALGONQUIN FUND.

$3,000—Golden Gloves.
$3—Stage Dwellers Drama league.
$2.50—Mrs. Leon Witkowsky.

Total	$3,005.50
Previously acknowledged	1,831.03
Grand total	$4,836.53

Gifts may be sent to either fund, in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune tower.

Walther League Is Told Slump Gives Opportunity to Youth

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—The mighty upheaval in economic affairs has given youth its chance, E. J. Gallmeyer, Fort Wayne, Ind., postmaster, said in an address today opening the 40th international Walther league convention.

"The youth of the country stands on the threshold of mighty opportunities. Many of the older men will not come back, but this will give youth its greatest chance, the brightest which this country has ever given any generation, and I believe the readjustment will have a beneficial result."

The Rev. Erwin Umbach, executive secretary and considered by league officials as the guiding light of 55,000 members of the organization, revealed the necessity of reducing budgets for league affairs, including the cost of conventions, maintenance of hospices throughout the country, and individual leagues. He said an emergency budget of $25,000 in comparison to the $40,000 budget of recent years will be advocated at this convention.

The minister said a $15,000 pledge for the new library at Valparaiso, Ind., had been paid except for a few hundred dollars, and announced a bronze tablet to the Walther league would be unveiled there in the fall.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Mr and Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, who are spending the season at Rosecrest, their Port Washington home, entertained several guests at a dinner party at the Sands Point Bath club last night. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. William Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Falconer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Von Elm, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Hendrickson.

Mrs. Robert De Forest has left Wawapek farm, her home at Cold Springs Harbor, where she spent the early season, for the Ausable club, in the Adirondack mountains, to pass several weeks.

Mr. Sheldon Whitehouse, United States minister to Guatemala, and Mrs. Whitehouse, who have been visiting his mother, Mrs. William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse, in Paris, are arriving today on the Bremen. They will go to Newport, R. I., for the rest of the summer.

Smart Yachting Outfit Exhibits New Color Trend

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—With all the world wearing navy blue and white this summer, the smart yachting outfit takes another color scheme. One of the favorite shades of the French female mariner is that of scarlet with white. A good many smart boating ensembles are made in this scheme of color, with a white frock and a natty scarlet jacket.

The jacket of the yachting ensemble is also inclined to depart from the double-breasted hiplength type that is familiar to everybody, and this, too, because that kind of jacket is being so generally worn for sports of the landlubber.

The Lucile Paray scarlet flannel jacket shown today is smarter for yachting than the longer jacket, because it's different. It is a double breasted, Eton jacket, with patch pockets, and closes with white buttons. The tailored collar and wide suit revers are an important detail.

The dress that goes with this jacket is made of white linen tweed and is low cut in back, with the arms entirely bare, to allow for deck sun-baths. Bias, stitched bands of the white linen-tweed border the décolleté of the fitted bodice. The skirt has four box plaits to give it width, and these plaits rise in points above the waistline. A scarlet and white striped belt slips under the tops of the plaits.

Society Women to Help Can Food for Use of City's Poor

A group of society women will don aprons today and undertake the task of canning vegetables and fruits for Chicago's poor at the formal opening of a canning kitchen by the Episcopal church of Chicago at St. James Community house, 664 Rush street.

The plan is part of a program which extends throughout the diocese of Chicago, including the northern third of the state. Mrs. Charles S. Williamson, president of the Episcopal women's auxiliary in Chicago, is engineering the kitchen work, and among her assistants are Mrs. Robert F. Hall, Mrs. John R. Hollister, Mrs. Calvin B. Beach, and Mrs. William Ruxton.

In active charge of the kitchen will be Mrs. John Harris of Oak Park and Mrs. W. H. Lloyd. It is to be open Tuesdays and Fridays, and on those days farmers and others will bring their vegetables and fruits into the city to be canned for use next winter in institutions and by unemployed or unfortunate families of the city.

Demonstrating the canning process at today's opening will be the Rev. James G. Jones, rector of Epiphany church, Lombard, and himself an expert canner. The food will be stored and used for emergency relief work next winter.

Use of Gelatin Turns Cookery Into Adventure

Lends New Enticement to Summer Meals.

BY MARY MEADE.

On these hottest of hot days, when you're sure you're going to melt quite away before you're discovered by the first evening breeze [if there is a breeze], serve gelatin.

Quivery, tender, flattered with a thousand colors and flavors to suit your whim, gelatin dishes—from hunger awakening jellied bouillon and tomato cocktails, through glamorous, shivering salads, and on to frosty, molded desserts which offer a hundred new departures in taste thrills—gelatin treats lend a new enticement to every meal and turn summer cookery into a real adventure.

The season for raw pineapple is nearly spent, so desserts from these fresh fruits are only infrequent visitors. But, as a safeguard, put this down in your notebook of things to remember. Never use fresh pineapple for gelatin dishes unless it has been scalded. This is because the uncooked acid of pineapple dissolves the proteins in the gelatin, which should be acting as thickening agents and results of a runny instead of a firm product.

The following recipes for dishes which hold their own with gelatin should make interesting additions to your list of lusciously cool summer possibilities.

BANANA SNOW.

Soak two tablespoons of granulated gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water five minutes, then place over hot water to dissolve. Add four tablespoons of lemon juice, one-third teaspoon of salt, one and one-fourth cups of ripe banana pulp, and one cup of sugar. Whip all together lightly. Now fold in carefully one cup of heavy cream, whipped stiff, and two-thirds cup of marshmallows cut in bits with wet scissors. Pile into individual molds or into one large dessert form, and chill till firm. Serve with ribbon gold cake.

GELATIN PINEAPPLE PIE.

This is the quickest pie you ever made—and quite the proper gesture for a cool dinner surprise on a hot "dog day."

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups juicy crushed, cooked pineapple
2 cups heavy cream, whipped stiff
½ teaspoon vanilla

Bake a flaky pastry shell and cool. Soak the gelatin in the cold water five minutes, add salt. Then dissolve in the juice which has been strained from the pineapple and heated to boiling. Cool until it begins to stiffen, then stir in the crushed pineapple and pour into the pastry shell. When firm, whip the cream, add vanilla and sugar to taste, and pile lightly on the pie. Strawberries, raspberries, or cherries—either fresh or canned—may be used instead of canned or cooked pineapple.

CHERRY BAVARIAN CREAM.

This chilly little dessert starts out with the usual two tablespoons of gelatin soaked in one-fourth cup of cold water. After five minutes' soaking dissolve the gelatin in one cup of boiling water. Add two-thirds cup of sugar and stir until dissolved. Add one tablespoon of lime juice and one cup of cherry juice from sweetened canned cherries. Cool until it begins to harden. Then stir in one cup of heavy cream which has been whipped stiff. Mold in individual ring or shell molds and when chilled and ready to serve turn out onto cold plates, fill the centers with fresh berries, and top with a fluff of sweetened whipped cream.

JELLIED HAM.

2 tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 tablespoons grated American cheese
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1½ cups minced ham
¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1 tablespoon minced parsley
2 cups boiling water

Soak the gelatin in the cold water five minutes, then dissolve in the boiling water. Let partly stiffen. Pour over a mixture of the ham, seasonings, and one-half the cheese. Stir till well blended and turn into a bread pan or fancy mold to stiffen. Serve sliced or turned from the mold. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and the remainder of the grated cheese.

Old Settlers Will Hold 58th Annual Picnic Next Monday

Men and women who were in their prime when the World's Fair of 1893 was in full swing in Jackson park will gather in the large grove at Riverview next Monday for the fifty-eighth annual old settlers' picnic.

The affair, held annually under auspices of the Chicago Turngemeinde, recurrently brings back talk of the Chicago that was, of the great exposition, and of the conflagration that preceded it by more than twenty years, driving scores of these same Chicagoans out of their homes.

There will be the usual registration of all men and women over 40 who have lived in the city since 1903. There will also be numerous contests and prizes, with gold medals awarded for the longest continuous residence, the married couple whose ages combined give the greatest number of years; to the head of the family with the most descendants, etc. Bouquets will also be presented to the oldest dancers when the band plays the tunes of long ago.

Prince Frederick on Visit, Holds U. S. Best Friend of Germany

New York, July 25.—(AP)—Tall, blond and reticent, Prince Frederick August of Prussia, fourth son of the former crown prince of Germany, arrived today for a two months' visit to the country he regards as the greatest friend of his own people.

Prince Frederick declined to talk politics. He posed nine minutes for photographers, took out a pocket camera and shot back at them and then departed with his brother, Prince Louis Ferdinand, who has been working at the Ford plant in Detroit for two years.

Prince Louis motored here from Detroit in 14 hours, but Prince Frederick was more interested in the fact that the Bremen, on which he came, placed her gangplank on the pier 38 minutes after leaving quarantine.

Only Skilled Hands Should Dye Eyebrow

Ugly Effects Are Apt to Greet the Amateur.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can't always trust a lady with an eyebrow dyeing job, no matter how willing the urge. A serio-comic disaster happened to an acquaintance whose hand was none too steady for so intricate a duty. First, she forgot to tweeze out wild hairs around the eyebrow proper, and she had quite a few. Somehow, the dye brush slipped and caught on the wild hairs and the result wasn't exactly what you'd call neat.

If the eyebrows are to be dyed better let the experienced operator do the job or abandon the idea. And see that she does a few things to make the job a perfect one. If you hear of some one with a reputation for knowing something about the kind of eyebrow that goes with the kind of face it should associate with, cultivate her even if she costs a bit more. That eyebrow job does make a powerful lot of difference.

If eyebrows are to be dyed and they happen to be thick, shaggy ones, thin them out before the dyeing is done. Remove all the fuzz around the eyebrows.

The hairline eyebrow is out of fashion, although there is a thinning out here comparable to the thinned out head of hair now in smart vogue.

It is best to hew to the natural line. Don't try creating any new line with the dye unless you have tried it out first with pencil. If the eyebrows are too short the dye is often used successfully to lengthen them, but let the extended line be thin and follow the contour of the eye.

It's obvious from any row of faces greeting your eye across an aisle today that women are experimenting with those eyebrows and lashes and in some cases getting charming results. In others, not so charming. If the face is past that carefree age when anything may be tried once on it, do a lot of thinking before you "skin" the eyebrow line or paint it dark.

Chilled to death ... by warm air!

PEOPLE still get the wrong idea from the story about the little boy who was covered with gold leaf so that his appearance would add color to a pageant in Renaissance Italy. You remember the way the story ends. He died in a few hours. It is usually said that he died because his pores were stopped up and that his death resulted from smothering. You know the skin needs to do a lot of breathing for us. But science has disproved this smothering theory.

Science says that the boy could have been kept alive if he had been kept warm. For the action of the skin keeps body temperature exactly at normal though exposed to heat from flames and cold from icy fields. His clogged skin could not do its work—couldn't keep the heat of his body normal even in the mildness of Mediterranean weather. His vital organs were subjected to below-normal temperature long enough to cause death.

The important thing to remember about these facts is that your skin can and does do a great deal for you every minute you're alive. Good skin is a great deal more than a mere covering for your body, more than a vanity. It's a health asset to be prized.

One of the best ways you can help your old friend skin is to give it the protection of the best and safest soap. The experience of millions during the past fifty years, tells you that your best choice is Cuticura Soap. It contains the same delicate medication which makes Cuticura Ointment ideal for blind pimples and skin eruptions. HIGHWAY POLICE FACE A SHOWUP ON 'SHAKEDOWN'

Two Accused by Autoist from Kenosha.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chief William Collins of the Cook county highway police yesterday promised a showup of his motorcycle patrolmen to identify two accused of shaking down automobile drivers. The complaint was made to THE TRIBUNE in a letter from F. A. Siver, Kenosha, Wis., an employé of the Nash Motors company.

CHIEF COLLINS.

"Sunday evening, July 17, while returning from a trip to South Haven, Mich.," he wrote. "I was stopped by two Cook county motorcycle policemen in Kean avenue just north of 159th street. They claimed that I was driving 53 miles an hour and had passed several cars. I am quite confident I did not exceed 45 miles an hour.

Charges They Took $3.

"Regardless of my speed, this must be a grafting trap since I offered to settle with them for $2 and one of them immediately remarked that it ought to be worth $5. I showed them $3 which they hurriedly took. I was able to obtain one of the motorcycle license numbers.

"After being released, I drove to the first filling station, which I believe is at 143d street and Kean avenue, where one of the attendants said that the car I was driving was the third one stopped in about fifteen minutes. As we left the station, the police had stopped another a few blocks north.

"You are probably bothered continuously with reports of this kind and I am not personally complaining, except that I believe such conditions should be reported in an effort to help the other fellow."

Promises to Aid Inquiry.

Over the telephone Mr. Siver said he would cooperate in investigating the affair and that Harry S. Brown, retired, of Kenosha, owner of the automobile, would also be a witness.

"At the convenience of these Wisconsin men," said Chief Collins, "I would like to have them look at photographs of the patrolmen on my force and I'll have the men working in the southern part of the county on the night of July 17 come into my office any time that is convenient to the complainants.

"I am more anxious than any one else for a thorough investigation."

Urges War on Speed Traps.

J. H. Walden, 6901 Oglesby avenue, president of Chicago Printers, Inc., communicated yesterday with Joseph H. Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor club, suggesting a general campaign against speed traps to make the vicinity of Chicago safe from extorting highway police during the World's Fair. He was arrested on a speeding charge Sunday in Western avenue in Dixmoor and is to appear before Justice of the Peace Charles Rajsl tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Walden spent $500 in a general speed trap campaign conducted by the motor club in 1926. He said he was willing to spend $1,000 this time.

MINERS DROP 6 HOUR DAY PROPOSAL IN NEW WAGE CONTRACT PLAN

Springfield, Ill., July 25.—(AP)—Eliminating the six hour day proposal in the wage contract recently rejected by the miners, a contract was submitted to the miners' policy committee today which retained both the $5 basic wage for company men and the 68 cents tonnage rate for diggers. It provides for an eight hour day.

The contract will be submitted to a referendum of both the miners and the operators. The miners' election will be secret to prevent any "undue influence" by malcontents.

A strip mine wage scale also was ratified providing for a reduction of 19 per cent for diggers who had received over $6 a day under the contract that expired March 31, 1932, and a reduction of 16 2-3 per cent for miners who were paid $6.

The shaft and the strip miners will vote in a joint referendum. International President John L. Lewis and District President John H. Walker declared the agreement was the best that could be obtained "under present conditions."

"THIRD DEGREE" MURDER CHARGE DENIED BY POLICE

Not Guilty Pleas by All Accused.

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen and four other members of the Nassau county police department were arraigned in the Mineola court house today on indictments for manslaughter in the killing of Hyman Stark in a "cruel and inhuman manner."

FRANK J. TAPPEN.

At the same time, a second autopsy on the body of Stark, who died a week ago Friday, was being performed at Staten Island. The disclosure that Tappen had been indicted for manslaughter was the high light of the arraignment.

Arraigned with Tappen and the four accused of manslaughter were seven men charged with assault, second degree, for the beating of three men arrested with Stark, and an additional man, charged with being an accessory to a felony.

All pleaded not guilty and were continued in bail.

WATCH SERVICE MANAGER FREED IN LARCENY CASE

Joseph Litchen, manager of the Imperial Watch service, was discharged yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court on a charge of larceny. The charge was brought against Litchen when an employé of the service, John Kotruck, was arrested after merchandise taken from the Morrison Manufacturing company, 2649 Clybourn avenue, was found in a garage where it had been stored by Kotruck. Kotruck said he stole the merchandise at the order of Litchen. Judge David refused to believe Kotruck's story and dismissed the charge against Litchen. Kotruck was found guilty and placed on probation.

ARKANSAS CALLS TROOPS AS CLASH OCCURS AT MINES

Pit Boss Beaten as Union Men Invade Field.

Clarksville, Ark., July 25.—(AP)—Efforts of 500 union miners to halt nonunion operations in the Johnson county coal fields caused disorder today that resulted in injuries to a mine boss and mobilization of National Guardsmen.

The organizers, who flocked into the Clarksville area, camped near the mines tonight under the watchful eyes of troops who were ordered out by Gov. Harvey Parnell.

Bob Griffith, a pit boss at the Clarksville Coal company mine, was brought to a hospital after a beating by a group of organizers whom he denied entrance to the mine. He was not seriously hurt.

Except for the one brush the invaders were peaceful.

Union representatives here have been seeking an agreement with operators in this section for some time without success.

Co-op Mines Would Reopen.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 25.—[Special.]—Spokesmen for the coöperative coal miners, who for the last three years have operated the Hoosier shaft at Dugger, came to the statehouse here today to ask Gov. Harry G. Leslie to remove his embargo on their mining activities. But the governor was absent.

Mining at the Hoosier shaft was curtailed ten days ago when a group of 1,000 to 2,000 men, women, and children constantly picketing the mine, demanded it be closed.

The coöperatives insist they have a legal right to conduct their own business and on this basis they tried to appeal to Gov. Leslie. They agreed to a truce last week, but now they want the governor to end it so they can continue their mining, which, on a basis of 25 per cent royalty, pays them about $1.50 each daily.

Owners of the Hoosier mine went into federal receivership some time ago, so it is worked under federal court jurisdiction.

BLAMES PILOT AFTER SHOT HITS GIRL ON YACHT

Capt. Walter E. Anderson, custodian of the National Guard rifle range at Camp Logan, north of Zion, said yesterday that Miss Rosa Peterson, 704½ Hinman avenue, Evanston, who was wounded on Sunday by a rifle bullet fired on the range, would not have been hurt had not the pilot of the yacht on which she was a passenger disregarded warnings.

"Notices have been published in all newspapers," said Capt. Anderson, "and distributed to the coast guard, yacht clubs, and similar associations, that the range is in use from May 15 to Nov. 15, and that yachts should stay at least 500 yards off shore. I am informed that the yacht on which Miss Peterson was a passenger was inside the buoys moored at the danger line."

The yacht was owned by Wellington Quirk, 319 Dempster street, Evanston. Mr. Quirk asserted last night that he was within his nautical rights in bringing his craft where he did at the time of the shooting. There were no signals, guards, buoys, nor any of the usual precautionary warnings, he said, to keep vessels out of the target zone. His yacht was more than a mile out, he added.

CHINA TO RESIST JAP INVASION IN JEHOL PROVINCE

Chiang Calls Army Chiefs Together.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 26.—[Tuesday.]—The action of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist leader and virtual dictator of China, in calling into conference at Kuling high military officials to consider the Sino-Japanese crisis, caused the Nationalist government's bonds to drop heavily in the Shanghai market yesterday because of the belief that hostilities are imminent.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord and a leading Nationalist military figure in North China, is holding a similar conference in Peiping, and the belief is general that China intends to meet the Japanese invasion in Jehol province with armed resistance. Jehol is in Inner Mongolia and north of Peiping.

The first definite step was taken Sunday when the Chinese government declared a postal embargo against Manchuria, completely cutting off communication by mail. This action, coupled with the customs embargo already in effect, has precipitated a crisis which is apparently leading to armed conflict.

Jap Planes Fly Over Cities.

Reports from Peiping state that Japanese airplanes are flying over cities in Jehol, dropping leaflets urging the Chinese people to cut off relations with China and join the Japanese-supported Manchoukuo state in Manchuria.

The national government reported last night that the Japanese have one division of troops at Chinchow and that forty military planes have been concentrated at recently prepared flying fields at Suichung and Hsingcheng in southern Fengtien province.

A spokesman for the Chinese government declared that Japan's intention to occupy Jehol is unquestioned and that the Japanese attack on Chaoyang on July 17 was to feel out the Chinese to determine whether they intended to resist. The Japanese used 200 soldiers in this engagement.

Will Resist Attacks.

Since the Chinese resisted, the Japanese are now mobilizing a larger force and are making rapid preparations for large scale fighting, the spokesman said.

"The central government as well as Marshal Chang is determined to resist further Japanese attacks," he said. "The gallantry of the Chinese forces which defended Shanghai has served to inspire the entire nation."

YANKEE TROOPS IN CANADA GO TO PRESENT FLAG

Share Sault Ste. Marie Wolf Week Fete.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 25.—[Special.]—More than 600 armed United States troops "invaded" Canada this afternoon to participate in the opening day of Wolf week, Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario's, mammoth bush celebration.

The troops from Fort Brady here took part in the presentation of a flag to Sault, Ont., to represent that taken from the Canadian city by American troops during the war of 1812. With the soldiers were Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, Chicago, who officially represented his government in the celebration along with Lieut. Col. Francis A. Ruggles, assistant chief of staff, and Maj. M. Crawford, commanding officer of Fort Brady. The Canadian army was represented by Maj. Gen. E. C. Ashton, commander of the 2d army district, Toronto.

The Wolf week celebration is the brain child of a Sault, Ont., editor, who claims that no wolf ever attacked a human and who quotes an old lumberjack as saying that "whoever says he has been et by a wolf is a liar." Included on the week's program is an enactment of Hiawatha by Indians of a nearby reservation, the making of a birchbark canoe, said to be almost a lost art, and a swimming meet Thursday in which nationally known swimmers will compete.

GIRL DIES OF BURNS.

Helen Mokry, 6 years old, 8405 Mackinaw avenue, died of burns yesterday in the county hospital. She set fire to her clothing Saturday when she crawled under a bed in her home with a lighted match, seeking a lost ball.

GIVES LIFE TRYING TO SAVE BOY WHO IS SAVED BY OTHERS

Paul Smiths, N. Y., July 25.—[Special.]—Walter Drurey, superintendent of Sunwood Farm, the Valley Forge [Pa.] estate of Mr. and Mrs. F. Woodston Hancock Jr., gave his life in an attempt to save Woodson, his employer's 11 year old son, from drowning, today in St. Regis lake.

Had it not been for a party of Boy Scouts, who were paddling on the lake a short distance away, it is probable that both the boy and his mother, who also sprang to the rescue fully clothed, would have drowned. Both were taken from the lake unconscious and revived.

WHEN FIRST-CHOICE TIRES cost no more

HERE is the greatest tire bargain in a bargain-hunting year.

In quality — it has the incomparable experience of the world's largest rubber company back of it.

In price — it is marked down to the lowest level of any past summer in history.

That's why it outsells all other tires in this thrifty year of 1932.

That's why Goodyear Tires are first-choice by more than 2 to 1 in the opinion of the motoring public.

Rubber's so cheap — cotton's so cheap — that anyone can put together a low-priced tire this year.

But what's low price unless you get quality?

Be hard-boiled in your buying if you want the most for your money.

Ask anyone who tries to sell some tire other than a Goodyear this one simple question: "Why should I be satisfied with any second-choice tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?"

Here's the LOW PRICE of Goodyear quality

CHICAGO FIGHTERS READY; BREAK CAMP TODAY

MISS BUNTING AGAIN PROVES OWNER ERRED

Forgotten Filly Wins Arlington Feature.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Miss Bunting, the forgotten 2 year old in the barn of John Marsch of Chicago, scored another brilliant victory at Arlington Park yesterday. The daughter of Bunting-Mirthful which Mr. Marsch forgot to name for any of the major 2 year old stakes at Arlington, came from behind and in a hard drive down the stretch Jockey T. P. Martin got her up in time to win the Lake Villa sweepstakes by three-quarters of a length.

Nearest to her at the finish was Miss Brilliant. In third place came Gloritone. W. R. Coe's Llandaff was fourth. The entire field was made up of 2 year olds that have been afforded many more stake opportunities than Miss Bunting.

Three Victories Out of Four.

It was the second straight victory she has scored at Arlington. It was the third triumph for her in four starts against the fastest youngsters here, and while she might not be able to master the colts of her age in next Saturday's Arlington Futurity, many believe she could have won the rich Lassie stakes had she been eligible.

The Lake Villa at 5½ furlongs yesterday was worth $4,240, of which Miss Bunting earned $3,280. She was in the thick of the fight from the beginning, but could not outrun Miss Brilliant for the first half mile.

Turning into the stretch Miss Bunting came along on the outside and conquered Miss Brilliant. She took it fairly easy the rest of the way, although she was pulling out into a longer lead at every stride. Gloritone was not away as rapidly as usual and did not begin to make much headway until midway down the stretch. She closed a big gap from there home and just missed grabbing second money away from Miss Brilliant by a nose.

Not Forgotten in Betting.

Miss Bunting ran 5½ furlongs in 1:05, just fractions of a second off the record held by the colt, Crownin Glory. In the betting Miss Bunting wasn't forgotten. Plenty of folks backed her. She paid $8.20 to win, $4.10 to place, and $2.88 to show. Miss Brilliant was at $7.10 to place and $6.56 to show. Gloritone paid $2.56 to show.

The horses in Audley Farm stable, which haven't been doing so well until lately, were much in evidence yesday, for Trainer Kay Spence saddled two winners which paid tall odds.

The first was French Honey, a daughter of Epinard. She beat a bunch of platers at a mile to pay off at $15.60 for $2. The other was Higher son of High Cloud, which won the fourth race at six furlongs from some fleet sprinters. His mutuel price was $20.30.

Fischer Rides Skillfully.

H. L. Fischer, a kid who rode the first winner of his career only a few days ago, was in the saddle on both Audley Farm winners, and few of the great stars of the country have ridden with more skill.

On French Honey the young jockey was forced to make the pace all the way. He nursed her along just long enough to have her win by a head over Spud. He had to come from behind on Higher in another thrilling finish.

Better watch this kid Fischer. He's going to win a lot of races during the remainder of the season.

SCHAAF POUNDS METHODICALLY TO BEAT UZCUDUN

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—Ernie Schaaf defeated Paulino Uzcudun, Basque woodchopper, in 15 rounds at the Madison Square Garden bowl in Long Island City tonight. The battle, listed as the first of a series of eliminations to provide an outstanding contender for Jack Sharkey's title, was witnessed by 5,000.

Schaaf gained the verdict as the result of his ability to maintain a methodical attack. The bout was savagely contested all the way, and while there were no knockdowns, there was a plentitude of hard punching, which satisfied the spectators. Early in the contest there was considerable holding, with Schaaf the chief offender.

SOX TACKLE PIE COURSE TODAY; BOSTON IN TOWN

Gregory May Get Chance to Start Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

For the next few days, at least, the White Sox can figure on having a good time for themselves. The caller this afternoon and for the three subsequent afternoons will be none other than Boston, and Boston is the one dish in the American league the Fonseca fellows can relish without fear of bad results. After that the opposition will become more formidable, what with the Senators, Yankees, and Athletics coming along in that order. But the Sox won't worry about that menu until the time arrives.

The domestic hose are in seventh place, with little prospect of elevating themselves, and there are plenty things wrong with the outfit, but just the same they have looked to be more robust during the last couple of weeks. They haven't been winning consistently, of course, but they have gotten away from the habit of being thumped decisively. They've been losing gracefully thus furnishing at least an attraction for anybody caring to see a battle. Much of this improvement has been due to better fielding, the lack of which for a time had them headed for a new error record of some kind.

English May Be Good.

There is great whooping just now among the south side patrons, who still maintain their interest although they refuse to spend their money to sustain their favorites, over the labors of Third Baseman Charley English, recently imported from Hutchinson, Kas., of the Western association. The youngster of 20 years now has three big league engagements to his credit and has a cool .500 batting average as the result of eight hits in sixteen times at bat.

Final judgment on English, like on any other newcomer, must be reserved for about another week or two. That he should hit at all when tossed unexpectedly from a low bush circuit into a major at least indicates he wasn't awed by his sudden rise. Confidence is a big part of the battle. But the enemy pitchers must be granted time in which to search around for a possible weakness at the plate. If after the search has been conducted and he still hits at a normal average for an infielder, it will be time enough to knock the bung out of the keg and call in the neighbors.

Gregory or Frasier.

Manager Lew Fonseca, who had been snooping around International league stopping places for some likely prospects, returned home without displaying any enthusiasm over what he saw. He is still convinced, however, that the help he needs will be found in the class AA minors and not the circuits of obscure rating. What he wants above all else is an outfielder who can hit as well as catch fly balls. He may go into the American association in quest of the wanted article.

Vic Frasier, who hasn't had a break in luck for so long that he is beginning to believe there really is such a thing as a jinx, is due to pitch the opener against the Red Sox today, although there is a possibility Fonseca might decide it is a good spot in which to promote Paul Gregory to a starting rôle. The rookie from Atlanta, Ga., has been acting as relief man and in almost every appearance has indicated that he possesses great possibilities. The team is losing with other pitchers on the job, so giving Gregory a start wouldn't involve much of a risk. The Boston pick may be Bob Kline, who causes the south siders no end of trouble.

Mickey Walker Puts Away Ruggirello in First Round

Newark, N. J., July 25.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker made short work of Salvatore Ruggirello, Italian heavyweight, at Dreamland park here tonight, knocking him out in 1:10½ of the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout. Walker weighed 169 pounds and Ruggirello 205½.

The purses of both fighters were ordered held up by officials of the state athletic commission. There was no explanation for this action, but it was announced that Walker and Ruggirello and their managers were told to meet with Commissioner George Keenen tomorrow.

Frederick Burger, president of the German Boxing association, and Leonhard Mandlar, coach of the German team which meets the Golden Gloves team tonight at Soldiers' field, met the judges and referees who will officiate the international bouts at a luncheon at the Germania club yesterday.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association and chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, presided at the meeting.

Discussion of the rules for tonight's bouts resulted in the following agreements:

Fighters may wrap their hands with two inch gauze. No tape will be permitted. Bandages will be put on in dressing rooms. Gloves will be put on in the ring.

Each bout will consist of three three-minute rounds, after which a decision must be rendered.

The boxers will come out of their corners fighting. They will not shake hands before the third round, but will shake hands after the bout.

International rules provide that boxers must wear jerseys. This, however, will not be necessary tonight. Those of the German team who wish to wear jerseys may do so. The Golden Gloves boys will not wear jerseys.

Assigns Judges, Referees.

The German champions will weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Germania club. The Golden Gloves team and preliminary boxers will weigh in at 3:30 at the Illinois Athletic club. Both sessions will be private.

Tucson, Ariz., July 25.—(AP)—William McGovern, secretary of the Tucson club of the Arizona-Texas Baseball league, announced today that F. A. Nathan, president of the circuit, had ordered the league to disband. Nathan's action is believed to be the outgrowth of a controversy over financial affairs of the Albuquerque Dons, who have announced they would not play until back salaries were paid.

GERMANS WILL WIN, 5-3, SAYS BERLIN WRITER

Picks Phagan and Rodak as Sure Winners.

BY HEINZ REICHMANN.
[Berlin Sports Writer in Chicago to Cover Tonight's International Golden Gloves Bouts.]

At least one million German-Americans in and around Chicago will be with their countrymen in thought and best wishes tonight when the German amateur champions enter the ring against Chicagoland's Golden Glove boxers. Tens of thousands Germans will be sitting around the ring at Soldiers' field to root for the visitors with all the vocal power they can put in their shouts.

They will enjoy every blow the German boxers will land as much as the author of the sock will and they will feel each punch their countrymen have to take just as much as the fighter himself. The German boys know they are boxing tonight in a city which has a tremendous friendly feeling for them and in this atmosphere their selfconfidence has grown steadily. Each one of these eight boys will enter the ring with the idea that he is facing the hardest task in his career but that only an earthquake can take victory away from him.

Germans Know More.

Sports writers are usually bad prophets, but I think after you have seen the American and German teams in action you have not to be a prophet to pick the winners. After my first visit to Lake Wawasee, Ind., I wrote that the American boys made a great impression, that they were good, very good, excellent in fact, but that I still thought the German boxers ought win. After this story appeared the boys at Lake Wawasee asked me for reasons why I picked the Germans.

First they were under the impression that the German team was my choice because I was German. But I convinced them easily that I was too much internationally minded to pick my team just because I was a German. Of course I like to see my country win but I am just as happy and satisfied if the American team wins as long as the fights are clean and fair.

The reason why I pick the German team was that I know that the visitors had more opportunity to learn boxing technically than their American opponents who after they decide to take up boxing are sent in the ring and have to get their boxing experience by fighting.

Score: 5 to 3.

The only chance they get to work under the supervision of expert trainers are the two weeks before the Golden Gloves fights, while the Germans for at least nine months at the beginning of their boxing career first learn the deatils of boxing before they enter the ring. Now that I have had the opportunity to watch the two teams train, I know the eight American boys who have been chosen to battle the Germans, and by comparing them I think I can risk another step by saying that the Germans will win at least 5 to 3.

Werner Spannagel, the German flyweight, ought to open up the series of German victories by defeating John Baltzer by points. I watched Spannagel train with the middleweight, Hans Bernloehr, and it was surprising how the little fellow was outsmarting his big countryman, always finding an opening where he could get in, and in the meantime dancing backward quick enough to give Bernloehr no chance to hit him. A great technician, this Spannagel.

Phagan, Rodak Tough.

I did not see George Goodman, the boy who will fight Hans Ziglarski. But I do not see a chance for him to beat Ziglarski, who is competing for the sixteenth time in an international bout in which he lost but one, in the Olympic games of 1928 at Amsterdam. Ziglarski has the punch for a knockout, but I do not know how much Goodman can take it.

Leo Rodak, the featherweight, is, next to Johnny Phagan, the welterweight, the best amateur I ever saw in American rings. Rodak's opponent, Josef Schleinkofer, and Erich Campe, the boy Phagan will fight, have the most difficult task of the whole German team, and I wonder if they will find a way out of it.

The lightweight battle between Frantz Kartz and Henry Rothier will mean slugging from the start to the last bell. Both can take and give

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Wawasee, Ind., July 25.—This was rest day at Wawasee. The Golden Gloves fighters, who meet the amateur boxing champions of Germany tomorrow night at Soldiers' field, put in the time as best they could waiting for the call to action.

In the afternoon the squad reported for the last time at the garage-gymnasium, where the ring, the scene of their furious training drills for the last two weeks, already had been dismantled. Here they unlimbered, skipping the rope and punching the bag for two rounds each. Although the team of eight has been named for the international fights, all the squad has continued in training.

Thus the Golden Gloves squad is protected in event of illness or failure to make weight. Several of the boys who have been in training also will appear on the preliminary program tomorrow night.

Excellent Team Morale.

The morale of the team is excellent. This was clearly demonstrated yesterday when the boys were called together for their final meeting and to hear the selection of the eight boys who would meet the Germans. Several in the group, who gathered in Capt. Leo Rodak's room, were disappointed. They had trained diligently; fought to win positions on the team. Without exception, the boys who were not selected turned to the successful boxers and congratulated them.

None was more keenly disappointed than Adam Smith, a veteran of three Golden Gloves teams, who was displaced by Duffy Dvonch.

One of the guests at the hotel greeted Adam with: "Pretty tough, isn't it?"

"It's all in the game," Adam replied. "I hope Duffy busts the German heavyweight one on the nose for me."

No Weight Worries.

This morning the boys took camp life in stride. They are not worrying about making weight tomorrow afternoon. John Baltzer, George Goodman and Leo Rodak are under the weight for the flyweight, bantamweight and featherweight classes, respectively. Henry Rothier, lightweight, John Phagan, welterweight, Tony Sutton, middleweight, and Adolph Wiater, light heavyweight, are individually no more than two pounds over their respective weight classes. This presents no problem, for "drying out" will cut the weights to requirements.

The hotel management made the final day a gala affair. Mrs. Bernard Cunniff presented each boxer with a Golden Glove pin as memento of the training camp.

Arrive This Afternoon.

The team will leave here in the morning on the Baltimore and Ohio at 11:04. Three hours later the boys will arrive in Chicago and go to the Illinois Athletic club to weigh in and be examined. Dinner will follow immediately. Six hours later the first of the international fights, the flyweight championship bout between Johnny Baltzer of Davenport, Ia., and Werner Spannagel of Germany, will start the international series at Soldiers' field.

W-G-N to Cover German-Chicago Fights Tonight

A complete detailed description of the German-Chicago international championship boxing bouts at the bowl in Soldiers' field tonight will be presented by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station.

The championship matches will be described in detail, blow by blow, together with a description of the ceremonies before the title matches, the attending crowd and the notables at the ringside. The broadcast will start at 9:30 p. m., and will continue until the show is over.

Quin A. Ryan, manager and chief announcer at W-G-N, will be at the ringside to handle the broadcast. Associated with Mr. Ryan in presenting the description of the bouts will be two referees, Dave Barry and Phil Collins, and Fred Gardiner, a member of the Illinois boxing commission. This trio will describe the actual fighting.

CUBS ASK HOW THEIR PITCHERS GET THAT WAY

Blow Up When in Front; At Boston Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 25.—The Chicago Cubs are here—arrived at 7:30 o'clock this evening after the long trip from Chicago which was given over to reflection on the pitchers' recent passion for blowing handsome 3 to 0, 4 to 0 and 5 to 0 leads.

For a team that has stayed up in the National league race all year admittedly on account of pitching prowess, the puffing off of a 3 to 0 lead, as Charley Root did in Pittsburgh Saturday, and the surrender of a 5 to 0 lead, as in the case of Guy Bush in Chicago Sunday, are matters which are causing grave concern as the present eastern invasion gets under way.

What Might Have Been.

With good pitching in the lamented series with the Pirates over the last week-end, the Cubs would have won three out of four from the first place Pirates instead of having the ratio reversed. They would, with even fair pitching in the Pirate series, be entering this long and arduous road trip one-half game in second place instead of 4½ games, as at present.

The foregoing "if" business is based on the pitching in games where the Cubs actually supplied leads that capable pitchers should have protected. There were no fatal errors and the loss of the games was chargeable to the pitchers and the pitchers alone. An offense that steps out and gives a pitcher a 3 to 0 or a 5 to 0 lead and then plays good defensive baseball, as the Cubs did, certainly has done its part.

Feed 'Em Raw Meat!

The one game in the Pirate series the Cubs didn't rate winning was last Friday's contest in Pittsburgh. The Pirates got a three run lead in the second inning, and Swetonic protected it. The next three games should have been Chicago victories. In the Saturday game, you will recall, Root blew a 3 to 0 lead and Smith blew first a 6 to 4 lead and later a 7 to 6 lead for a 11 to 8 Cub loss. And you're all familiar with the way Bush tossed off a 5 to 0 edge in the second game Sunday.

Players on other teams in the league are intimating that some of the Cub pitchers have weakened a little in the fighting heart department, this charge, of course, excepting Lon Warneke.

Perceiving a tendency toward jumpiness on the part of some of the Cubs' pitchers, their enemies are doing everything they can to harass them short of pulling the old one embodying complaints to the umpire that they do not stand properly in the pitching box.

Naughty! Naughty!

Papers are yelling at the Cub pitchers for being wicked men who throw bean balls and the coachers are busier than ever chiding them about highlights in their personal lives. And all but the youngest pitcher of the lot apparently are foolish enough to fall for all this old goat-getting technique.

In a recent Brooklyn series a hit was made off of one of the Cub first stringers. As a perfectly routine precaution three pitchers started warming up in the bullpen.

Knowing the nervous condition of the Cub pitcher, Casey Stengel, Dodger coach, on observing the activity in the Cub bullpen, shouted to the pitcher, "My Gawd, look at 'em in the bullpen! Hundreds, yes, thousands of 'em warming up!"

There were only three pitchers and three catchers involved in the sudden bullpen activity, but after one distressed look at the bullpen the pitcher was willing to admit that hundreds and perhaps thousands of fellows were preparing to relieve him.

Two Games Tomorrow.

The series in Boston opens with a single game tomorrow, a double header Wednesday, and single games Thursday and Friday. The Braves are two games back of the Cubs in third place and naturally have ideas of taking second place before the series is over. Both teams will be concerned with the activities in New York, where on the same four days the Giants and Pirates will be engaged in playing seven games, including double headers tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Evening and Risque Turn in Fast Workouts

Two excellent training drills were turned in yesterday by candidates for the Matron stakes to be run at Arlington Park tomorrow afternoon.

George D. Widener's Evening was sent a mile under stout restraint in 1:41 3-5, while Mrs. John Hertz's Risque was pulled up at the end of six furlongs in 1:15.

Other starters that have trained nicely for the race are Tred Avon, Con Amore, Canfil, I Say, Kakapo, Late Date, and Kincsen.

Tred Avon continued to rule as the favorite in the Matron field. The stake for fillies and mares is at a mile and a furlong and will have a gross value of more than $12,000.

Don't forget the colt Ladysman, which won the 2 year old maiden race at Arlington yesterday. He looked as good as any juvenile to race here this season. He is a son of Pompey-Lady Belle and races for W. R. Coe of New York.

Riley Wilson of New York can't stay away from the Arlington meeting. He hopped back yesterday from New York to see the running of the Matron stakes and the Arlington Futurity on Saturday.

Jockeys M. Calvert and L. Humphries, two of the youngsters riding at Arlington, were suspended for the remainder of the meeting by the stewards yesterday. Rough riding was the charge in both cases.

Puchero, juvenile son of Pot au Fen and Scally owned by William Ziegler Jr., New York baking powder king, is the latest candidate for the Arlington Futurity to come to the front. The colt will arrive today at Arlington Park in charge of Clyde Phillips for his engagement in the $60,000 event. His chief claim to ranking resulted in his victory in the Great American Stakes at Aqueduct, where he brought to a halt the winning streak of the speedy Sandy Bill.

THREE YEAR OLD TROTTER TURNS MILE IN 2:02 1-5

Buffalo, N. Y., July 25.—(AP)—Hollyrood Dennis today won the 3 year old trot, feature of the Grand Circuit card at Fort Erie. The performance advanced another notch the prospect for the Hollyrood farm candidate capturing the $60,000 Hambletonian, to be run at Goshen within a fortnight, richest prize in the American trotting world.

Hollyrood Dennis stepped the three heats in 2:03 2-5, 2:02 1-5, and 2:07 4-5. The second heat was the fastest mile ever trotted in Canada by a 3 year old. In the final heat, in which the slowest time was recorded, Hollyrood Dennis finished in a jog, 4 lengths ahead of the leader of the trailing field.

Mac-I-Win won the Buffalo Baseball stake in straight heats. Mac-I-Win won eight of nine races last year and today's was the sixth consecutive victory this season. Summaries:

GERMAN BOXERS MEET CHICAGO IN 8 BOUTS TONIGHT

Both Teams Confident and Both Are Tough.

nent men and best people will frequent the 55 cent section.

Room for More Customers.

And since ostentation has been declared off, it will be admitted that customers are the earnest desire of the management, whose purpose it is to turn over the entire net profits to the American Olympic committee. Mr. Rickard shooed off large numbers of patrons from his Dempsey-Willard fight in Toledo by exaggerating his advance sale on the theory that the customers want tickets most when they are hardest to get. In that case, when Mr. Rickard let it be thought that his show was almost sold out, the clients took him at his word and stayed away by thousands.

There will be six three round preliminary fights between sub-varsity members of the Golden Gloves squad runners up to the regular team in the final training and elimination scraps which were conducted in the training camp at Lake Wawasee, Ind. The first of these, between Lennie Cohen and Oscar O'Hanlon, flyweights, will go into the ring at 8 o'clock, and the ruffles and flourishes leading up to the international program will begin about 9:30.

War Veterans Attend Boxers.

At that time the German team, dressed in their uniforms of blue with the Black and Gold eagle device on the handkerchief pocket, will file out of their dressing room on the west side of the arena and advance to the ring under the finger of the spotlight, attended by six German war veterans, resident in Chicago, who will wear their world war clothes for the ceremony. Maxham's band will play the squad down the aisle and onto the scaffold, with a popular German air and the fighters will form an Indian file in the ring, facing north, with the flyweight, Werner Spannagel, in front and the heavyweight, big Heinrich Kohlhaas, in the rear. They will wait there, at attention, while the spotlight shifts to the east side and lights the Golden Gloves outfit down to the ring in a similar parade, with the same band playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Six members of Medill post of the American Legion will form the escort for the American crew, who will be wearing their Golden Gloves bathrobes with the American shield.

Entering the ring, the Americans will catch their first glimpse and vice versa of the Germans who were good enough to come 4,000 miles out of their way to punch them around or be punched around themselves in the attempt. The Golden Gloves squad will form another Indian file facing north at attention and the next ceremony will be the raising of the colors of the German republic on a mast at the north of the arena, picked out by a United States army anti-aircraft searchlight. Three of the German war veterans will attend to this, with the band playing "Deutschland über Alles." Three members of the Medill post detail will then raise the Stars and Stripes while the band plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

Spannagel, Baltzer First.

Then the lights will shift back to the ring and the fighters will file out, all but Spannagel, the German flyweight, and Johnny Baltzer, his opponent. At the clang of the bell they will commence the second of the international team meets between European scrappers and the Americans under the auspices of the Golden Gloves.

In the international fights each winner will receive a gold belt set with a diamond, with the American and German colors worked into a design to the left and right, respectively, of the stone. The losers in these fights will receive gold belts of the same general pattern, but without the diamond.

The cost of this year's production, guaranteed by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be about $50,000, including the transportation and maintenance of the German squad of eight fighters and two officials on the tour. This is about $10,000 less than the expense of the 1931 show, in which the French team lost to the Americans, five bouts to three. Among the expenses are about three weeks' wages for 200 previously unemployed workmen, principally carpenters, and 15 carloads of lumber for the seats and platforms.

The German squad arrived in New York on the S. S. Europa on July 16 with the German Olympic team and separated from the Olympians the next day to come to Chicago. They have trained by a strange mixture of the conventional and unconventional methods, alternating their gymnasium work with an extraordinarily gay program of social workouts, including picnics and luncheons. However, their diet has been carefully censored by Leonhard Mandlar, their coach, who approved the social doings on the ground that so long as the fighters got enough work and sleep and food of the right kind it were better for them to be pleasantly engaged in their leisure time. Otherwise they might brood about their fights.

DAN HANLEY IN HOSPITAL WITH SKULL FRACTURE

Dan Hanley, full back on the 1930 Notre Dame university football team, was in Mercy hospital yesterday suffering from a skull fracture and concussion of the brain.

Hanley, who is employed as a timekeeper at the 39th street pumping station of the sanitary district, gave his residence as the Congress hotel. According to his physician, Dr. J. E. Kelly, he said he received the injury when he was struck by an automobile Sunday morning outside the pumping station.

Records at the Hyde Park police station, however, included an accident report stating that Hanley was hurt by an unidentified man, who knocked him down with a monkey wrench following an altercation in front of 3905 Cottage Grove avenue, at 4:25 o'clock Sunday morning.

Referees, Judges of German Bouts

These officials will handle tonight's international amateur boxing matches at Soldiers' field.

In the Wake of the News

DECISIONS.

DECISIONS between boxers competing in three round amateur bouts, such as the international series between the Germans and Americans at Soldiers' field tonight, often are of the hairline variety. That is by necessity because the rules do not permit draws and the old custom of ordering a fourth round to settle the matter has been prohibited.

When referee and judges, to say nothing of vociferous spectators, disagree over verdicts on ten and fifteen round bouts it is understandable there should be difference of opinion over the result of three round encounters.

Officials for the German-American bouts were named by Gen. John Clinnin of the Illinois boxing commission. Naturally one hopes the various bouts will determine themselves, leaving no hairline decisions, but that is unlikely.

Here is the theory of amateur bout decisions: Perfect for each round is five points for each boxer. Thus if one boy shades another the count is 5-4. If he has a marked advantage it is 5-3, and a very marked advantage 5-2. Five-two rating is pretty severe and likely to include a knockdown. At the end of three rounds the totals are computed for the verdict.

Now here's how differences of opinion arise: For two rounds a boy shades his opponent for a 10-8 count. Then the opponent rallies and earns an advantage for a 5-3 count, which ties the score at 13 points each. Should the decision go to the boy who has had the better of two rounds, or to the boy who is finishing stronger and probably would win over a longer route, although he has had the better of only one round?

In such case officials are in a tough position. The score is tied, yet a decision must be given because draws are not allowed. It becomes merely a question of judgment and that judgment seldom meets the unanimous approval of the crowd.

The Wake hopes our spectators tonight, among whom our German guests will have many supporters, will realize that officials are trying to give fair decisions to both German invaders and American defenders. Primarily we hope for and expect sportsmanship on the part of both spectators and boxers.

From talks with both coaches we have no reason to anticipate anything other than sportsmanship from the participants. Each one of those sixteen boxers is determined to win, and he is determined to win by fair means through superiority in ring skill or stamina. If he loses it will be with disappointment, but a smile. That kind of behavior will make these greatest international bouts of all time a success on the basis most desired—sportsmanship and international amity.

GERMAN FIGHTS LURE MANAGER OF JOHN L. SULLIVAN

Among the hundreds of last minute mail order requests for Golden Gloves tickets yesterday was one signed Frank Hall. Mr. Hall wanted two seats.

"German boxers are the only kind I have never seen," said Mr. Hall. "I have seen them fight in England, Australia, America, France, and about every other place where boxing is an accepted sport. But when I was seeing the men from these countries, boxing was verboten in Germany."

Mr. Hall neglected to state, however, that he is 78 years old, was John L. Sullivan's manager, and has only seen two fights in the last 20 years. He saw Dempsey and Firpo and two years ago bought a ticket to watch Carnera in one of his fights at the Chicago stadium. He just wanted to have a "look see at the big fellow."

MRS. SABIN CARR GETS DIVORCE AND $150 MONTH

Oakland, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—Virginia K. Carr received an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Sabin W. Carr, noted Yale pole vaulter. She charged habitual intoxication and neglect.

Mrs. Carr was given an order for $150 a month for support of their two children, Patricia Joan, 3, and Cynthia, 7 months.

Mrs. Moody Undecided on U. S. Title Tennis Plans

PARIS, July 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody said today she still was undecided whether she will return to the United States to defend her National Women's Tennis title this summer or accompany her husband on a tour of Europe. It previously was reported that she had cabled her decision to the United States Lawn Tennis association, but her statement today left the situation in doubt. Mrs. Moody is suffering with a slight cold.

Burghley and Britons Reach Olympic Scene

Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—(AP)—The Union Jack flew a bit more briskly over the Olympic village today as the British track team, captained by the popular Lord David Burghley, added its small but powerful quota to the international assemblage of all-star athletes.

Although the entire British contingent, in all sports, numbers about 80 competitors, the squad arriving today included only 19 runners and hurdlers. For the first time in Olympic history, Britain will have no performers in the field events, leaving this feature of the games entirely up to her dominions.

Despite the lack of numbers and a slight epidemic of minor ailments, the British track forces, accompanied by their South African and New Zealand allies, included threats in the feature races, from 40 to 1,500 meters, as well as in the hurdles, Lord Burghley's specialty.

1,500 Meter Star Ailing.

The titled British leader, holder of the Olympic 400 meter hurdles championship, reported Lieut. Godfrey Rampling, quarter mile ace, had recovered completely from a pulled leg muscle that kept him out of the English championships, but that R. H. Thomas, 1,500 meter hope, was troubled with a strained achilles tendon and Reid, Scotch sprint star, also was bothered by a muscle strain.

Burghley indicated he regarded Facelli of Italy as his keenest rival in the 400 meter hurdles. They have met six times abroad and each holds three victories. Tom Hampson is the chief British hope in the 800. In the 1,500, Jerry Corners, mile champion with a mark of 4:14 1-5, will be the main standard bearer if Thomas does not return to form. The British have high regard for the young New Zealander, Lovelock, an Oxford student, who has a mile mark of 4:12 1-5.

Boxers Join Colony.

The South Africans have no hurdlers to carry on for weight man Smith and Atkinson, their stars of the last two Olympics, but bulking large in the party today was Harry Hart, giant shot-putter and decathlon contender. They also have a good sprinter in Joubert and a 400 meter star in Walers, both well known to American athletes.

The British delegation was one of a group of more than 250 athletes moving into the Olympic village today.

The newcomers included 150 from Canada, 58 from Hungary, 11 men and two women from South Africa, and nine men and two women from Austria.

Tonight 16 members of the United States boxing team arrived from San Francisco.

plenty, but I think Kartz's better boxing ability will win.

Hans Bernloehr ought to outbox Tony Sutton in the middleweight bout if he can avoid too much infighting, which seems to be Sutton's strength.

Winter Will Be Stopped [?]

I got some inside information about Adolph Winter, the American light heavyweight who is supposed to have trouble to make the weight. I hope that he is not leaving his strength in the steam bath because he will need everything he has got to beat Hans Berger, who is known in Germany for his hitting power. Berger by knockout is my choice.

The heavyweight battle is an unsolved problem for me. Kohlhaas can punch like a mule and made the German team by knocking out Hans Ramek, a man of the size and weight of Carnera, with the first punch. But Duffy Dvonch is smart enough to watch those blows and I do not know if Kohlhaas has enough experience to outbox the American.

I may be wrong about my predictions, although I never felt so sure as this time. But I am going to be right in one thing: I know the German boys will get a square deal which will make Germany forget the bad decision at the last Schmeling-Sharkey fight and Chicago will prove there is only one Gunboat Smith—and he is in New York.

U. S. DAVIS CUP PLAYERS LEAVE PARIS FOR REST

PARIS, France, July 25.—(AP)—America's Davis cup youngsters—Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, Wilmer Allison, and John Van Ryn—laid aside their racquets today until Wednesday to guard against staleness for challenge round against France this week-end. They may play a set or two Wednesday and Thursday, but there will be nothing strenuous in the training program this week.

Bernon Prentice, nonplaying captain of the team, took his athletes to St. Cloud this morning and they will spend much of their time in the country around Paris until time for the matches.

Australia Beats Chicago, 185-103, in Cricket Battle

The visiting Australian cricket champions are beginning to suspect that Chicagoans know more about cricket than they have been given credit for. The Australians had another battle yesterday to win their third match with the Illinois Cricket association, scoring 185 runs for 9 wickets, 2 not out, while Illinois had 103 for 17 wickets.

The Australians now have played three games in Chicago and have been held to the three lowest scores of their tour which pitted them against the best teams in Canada. And cricket, transplanted from England, is supposed to thrive in Canada.

A young man named Dick Nutt who is only 20 years old, made possible the Australian victory yesterday. Nutt strolled up to the wicket and, before he was retired, scored a total of 86 runs.

Old cricketers in the crowd of 3,500 began to keep count as the youngster batted the ball out of bounds for four runs, knocked it over the boundary ropes for six runs, and generally made himself bothersome to the Chicago bowlers. The fans were pulling for a century—100 runs—the first of the series, but Nutt finally went out 14 runs short of his goal.

Don Bradman had another unlucky day for Australia. Cricket's Babe Ruth made only 13 runs before he was clean bowled by Howard Watt. Tindall, with 23 runs, led the Chicago attack. The final game of the series will be played beginning at 1 p. m. today.

A's Beat Yanks 8-7, in 9th on Haas' Homer

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25.—(AP)—Vernon Gomez pitched to only two batters today but lost his fifth game of the season and his first to the Athletics when Mule Haas drove out a home run with Bishop on base in the ninth to give the American league champions an 8 to 7 victory over the Yankees.

Gomez, who defeated the Athletics at the Yankee stadium yesterday, entered the game in the ninth with the tying run on base and Max Bishop, who had replaced Roger Cramer when the latter broke his left collar bone in the sixth, at bat. He made Bishop hit into a force play, but Haas' circuit drive broke up a nip and tuck ball game, in which Mahaffey outlasted four Yankee pitchers—Pennock, Brown, Allen, and Gomez.

Two Tie with 82 as Women's Golf Medalists

Six flights of 16 each were carved out of the field of nearly 100 that shot in the qualifying round of the Chicago women's district golf championship tournament at Riverside yesterday.

The championship flight is fairly representative of Chicago's best and promises many tight battles before the winner will be known Friday night.

The Des Plaines river, working in conjunction with the heavily wooded course, brought sorrow to many. Miss June Beebe, runnerup in the tournament last year, took a ten at the eleventh hole, but finished with an 85.

Tie for Medal.

Both Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire, six times holder of the district title, and Rena Nelson of Exmoor, who tied for medalist with 82, complained of the creek and trees. Par at Riverside for women is 38—38—76. The third closest to perfection was Mrs. H. W. Tupper, champion at Olympia Fields, who shot 42—41—83.

All those shooting 91 or under qualified for match play in the championship flight.

Champion Practices Shots.

Jane Weiller of Northmoor, holder of the district title, was not required to qualify. She put in the afternoon practicing shots over the river and down the heavily wooded fairways.

The pairings for the championship flight with the qualifying scores:

Jane Weiller, Northmoor [0], vs. Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Evanston [89].
June Beebe, Olympia Fields [85], vs. Mrs. Jules Le Grand, Mission Hills [89].

Rena Nelson, Exmoor [82], vs. Mrs. A. E. Sheill, Glen Oak [89].
Mrs. Rosenstein, Nordic [88], vs. Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, Northmoor [90].

Ring Matchmaker Overmatches Self; General Victor

Jim Mullen, a matchmaker with a reputation for never overmatching anything but his box office, overmatched himself yesterday at the Germania club.

Mullen, recently named matchmaker for the West Side Boxing club, got himself two fighters for Thursday night's card at Sparta stadium. They were good in every respect except that the boxers he signed, the Parlich twins of Kalamazoo, Mich., are under suspension in New Jersey and Illinois observes rulings of states also affiliated with the National Boxing association.

Mullen went to the Germania club, where Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., was picking out cials for the International Golden Gloves bouts. Clinnin was busy, but Mullen had important business, too, he contended.

So he asked about lifting the suspension. Gen. Clinnin reiterated it would have to be done by New Jersey and told Mullen to see him later in the state athletic commission office. Mullen wasn't satisfied. Action was what he wanted, so he and Gen. Clinnin squared off. A championship was about to be decided, and the air was charged with excitement.

Witnesses suddenly remembered, however, that Mullen had not been examined by the commission physician. He was overweight, he had no state license, and he was in the wrong club. This was the Germania club, not the West Side Boxing club. Gen. Clinnin claimed the decision on a forfeit.

Gunnar Nelson Sets Course Mark; Wins with Dawson

Gunnar Nelson, Rockford professional, was not satisfied with winning the Illinois P. G. A. weekly pro-amateur event with Warren Dawson, home club amateur, as his partner at Glen Oak yesterday. He broke the course record as well. Gunnar's 67, six strokes under par, lowered by one stroke the mark set by George Dawson last year, and enabled himself and Warren to win the event with a best ball score of 63.

Seventy-six professionals and amateurs competed in the program, one of the largest of the season for a pro-amateur meet, probably caused by the fact that tomorrow Glen Oak will be the scene of the annual Illinois P. G. A. championship, as well as the battle for Chicago's eight places in the national P. G. A. tournament at St. Paul, Aug. 30 to Sept. 4.

The Nelson Dawson best ball score and Gunnar's record breaking card follow:

Par—Out	443	453	544—36
Par—In	534	444	454—37—73
Nelson-Dawson—Out	432	342	444—30
Nelson-Dawson—In	424	344	444—33—63
Nelson—Out	442	342	554—33
Nelson—In	434	344	444—34—67

Harry Cooper, Glen Oak professional, who has been ill for a couple of days, did not compete, but will be ready for tomorrow's tournament. George Smith of Onwentsia, shooting a medal 72, and George Dawson of Glen Oak, who had 70, were second to Gunnar and Warren with a best ball of 67. Third were Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake and Bob McKeating of Glen Oak with 68. George Arnold of Kildeer and E. L. Howell of Glen Oak took fourth with a 69.

Four Favorites Join Tilden in Quarter Finals

Four favorites breezed into the quarter-finals of the United States professional tennis tournaments yesterday at the South Shore Country club, joining William T. Tilden II. in that round. Vincent Richards, Hans Nusslein, Albert Burke, and Roman Najuch were the players who advanced at the expense of less experienced rivals.

Richards in beating Warren L. Kreuger, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0, played the best tennis of the afternoon. He swamped his Pittsburgh opponent with a barrage of forehand drives, contenting himself with the back court and ignoring the net.

Nusslein, the champion of Germany, ran John Cardegna of New York, all over the court with placements that brought a 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 victory.

Burke, holder of the French professional championship, brushed aside Charles Wood, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0, keeping his opponent back on the baseline, although occasionally coming to the net himself to score with quick drives.

Najuch defeated Ed Faulkner, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3 with an easy, natural array of strokes that won him applause from the gallery.

Richards will encounter his first real competition this afternoon, when he faces Najuch at 2 o'clock.

Other activity during the afternoon will be in the doubles division, which opened yesterday when Tilden and Barnes, seeded in the second position, swept through Capt. Valerian Yavorsky and John Mitchell, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

CITY GOLF TITLE PLAY OPENS WITH THREE UPSETS

Fetz, Andereggen, and Jankowski Lose.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The twenty-eighth annual Chicago city golf championship, one of the grandfathers of the local tournament schedule, tugged its whiskers in surprise yesterday when 142 golfers from Chicago parks, fee, and private courses, turned up at the first tee in Jackson park for the first of six days of play.

The large entry, which was divided among 110 in the championship flight and the remaining 32 in the bracket for players with handicaps over eight, was not the only surprise of the day, as Gus Fetz of Mid-City; Al Andereggen of Jackson park, and Carl Jankowski of Westgate Valley are probably willing to testify.

Gus, the home made golfer who never took a lesson, and who has been a regular member of Chicago's national public links team, was upset by John Rolston of Techny Fields, 1 up, in 19 holes. Andereggen didn't play his home course as well as his opponent, Ray Stanley of Tabor Farm, Mich., who eventually won, 4 and 2. Jankowski lost to R. A. Bowker, Kinsman veteran, 2 up. TAKES TITLE TO WICKS BUILDING FOR BOND OWNERS

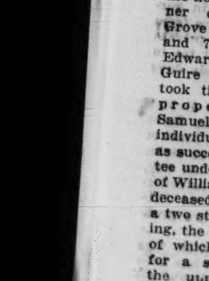
Will Refinance Property at 74th-Grove.

BY AL CHASE.

Representing the bondholders in the Wicks' department store property at the northeast corner of Cottage Grove avenue and 74th street, Edward P. McGuire yesterday took title to the property from Samuel Wicks, individually and as successor trustee under the will of William Wicks, deceased. This is a two story building, the first floor of which is used for a store and the upper floor for offices. It occupies a site 166x125, and was erected in 1923.



CHARLES M. THOMPSON.

Financing was by means of a $260,000 Gerard Trust company first mortgage bond issue, since paid down to $208,900.

Interest defaulted early this year. The property is to be reorganized by means of the liquidation trust method, with the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee. William C. Cook is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee, the members of which are: Charles M. Thompson, dean of the College of Commerce and Administration at the University of Illinois; Aldis Jerome Browne, John R. Magill, O. E. Aleshire, Ward C. Castle, and George E. Keys. Arthur D. Davis is secretary. Walter C. Senne of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, is counsel.

Ravenswood Hospital Cash Ready.

James R. Cardwell, head of the Cardwell-Westinghouse company, and president of the Ravenswood Hospital association, has notified bondholders in the latter that arrangements have been completed with the receiver for the Ravenswood National bank for the release of $10,525 deposited in a special trust account. This was for the purpose of having funds available for the payment of all bonds and coupons of the Ravenswood Hospital association due on July 1. Shortly after making this deposit the bank closed.

This fund, Mr. Cardwell states, is now available for the immediate payment of bonds and interest coupons. Bondholders are asked to present their bonds and coupons to William J. Dillon, treasurer of the Ravenswood Hospital association at his office, 203 South Dearborn street, any day between 9 and 12 in the morning, and they'll be paid.

Fairfax Apartments.

Irving J. Schreiber, receiver for the Fairfax apartments, at the southwest corner of Hyde Park boulevard and Dorchester avenue, reports cash on hand on April 30, 1932, as $2,400. Following is his statement of receipts and disbursements from Oct. 17, 1931, to April 30, 1932:

Gross receipts	$91,064
Operating expenses
Other disbursements:	78,491
Insurance	$1,366
Ground rent	1,750
Loss on foods department	1,307
Receiver's fees	3,500
Receiver's attorney's fees	2,250
	10,173
Cash balance, April 30, 1932	$ 2,400

This was a Wollenberger & Co. 6½ per cent bond issue of $675,000, with $575,000 now outstanding. The occupancy on April 30, 1932, was 87½ per cent, the bondholders' protective committee reports.

Doesn't Own Stock.

In the story about the reorganization of the Capitol building, published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, it was stated that David Shetnitz owns 10 per cent of the stock of the State-Randolph Building corporation, owner of the fee and building at the northeast corner of State and Randolph. This was information given THE TRIBUNE by the reorganization committee.

Mr. Shetnitz says he doesn't own any stock. The 10 per cent he was said to own is the property of Lee Lesser, he states, which gives Mr. Lesser a quarter interest in the property. He adds that THE TRIBUNE correctly stated that Walter W. Ahlschlager, Henry Hedberg, and Anton Appleton each own a quarter interest in the corporation.

BOARD OF TRADE TO TEST GRAIN FUTURES ACT

Business Proceeds as Usual in Pit.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

An attack on the validity of the grain futures act will be the Chicago Board of Trade's answer to the decision of the special commission of cabinet officers ordering the board to suspend operations as a contract market.

The board, it was announced, will file a petition shortly with the Circuit Court of Appeals. A meeting of the board's directors will be held at 2:30 p. m. today, at which Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the board, will confe with the directors.

Business proceeded as usual yesterday. As a result of the nation-wide publicity given the statement of President Peter B. Carey that the board would not be closed trading appeared to be little affected by the news of the decision.

In Washington yesterday a joint statement was issued by Secretaries Lamont and Hyde and Attorney General Mitchell. Anticipating that the courts would follow their ruling, they expressed the opinion that the Chicago Board of Trade should rather obey an order issued under the grain futures law than suspend business. They cited that statute as requiring that membership be extended to farmers' coöperatives. The three cabinet members added the hope that President Carey would say nothing to alarm business men generally.

Pleased by Market.

"Response of the markets today, when September wheat, the most active future, was traded within a price range of 1@⅞c, closing only ⅝c under the previous session, naturally gratified the Board of Trade," Mr. Carey said yesterday afternoon after the market had closed.

"We regard the firm tone with which the market greeted announcement of the commission's decision as an expression of public confidence that the Board of Trade will successfully weather this latest attack. In fact, representatives of many allied and outside businesses assured us today of their heartiest support.

"It is possible that the public has become immune to governmental shocks. It has witnessed the dissipation of $500,000,000 in three years by the farm board. This was taxpayers' money and after the farm board dose the public may accept all else as an anti-climax."

Put Blame on Board.

Meanwhile, yesterday, officials of Farmers' National Grain corporation, farm board coöperative, were telling the world that if the board was in a difficulty not it had only itself to blame.

"It's just a plain case of Carey trying to lead the board to suicide," said George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers' National. The Government sponsored coöperative, he said, had been granted clearing privileges in "every other important trading mart in the United States."

The Rev. Clarence Elmer Huff, president of the Farmers National, attributed the board's stand to an alleged dislike for coöperatives.

Huff's Explanation.

"We believe," he said, "that if we were engaged in the grain business for private gain the board of trade would have no complaint against us. The coöperative character of the Farmers National is the basis of the trouble. The board is discriminating against an organization operating in behalf of the producers."

The grain futures act of 1922 vests in the secretary of agriculture control of the nation's grain exchanges. To obtain permission to operate as a contract market a grain exchange must, among other things, grant full privileges to coöperative associations.

Counsel for the Board of Trade contend that the Farmers National is not legally a coöperative because it does more than 50 per cent of its total business with non members.

The opinion was general yesterday that the matter would not come to a head before the election in November. President Carey in an address from the rostrum yesterday said that "no cause for alarm existed."

Cabinet Officials Reply.

Washington, D. C., July 25.—(AP)—Reassurance to business and a sharp retort to public statements by the president of the Chicago Board of Trade were combined in a formal statement today by the federal officials who ordered the grain market's 60 day suspension.

"The officers of the Board of Trade and their lawyers know quite well that in the end the operations of the board need not be suspended," said the three cabinet officers who form the commission created by the grain futures act.

They are Attorney General Mitchell and Secretaries Hyde of agriculture and Lamont of commerce. They added flatly:

"Statements reported in the press to have been made by the president of the Chicago Board of Trade . . . are calculated to mislead the public as to the situation."

"It is hardly to be expected," the statement continued, "that the Board of Trade would choose to suspend business rather than obey a court decision sustaining the right of the Farmers' National to membership. . . .

"It is to be hoped the efforts of the board's president to discredit the administration of the law or to satisfy some antagonism has not gone so far as to make unfounded predictions creating business uneasiness."

"Congress has provided," the statement added, "that grain exchanges must allow farmers' coöperative associations of producers full privileges of trading on such exchanges on compliance with certain conditions. The commission after a hearing found on the facts and the law that the Chicago Board of Trade had illegally denied trading privileges to the Farmers' National Grain corporation."

Sympathy in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 25.—(AP)—E. E. McConnell, former president of the Buffalo corn exchange, and now president of the McConnell Grain corporation, said today the local grain dealers would offer moral support and cash, if needed, to aid the Chicago Board of Trade in its fight against the federal order closing it for 60 days.

Shock to Foreigners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Winnipeg, Man., July 25.—There was great excitement all day in Winnipeg, both on the grain exchange floor and in offices, over the order issued clohing the Chicago Board of Trade to grain trading for sixty days. Groups of traders could be seen in different parts of the big building arguing, discussing, predicting the future effect of this order on Winnipeg.

Scores of telegrams were received from Liverpool and other parts of the grain buying world asking for the Winnipeg version of the closing order and how it would affect trading in Winnipeg and their trading. Pool offices were besieged with cables requesting an immediate answer. Senders in all cases were traders who carried on a large business with Chicago. Every indication appeared that Winnipeg traders will greatly benefit through the confusion and uncertainty which will occur in Chicago.

Winnipeg grain men appear generally to be of the opinion that nothing will come of the suspension order and the difficulties will be ironed out soon.

Banks Act Under New Money Law.

Washington, D. C., July 25.—(AP)—More than 6 million dollars in new currency will be issued by the treasury shortly if inquiries by national banks as to the workings of the new money expansion law are followed up with deposits of the necessary security bonds.

Banks in various parts of the country were said at the treasury today to be showing a lively interest. The offices of the comptroller and treasurer said several minor points of law remained to be threshed out before the new currency could be issued. They added, however, that their forces would be ready to turn out the new money in less than a week's time.

Treasury Bills Oversold.

Secretary Mills announced tonight that the offering of $650,000,000 in treasury notes placed on sale this morning was oversubscribed at the close of business this afternoon. The government will use $412,369,000 to meet relief and other financial needs. The remaining $227,631,000 will be used to pay indebtedness. The Reconstruction Finance corporation will administer the relief funds.

The notes were in two series, both dated and bearing interest from Aug. 1. One was for $350,000,000, to run two years and bear 2⅛ per cent interest; the second was for the same amount, to run four years and bear 3¼ per cent interest.

IN CHICAGOLAND

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Favorable business developments over the nation yesterday included:

CHICAGO.—Patrick H. Joyce, president of the Chicago and Great Western railroad, reports crops along the road's right of ways were in the best condition in years. United Air lines report all coast to coast airplane passenger records broken last week with the transportation of 225 passengers daily on the system's lines.

HAMMOND, Ind.—Large orders for catalogues, school books and other products—sufficient to warrant increasing the operating personnel of W. B. Conkey Publishing company.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The state highway department announces 8,400 men are at work in Illinois on highway construction jobs, a considerable increase over recent months.

IN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, Mass.—The New England council reports closed mills reopening, laid off employés going back to work and sufficient orders coming into several industrial plants to warrant capacity production in the near future.

The good news is probably best in Pittsfield, Mass., where the Berkshire Woolen company and Glix Underwear company plants are working at capacity. The Silver Lake Woolen mills in the same city are employing day and night shifts and the Wyandotte Woolen mills expect to have a full force operating within two weeks.

Two thousand have gone back to work in American Woolen company mills at Lawrence, Mass., and another 2,000 have been taken back by the reopening of the Nashua Manufacturing company's Lowell, Mass., and Nashua, N. H., plants. The Nashua company manufactures blankets. Tiffany woolen plant at Berryville started full time for about 200.

IN VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., A 100 per cent increase in the payroll of the Export Leaf Tobacco company, and the resumption of operations of the Dupont Rayon plant at Ampthill put back to work nearly 1,000 workers who had been unemployed for many weeks.

Dubling its local payroll the Export Leaf Tobacco company added 275 tobacco workers to its plant, running its total of employés to more than 500.

Between 600 and 700 employés of the Dupont Rayon plant, who have been out of work for six or seven weeks.

WITHIN OHIO

Cincinnati officials of Remington-Rand, Inc., said today the Powers accounting machine plant of the company at Norwood has been operating on a full time schedule for the last six months and now has increased its force and started working nights. Increased orders, they said, would keep the factory running on this schedule until December.

PRICE OF COFFEE RISES RAPIDLY ON N. Y. MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—The rapid rise of coffee futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange was continued today, with an advance of 9@25 points, September Santos coffee, the most active contract, closed at 9.68c a pound, up 25 points for the day.

The upswing is based primarily on the political disturbance in Brazil, which has resulted in the restriction of coffee shipments from Sao Paulo. The statistical position of the commodity has also been improving, in the opinion of many coffee authorities.

According to today's statistics of the Coffee and Sugar exchange, total available stocks afloat and already in this country amount to 664,000 bags, which is equivalent to one month's supply. This does not include the 1,175,000 bags of "restricted coffee" which is owned by the Grain Stabilization corporation and the Bush Terminal company.

Want Eastern Insull Regime 60 Days More

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—Operations of the National Public Service corporation and its subsidiary, the Seaboard Public Service company, two of the Samuel Insull eastern properties petitioned into receivership two weeks ago, will be continued for the time being under their present management. At least that is the plan urged in a report submitted today to Irwin Kurtz, federal referee in bankruptcy. The Irving Trust company is trustee.

National Public Service and Seaboard Public Service are holding companies, and through their 160 subholding and operating companies engaged in providing electric, gas, water, and other utility services to 2,700 communities.

Seek 60 Day Deal.

At the time of the voluntary bankruptcy proceedings, the assets of National Public Service were listed as $65,313,450, with liabilities of $38,278,500. The assets of Seaboard Public Service were given as $31,250,000, with liabilities of $10,500,000. Assets computed on the basis of book values of stocks owned, including those pledged. In the National Public Service report the trustee said:

"For the time being and pending the determination of the policy to be adopted by the various parties involved, the receiver [also the Irving Trust company] has been led to believe that the best interest of all concerned would be conserved by the continuance of the present supervision and management.

"To this end, therefore, it has entered into discussions with the banks now in possession of the common stocks of a number of the operating companies with a view to continuing the most important functions of the present control and management, under the supervision of this court for a period of sixty days. Under this contemplated program, the necessary expenses for such continued management and control would be supplied directly by the operating subsidiaries and no expense to this estate would be involved."

NEW YORK STOCK SEAT WILL SELL AT $90,000; UP $10,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York stock exchange membership at $90,000, an increase of $10,000 compared with the previous sale. Today's price represents an advance of $22,000 from the lowest price of the year, $68,000, established at the beginning of June. The highest price for the year, established in February, was $175,000. As a result of the advance in the last few weeks, the value of the 1,375 memberships in the exchange has increased $35,250,000 to $123,750,000.

RULES AGAINST DELAWARE UNIT OF FOSHAY GROUP

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—(AP)—Federal Judge John B. Sanborn today ruled in favor of the receivers for the Delaware Foshay corporation and its subsidiary, Public Utilities Consolidated corporation, in a $500,000 suit brought by the receiver of the Minnesota Foshay company.

The ruling will be taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, counsel said.

Josiah Brill, Minnesota corporation receiver, sought to show that transfer of assets of the Minnesota corporation to the Delaware corporation, ten months before the Foshay enterprises went into receivership in 1929, constituted a constructive fraud upon creditors of the original Foshay company.

" asserted the change from Minnesota to the Delaware corporation and its subsidiary was effected to defraud creditors of the original Minnesota concern.

Brill asked that assets of the Minnesota corporation taken over by the Delaware corporation be restored or that a lien be placed against them so creditors of the Minnesota company might act.

Union Carbide and Carbon Quarter Profit $2,254,997

The Union Carbide and Carbon corporation and subsidiary companies yesterday reported a net income of $2,254,997 for the second quarter of 1932 as compared with $4,506,155 for the same period in 1931.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN CLIMBS; TRADE EXPANDS

Preferreds Gain 2 to 10 Points.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 25.—The stock market, which performed fairly well last week, settled down into a steady dog trot toward higher ground today and found the going fairly easy. Rises from large fractions to more than three points were rung up in virtually all sections of the list, and a few isolated issues quit the rest of the pack and bounded even further ahead.

There was a feeling among many in Wall street that the market was climbing out of the depths of the depression, as retrenchment in industry had gone as far as conditions would sustain it.

Volume came to a rest at the one and a half million share mark. A dozen stocks in the pivotal industrial, utility, oil and railroad lists accounted

RAIL COMBINE FACES BATTLE AMONG UNIONS

Willard Sees Hoover; Some Earnings Data.

Washington, D. C., July 25.—(AP)—President Hoover had luncheon today with Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and later talked with R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway association.

Neither railroad official would talk when asked the reason for his visit to the White House.

(Both Mr. Willard and Mr. Aishton are interested in the recent action of the interstate commerce commission approving the four system plan for the eastern railroads and in the efforts of the railroads to obtain relaxation of government control. The latter idea was stated at a recent meeting in New York.)

Labor Opposes Rail Merger.

Cleveland, O., July 25.—(AP)—Railroad labor, with a half million members unemployed, is organizing battle lines to oppose the merger of eastern railways into four systems.

David B. Robertson, hurrying from one conference of labor executives to another, took part of his luncheon time today to outline the position of the 22 railroad labor organizations. He is acting as their spokesman on the proposed four trunk line systems.

Labor will oppose the realignment with the same determination it has opposed them in the past, he said. His new fight will center in hearings before the interstate commerce commission when the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickle Plate, and Baltimore and Ohio petition for acquisition of the various roads assigned to them under the approved plan of consolidation.

Cites Willard Statement.

The statement of a railroad executive—Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio—that 80 per cent of the operating economies resulting from the proposed mergers would be made through reductions in numbers of employés was cited by Robertson as the reason for labor's opposition.

"No railroad," he said, "should get control over another railroad unless it is in the public interest.

"We think it is not in the public interest to consolidate railroads, especially at this time, and throw hundreds of thousands of workers on the streets to be fed or given other types of employment by the public."

Union Pacific Earns Less.

New York, July 25.—(AP)—Union Pacific Railroad company for the six months ended June 30 had net income of $6,578,247 after taxes and charges, equivalent after dividend requirements on the 4 per cent preference shares to $2.06 a share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with $9,068,059, or $3.18 a share on the common stock in the first half of 1931. Gross income totaled $54,554,854, compared with $76,409,012 in the 1931 period.

Operating expenses were reduced sharply, totaling $40,475,260, against $59,012,804. Income from investments and other sources was $9,514,106, against $10,242,131. This item included dividends from affiliated companies which for the 1932 period were $2,400,000 in excess of those for 1931.

The Southern Pacific company reported net operating income for June of $992,729, compared with $3,882,453 in June, 1931. Gross operating revenue was $12,737,548 against $19,449,164 last year.

Loss for Rock Island.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific had a loss of $828,645 for June after all charges, somewhat better than loss of $1,043,563 in May. Gross of $5,847,133 was $6,196 over May and operating expenses were $159,577 less. Earnings are still far under a year ago. Half year loss is $5,384,609 after charges.

Net railway operating income for June with 1931 comparisons included the following:

Santa Fe Finds Olympics Games Traffic Lively

By tonight the Santa Fe system will have hauled about 75 extra sleeping cars from Chicago and other points, but mainly from Chicago, to the Olympic games at Los Angeles, according to W. J. Black, traffic manager of the road. "The business was much larger than we expected," Mr. Black said. "All the traffic was on our regular $90.30 summer rate."

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Building bonds of the Chicago Board of Trade came in for increased activity and strength with an advance of 5 points to 37. FEDERAL ORDER FAILS TO HURT BOARD OF TRADE

Grain Market Goes About as Usual.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The adverse decision against the Chicago Board of Trade by a government committee for refusal to admit the Farmers' National Grain corporation to membership in the clearing house failed to have any material effect on the grain markets. There was some contraction in speculative interest which resulted in prices being easily influenced by operations on either side.

Erratic fluctuations featured the wheat market with a fractional advance early in sympathy with Liverpool, but the strength abroad was more than offset later by selling by a local commission house. The latter frequently acts for the government agencies. Pit gossip was divided as to whether this was hedging operations for the northwest or southwest, or represented liquidation of holdings of wheat futures by the stabilization corporation. The latter was recently credited with being "long" 25,000,000 bu of futures.

Wheat Declines Sharply.

Houses with foreign connections were buyers of wheat futures early, but after the persistent selling started there was less aggressive support and the September, which sold at 48⅞c early, dropped to 47¼c, showing 1c under Saturday's finish. On the break buying by holders of bids and by commission houses and locals became effective, and the close was on a fair rally with net losses of ⅝@⅝c. July was 45¾c; September, 47⅞@48c, and December, 51@51⅛c at the last.

A more friendly feeling toward the buying side was in evidence in Liverpool and more confidence was expressed as to the future. Unfavorable Canadian crop reports were also a factor. Wheat there finished ⅛@¼c per bu higher with October at 53½c. Winnipeg was unchanged to ¼c higher at the last, with October at 58¼c in Canadian funds.

Canada Needs Rain.

Crop conditions in the American northwest were reported as decidedly spotted, as indicated by returns to Jackson Brothers and other houses. American experts who are in the Canadian northwest sent in mixed reports. R. O. Cromwell of Lamson Bros. & Co., who was in southern Alberta, found the wheat crop needed rain to prevent deterioration. His report covered around 4,000,000 acres, or about half of the total for that province. George M. Le Count of Stein, Alstin & Co. wired that much early wheat was safe, but late wheat had ripened maturely, while H. C. Donovan in his report to Logan & Bryan said he found further deterioration in the Regina, Sask., territory during the last week.

An increase of 3,787,000 bu in the domestic visible supply made the total 168,720,000 bu, against 206,311,000 bu last year. The seaboard reported a moderate demand for wheat from abroad with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu estimated in all positions.

Russian Situation a Mystery.

Russia remains more or less of a mystery to the grain trade, but reports continue to indicate that there will probably be small exports this season. Rudolf Patzig, with Charles Sincere & Co., who is now in Germany, after an interview with soviet government representatives writes that yields in Russia were estimated at 4 per cent in excess of last year. An increase in bread and feed rations in 1932 are regarded as improbable, however, as last year's harvest was insufficient for home requirements, and no exports will be made. Tremendous losses have been sustained in recent years due to faulty organization, and there is a striking difference between estimated yields and the amount of grain actually available.

Corn Crop Needs Rain.

Rains were reported over the week-end over parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and Iowa, and had the effect of tempering bullish enthusiasm in the corn market. The crop, however, was reported as needing rain over a wide area as it is now in the critical stage of its growth. Local sentiment was affected by the rain reports, however, and with increased pressure prices declined and closed ¼@½c lower, with July at 31c; September, 32¼c, and December, 32½c. The country sold 70,000 bu to arrive. Eastern demand was again slow.

Deferred deliveries of oats sold at a new low for the season, while the July equaled the inside figure established late last week.

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM

Butter and egg futures scored slight gains on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ⅛@¼c and eggs ½c higher. Buying was fair in both markets early, butter moving up ¼c, but pressure increased near the close, erasing part of the November advance. The four market storage movement of 110,000 lbs heavier than last year induced new selling and profit taking. The egg report also was less favorable, the shortage being reduced 5,800 cases, but new buying held the market firm. Sales: Butter, 43 cars; eggs, 39 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 3 cars. Prices follow:

WHEN WE SAY LEADS WE MEAN LEADS

Hundreds of salesmen in Chicago have been clamoring for a chance to work on real authentic appointment leads. Don't confuse them with the kind generally handed out or those taken from telephone books. We realize these were of no value; however, we have the real article now, where definite time appointments have been made and where the customer expects you at a stated time. It's new. It's different. It's your opportunity. So apply today.

WHEN WE SAY LEADS WE MEAN LEADS

Hundreds of salesmen in Chicago have been clamoring for a chance to work on real authentic appointment leads. Don't confuse them with the kind generally handed out or those taken from telephone books. We realize these were of no value; however, we have the real article now, where definite time appointments have been made and where the customer expects you at a stated time. It's new. It's different. It's your opportunity. So apply today.
